

MAN FOUND DEAD

In Flames That Threatened His New Home

John Dahlgren of West Adams Street the Victim — The Suicide Theory Not Credited by Chief Hosmer

John Dahlgren, an iron moulder, was found dead in the attic of his new two-tenement house at 995 Westford street early this morning.

He was found by the firemen who responded to an alarm from box 285 at 4:34 o'clock and the house was in flames when they arrived. It was at first believed that the man had been suffocated but the fact that a piece of window cord was tied in a hangman's knot about his throat gave the impression that it was suicide. The cord had been burned off a foot or more from the knot and while the skin was charred or cracked there was not the impression about the throat that such a cord would be likely to make, and this was explained by the fact that the cord was below his shirt collar and that the latter was between the cord and his neck.

John Dahlgren lived with his wife and daughter at 52 West Adams street. For years he had been an iron moulder at Peavey's foundry in Walker street and by being prudent had saved money enough to warrant him in building a house. It was said, however, that he was dependent of late because the house cost much more than he anticipated.

When the firemen arrived at the scene of the fire and tragedy the flames were flashing through the attic windows. The fire originated in a barrel in the cellar, the barrel having contained chips and other debris. The barrel was resting on the cellar stairs and all doors were opened to the attic so that there was sufficient draft to send the flames upward in lightning time.

Some people gave utterance this morning to the belief that John Dahlgren, despondent and weary, went to the house shortly before four o'clock, started the fire in the cellar and opened all doors to the attic, the place which he selected for his death scene.

Chief Hosmer does not believe that Dahlgren set the fire because it had gained such headway when the firemen arrived, and theirs was a straight clear run from the fire house to the fire and if the man committed suicide, Chief Hosmer says he did it while temporarily insane; that he went to the house, found the fire licking its way from the cellar and, coupled with previous despondency, it so turned his head that he decided to end it all.

Mrs. Dahlgren, whose condition is now critical because of the tragedy, said that her husband left home about twenty minutes to five o'clock this morning. They were to move into the house new Monday and he was to arrange today for the completion of gas fittings.

Chief Hosmer and others think that Mrs. Dahlgren made a mistake on the time that her husband left the house; that he left shortly before 4 rather than shortly before 5 o'clock.

When the body was first discovered it was supposed to be that of Samuel Robertson, a fishman, but Robertson was found safe, sound and solid in the flesh a few hours later.

A policeman had been despatched to John Dahlgren's home in West Adams street to apprise him of the fact that his house was burning and when the policeman got there he found that Mr. Dahlgren had left home earlier in the morning.

Mr. Dahlgren's little girl then went to the scene of the fire and asked Chief Hosmer if he had seen her papa. A minute before the little girl arrived Chief Hosmer had picked up a coat and the little girl immediately recognized it as her father's coat, hence her question to the chief who placed the little girl in his wagon and took her home.

On the way to West Adams street he met Mrs. Dahlgren and he persuaded her to return home and the news of her husband's death was broken to her as easily as possible. The shock proved too much for her and she became hysterical. A physician was summoned and it was said that her condition was serious.

John Dahlgren's body was removed to the parlors of Undertakers J. R. O'Donnell & Sons in Market street where it remained to be viewed by the medical examiner. The man's clothing was not burned but the intense heat had cracked the skin on his hands and face, but to the ordinary eye there wasn't any signs of strangulation.

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the Dahlgren residence on Westford street.

CROWDS ENTERING GROUNDS AT DETROIT.

A GREAT BATTLE

Chicago and Detroit Meet in First Contest Today

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—Incomparable Chicago trains today brought enthusiasts bent on witnessing the first of the Olympic struggles between the Detroit and Chicago teams for the championship of the world. They were a brave and confident minority which haunted the "Cub" banners amidst the multitude of "Tiger" emblems displayed by a no less confident majority. Before daylight the enthusiasts began forming in line before the ticket windows at Bennett park waiting for the sale of general admission tickets to open up at 5 o'clock. Many who had had no breakfast at home munched sandwiches and still had enough left in their pockets or packages which they carried for luncheon at noon. They were taking no chances. All of the reserved seats for today's games were sold within two hours yesterday, leaving hundreds of would-be purchasers unsatisfied. Many of these were to be found in the less ambitious line today. Medicine Hat and the areas of high barometer and low barometer worked together in a harmony worthy of the cause to the great satisfaction of the weather man who had predicted fair and warm weather with just a tinge of autumn crispness. Expressions of gratification were heard on every hand that both teams were in excellent condition and fit to play the best ball of their already brilliant careers. The list of injured is fortunately short. Catcher Schmidt of Detroit donned his uniform despite a finger, the condition of which would have kept a less plucky player from playing. No less Spartan was the conduct of Shortstop O'Leary who ignored a badly bruised thumb. Captain Chance showed no effects of the blow which he received in the neck at New York except in the huskiness and faintness of his voice.

Shortstop Hust, whose sensational work was a factor in Detroit's initial dash for the pennant, was unhappy. He was ineligible to play, having joined the club too late in the season.

President E. J. Navin of the Detroit club has erected in the outfield a tier of circus seats which extended to left field foul line over to the pavilion in right field. They would accommodate 10,000 spectators in addition to the normal seating capacity of the park. Altogether there were accommodations for between 18,000 and 20,000 persons with space left for those who were enthusiastic enough to sit upon the ground or stand to watch the contest.

The batting order this morning was announced as follows: Detroit—McIntyre, 1f; O'Leary, ss; Crawford, cf; Cobb, rf; Rossman, 1b; Schaefer, 3b; Schmidt, c; Downs, 2b; Kilian, p.

Chicago—Sheppard, 1f; Evers, 2b; Schulte, rf; Chance, 1b; Steinfield, 3b; Hoffman, cf; Tinker, ss; Kling, c; Reulbach, p.

FATALLY INJURED

Caught in a Belt and Wound Around a Shaft in Belvidere Mill No. 2 — Little Hope of His Recovery

William S. Corcoran, residing at 51 South Whipple street, was probably fatally injured by being wound around a shafting at the Belvidere No. 2 mill in Lawrence street about ten o'clock this morning.

The man was working around a machine when his clothing got caught in a belt and he was whirled around the shafting three or four times. The belt was travelling at such a high rate of speed over the pulleys that before any of his fellow employes could stop the machinery he was whirled around the shafting three or four times after which he fell to the floor badly bruised, cut and bleeding. The ambulance was summoned and the injured man was hurried to St. John's hospital where an examination showed that he was suffering from a broken nose, fracture of the skull, several ribs broken and in all probability internally injured. Little hope is entertained for his recovery.

At St. Michael's Church

On Thursday evening next there will be a drill of the Holy Name society of St. Michael's parish under the direction of Sergt. Maj. Moore of the United States Marine corps who conducted the highly successful drill of Thursday evening last. The officers for the coming parade in Boston are P. R. Monahan, chief marshal, John McCann and John Riley, assistant marshals. The securing the Lowell military band, James A. Murphy, leader, by this organization is a guarantee that the best of music will be furnished for the parade.

Sacred Heart Church

The quarterly communion of the Holy Name Society of the Sacred Heart church will be held at 8 o'clock mass tomorrow morning. On Tuesday evening next, in the school hall, Andrew street there will be a meeting and smoke talk of this organization, at which there will be an address by Prof. Hugh J. Molloy of the Lowell State Normal school. The weekly drill of the society in preparation for the parade of Nov. 1, are being held under the direction of Mr. Owen Farrell who is training the men to military steps.

Suburban Churches

At St. Andrew's church, North Billerica, St. John's, North Chelmsford, St. Catherine's, Grantville, and St. Mary's, Collinsville, the members of the Holy Name societies have held successful drills and will hold more the coming week in preparation for the big Boston demonstration.

There will be a meeting of the Ladies of Charity at St. John's hospital, tomorrow afternoon at 4 p.m. Officers will be elected and other business of importance will be transacted. Rev. Joseph Lefebvre, O. M. I., is chaplain of the French-American orphanage, and celebrates mass daily for the Sisters of Charity in their private chapel.

CLASS PARTY

Of Lowell Training School Held Last Night

The class of 1908, Lowell Training school, conducted a delightful dancing party in Lincoln hall last night and the event was attended by about seventy-five couples, including many from out of town. Bamber's orchestra furnished pleasing music for dancing. At intermission light refreshments were served. Misses Eugene Frappier and Alice Lench were the managers of the pretty event, assisted by the other members of the class.

THE IRISH LEAGUE

To Meet in Harrington Hall Tomorrow Night

The United Irish league will hold an important meeting in Harrington hall, 52 Central street, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Hibernian hall, the regular place of meeting, will be occupied by a convention.

A local clergyman will deliver an address and there will be a musical program by prominent local singers.

An important matter to receive the attention of the meeting is the arrangements for the reception of the Irish envoys. Hon. Joseph Devlin, M. P., and Rev. Richard McGhee, at Associate hall, a week from tomorrow, the envoys bring cheering intelligence to the friends of Ireland relative to the progress made in the Irish movement during the past few years. They come to assure the friends of the cause in this city that home rule for Ireland is now inevitable.

The laudable situation presents itself of a coterie of the House of Lords preparing a home rule bill for Ireland to effect, the measure that the British ministry whether Tory or Liberal must soon grant. A large attendance is requested at tomorrow's meeting.

FUNERALS

QUINN—The funeral of Miss Mary T. Quinn took place this morning at 3:30. High mass of requiem was sung by Rev. T. Wadsworth, at 9 o'clock at the Sacred Heart church. The boys' choir under the direction of Mrs. Adelaide Muldoon rendered the Gregorian chant. There were a number of floral pieces from friends of the deceased. The bearers were: John Tarrant, John Quinn, John Farrell, Henry J. Rogers, James Quinn and Bartholomew Gallagher. Burial took place in the Catholic cemetery, Rev. Fr. Smith read the prayers at the grave. Undertaker J. F. Rogers in charge. The floral tributes included a large pillow from the family, inscribed "Sister," wreath of roses inscribed "Aunt Mary" from Mr. John Quinn and family; cross on base with the inscription "At Rest," Mr. and Mrs. James Quinn; large wreath of roses from Mr. Kelley; wreath of galax leaves from a friend.

WRIST BROKEN

John Fury, aged 14 years and living at 126 Adams street, while playing or a shed in the rear of his house, fell over the side and broke his left wrist. The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to St. John's hospital, where he received attendance.

IN POLICE COURT

Judge Objects to Saloon Men Bailing Drunks

"I don't want any rum-seller from whom you get your liquor to go up and bail you out of jail," was the remark made by Judge Hadley in police court this morning after continuing the case of Robert Farley until next Wednesday morning.

Farley was charged with being drunk and he entered a plea of guilty. Patrolman Hill testified that Farley got crazy drunk and drove his family out of doors after breaking up practically all of the furniture in the house.

Farley's only defense was that the furniture which he broke belonged to him. The court decided that a few days' rest in jail would do the prisoner some good and after continuing the case till Wednesday made the remark that he did not want a liquor dealer to bail the man out.

The fact that Stephen Shaughnessy was a wife and children dependent upon him caused Judge Hadley to be lenient and instead of giving the defendant a direct sentence, gave him a suspended sentence of three months. In jail and placed him in the hands of the probation officer for one year.

Catherine Connors and Mary Carroll, second offenders, were fined $5 each. There were three first offenders who were taxed the usual $2.

Cornelius Sullivan, who claims lunacy as his home, was arrested the night before last and yesterday morning was released by the probation officer. Con, however, started to celebrate his good luck in escaping from his lockup by getting intoxicated. He was escorted to the station last night.

The old house and the new should have a WINCHESTER HEATER.

VELCH BROS., Middle St.

and in court this morning was fined $5 and if the money is not forthcoming he will be sentenced to the house of correction in Cambridge.

William Campbell, of South Boston, was fined $5 because it was the second time he appeared before the court within a year, and if his fine is not paid he will also spend a few days at the house of correction in Cambridge.

Michael J. Carroll and Bridget Kelley were charged with fornication. Both entered pleas of not guilty. Sergt. Atkinson and Patrolman Frank Donovan, who made the arrests, testified to the facts and the couple were fined $15 each.

In the case of George Richard, charged with the larceny of $15 from Omer Laine on the 22nd of September, the government asked for a continuance and the case will be heard Monday morning.

British Pensioner

James Bradley was charged with failing to provide proper support for his family since the first of last May. He pleaded guilty and the court remanded him in a severe manner after hearing the testimony of his wife. Mrs. Bradley, a woman of slight build, with an infant in her arms and a bright looking little boy of about four years, following her to the stand, testified that her husband left her last May and after waiting a week for his return she had to give up her home and go to Worcester, where her sister took care of her.

The government brought out the fact that Bradley is a pensioner of the British army and last Wednesday embarked in a steamer for Europe, but owing to the fact that the steamer was filled he was refused passage. Judge Hadley sentenced Bradley to three months in jail and informed the prisoner that if he gave any signs of contrition while incarcerated in jail the probation officer would take him out.

Stole Metal Castings

Stanislaw Glowinski, through his counsel, J. Joseph Hennessy, pleaded guilty to two complaints of larceny. In the first complaint he was charged with the larceny of 130 pounds of metal castings valued at $5 cents a pound, the property of the Lowell Machine shop and in the second complaint with the larceny of a saw valued at $1.50 a gauge valued at $10 and a soldering iron worth $1, also the property of the aforementioned corporation.

The defendant was a yard hand in the "big shop" and had been employed there for the past three or four years. After stealing the castings Glowinski sold some of them and the remainder were found under his bed in Front street by Corporation Officer Noyes and Patrolman Dennett.

Glowinski was found guilty on both counts and was fined $20 on the first count and $15 on the second.

FUNERAL NOTICES

LYNCH—The funeral of Anna Teresa Lynch, beloved daughter of John J. and Mary (Sullivan) Lynch, will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home of her parents, 2 West Adams street, and burial will take place in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery, under the direction of Undertaker John A. Finnegan.

COKE COKE COKE

THREE TIMES as good as you imagine you will find GUT COKE as a winter fuel. If you will but give it a fair try out. Look under any conditions of drought, you will find it CHEAPER, CLEANER, more ECONOMIC, than any fuel you have ever used. We can give you names and addresses of hundreds of Lowell families who use fuel of no other kind save for kindling—and coke ranges from less kindling than the best quality of coal you ever saw. It ignites quickly.

We know we are going to sell more coke next winter than ever before. We know we shall be pushed when the cold weather sets in. Let us advise you now. During cold weather you do not need to advertise. If the war is scratching the varnish on the most dear resource you can buy in small quantities—everywhere on the street in half-barrels containing half bushels for ten cents.

CATHOLIC NEWS

The Parishes Preparing for the Boston Parade

There will be a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock of the officers of the different sodalities of the Immaculate Conception church to make arrangements for the parish reunion of Wednesday afternoon and evening, Oct. 21. Great preparations are being made to have the coming reunion excel those of the past. A feature of the occasion will be the formation and parade of children of the parish from the Immaculate Conception school to the Associate hall on the afternoon of the day of the reunion.

There will be a meeting of the Holy Name society of the Immaculate Conception church tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The monthly meeting of the Immaculate Conception Sodality will be held in the basement of the church Tuesday evening immediately after the rosary devotion.

Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O. M. I., of the Vincentian Order of Mission Fathers, was in after this week at the parishal residence of the Oblate Fathers of the Immaculate Conception church. Father Sullivan came from Emmitsburg, Md., having been visiting Loyola, Md., on his order in Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and St. John's of Lowell, all of which are conducted by Sisters of the Vincentian Order.

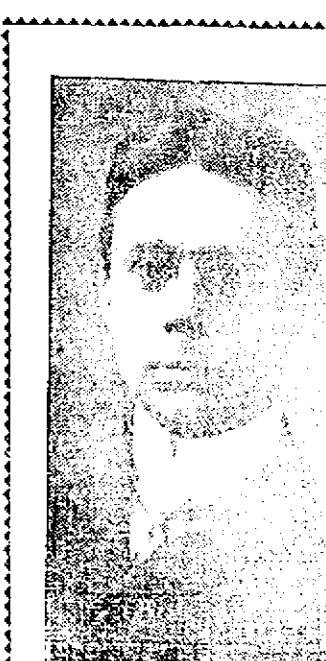

The O. M. I. Cadets held a very successful street drill last night. The cadets of the Immaculate Conception school held under the direction of Lieut. Bernard E. McArdle in preparation for the parade in Boston on Nov. 1. The next drill will be held on Tuesday night of the coming week.

HIS MIND AFFECTED IN REAL ESTATE

South Boston Man Shot Himself and His Son

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—Bartholomew J. Donovan, 50 years old, mentally unbalanced from the effects of an accident experienced 30 years ago, yesterday morning fired three shots at his wife without hitting her, sent a bullet into the abdomen of his son and then shot himself in the head at his home, 220 West 4th street, South Boston. Father and son are in the City hospital. At first it was thought the elder man would die, but later it was believed he would recover.

The shooting was the first thing that happened in the household after the father arose soon after 6 o'clock. Mrs. Donovan had set about getting breakfast. She was standing at the kitchen stove when she heard the first shot, which was directed at her. She did not know of her husband's entrance and she thought the sound an explosion in the stove. A second shot grazed her head and then she turned and saw her husband holding a smoking revolver. He fired a third time, but this bullet went wild and Mrs. Donovan fled screaming to another room.

Donovan next went upstairs and into the room of his son, George H. Donovan, aged 17, who was dressing, and fired a shot which struck the younger man in the abdomen. Then the father fired a bullet from a second revolver into his own head directly over the eye. He fell to the floor near where his son was lying helpless.

Mrs. Donovan ran out and found Patrolmen Blah and Carroll, who summoned an ambulance and Dr. Keenan. On the way to the hospital and after arriving the elder Donovan said he wished to die. A careful examination of his injuries showed them to be less serious than was thought at first. Donovan suffered injury to his head, 20 years ago while working on a railroad, and has been unable to work since. He has been despondently inclined, and at times his mind has been affected. Where he got the revolver is not known. The family came from Galveston, Texas, 25 years ago, and is much respected in South Boston, where the seven sons and daughters are well known. George Donovan is married and is a salesman for a large Boston concern.

MONKEYS KILLED FR. MATHEW DAY

Three Found Wild in Forest Trees

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 10.—Things are warming up about Seekonk and already it has been proven the climate is warm enough for monkeys to live in trees. Three have already been taken, two dead and one alive.

Mark Elderkin of this city first started the natives by returning from the hunt with a simian dangling from his belt along with some muskrat and raccoon skins. Mark asserted he shot the animal in the woods in Seekonk. The doubting Thomases could not deny he had the animal. They knew his reputation for truth and veracity was excellent and it was evident he was not jesting. So there was nothing left but to accept the statement that monkeys inhabit the woods of Seekonk.

George Sederquist determined to satisfy himself in the matter—George has a Misquid disposition when it comes to a report that monkeys run wild in Rhode Island—and so he buristured up his frisky shotgun and bled himself to the woods of Seekonk to hunt monkeys.

George had not gone far into the forest when he stopped to rub his eyes. He seemed to see a real simian near at hand. He hesitated a moment what to do. Then he decided to take aim and fire. Acting on the impulse he lifted his gun. Bling! Down came a monkey. Sederquist saw the dead animal strike the ground. Then he saw other things. He saw a baby monkey, which he determined to take alive and did so. With this capture and the body of another monkey he concluded he had done enough for one day and returned to the city. The news of his catch spread and he soon sold the baby monkey for $5.

Since the capture of the monkeys there is much discussion among the people of the town about the advisability of urging President Roosevelt to change his plans for hunting in the African jungles and invite him to invade the thickets of Seekonk.

SOME BUSINESS, HOWEVER, AND MILLS ASK BETTER TERMS

The demand for yarns is less active, but some very fair business has been booked by southern mills for delivery to knitters during October, November and December. One order for 150,000 pounds of southern frame cones was based on 15½¢ to 15½¢ for 10s, the higher figure being named for the October delivery, which will be lighter than those of the two later months. There is some stiffening on the part of the mills, either because the market in a very abundant cotton crop has changed in the Carolinas, or because the mills have now started on low-priced contracts and are willing to wait before accepting further business at a loss.

Knitters have been the best buyers in this market, and the New York and western mills have bought more freely than the Pennsylvania or New England mills. Occasionally some very low prices are heard of, but as a whole the market tone is slightly firmer than it was a week or more ago. Plush weavers, some of the smaller upholstery concerns, a few of the lace curtain mills, and some of the narrow fabric manufacturers have been the best purchasers of weaving yarns, but their takings have rarely exceeded 50,000 pounds in one order. The blanket dress goods, carpet, and men's wear weavers have bought comparatively little.

The competition in the yarn trade this fall is the keenest some of the oldest dealers have ever known. They say they would not care to state some of the prices at which business has been done. Current quotations in this market are generally called low, but so many instances have occurred of business being taken five and eight cents lower, and that too on long contracts, that the houses selling at the market level are considered themselves quite fortunate. At the same time, it is true beyond question that some yarn mills are doing considerably better than a basis of 15½¢ for 10s cones.

NURSES' ALUMNAE

The Nurses' Alumnae association of the Lowell General hospital met Wednesday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. The attendance was large and after the regular business had been transacted the members discussed plans for a sale to be held early in December.

FR. MATHEW DAY

Local Society Will Observe it

Today, October 10th, is a day dear to the heart of every temperance worker, for it marks the 118th anniversary of the birth of Rev. Theobald Mathew, the "Apostle of Temperance," and wherever a temperance society exists his memory will be fittingly honored and his works extolled. Locally, the celebration will not be on a very large scale, but the Mathew Institute plans to make it most enjoyable, however. The observance will be in the nature of an entertainment, which will be held tomorrow (Sunday) in the rooms of the society with an address by some prominent speaker. John J. Coyne, the hustling president, will preside over the exercises.

Parade in Haverhill

The Essex County T. A. union is holding its annual parade in Haverhill, this afternoon and the Shoe City is crowded with visitors.

Work in Lowell

Organized total abstinence work, heretofore, has been eminently successful the past year and the membership in each society is rapidly growing. The Mathews, Burkes, Mathews of North Billerica, St. John's T. A. S. of North Chelmsford, and the famous Lowell Reform club, still in the movement, each report great interest in the work and hope for still larger memberships.

C. T. A. U. Meeting

The semi-annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of the Archdiocese will be held in Brookline Sunday, and several important projects are to be discussed. The selection of a president to succeed Rev. Francis J. Butler, resigned, will be the big drawing card for the delegates and several candidates are in the field. Several recommendations relative to the offers of prizes to societies for new members will come up for adoption. Other minor matters will be attended to. President Coyne will head a delegation from the Mathews, while President McEneaney will, with two others, represent the St. John's society of North Chelmsford. Lowell members of the board of district deputies will also attend.

May Parade in Lowell

Prominent total abstinence workers are of the opinion that one year hence would be a most opportune time for the holding of a big state parade of total abstinence forces in Lowell, and it is not unlikely that the proposition will meet with favor, not only in Lowell but elsewhere where the Lowell society is famed for its work.

BOARD OF TRADE

JUDGES FOR PHOTOGRAPHIC CONTEST SELECTED

The five persons who will act as judges on the amateur photographic contest of the "City Beautiful" have been selected by the board of trade committee. Their names are: Rev. Thos. J. Billings, vice-president of the Lowell Art association, chairman; Mr. Harvey B. Greene of the park commission and city beautiful committee; Mr. Robert Wescott, Miss Mary Robinson, Mr. George A. Nelson.

THE BRIGHAM LECTURES

Announcement is made today in another column that Nat. M. Brigham, who is now completing a very successful engagement in the West, will open in New England later in the month, lecturing in Colonial hall in this city on October 20, 27, Nov. 3 and 10. He will give the four illustrated lectures that have attracted such wide attention, "The Apache Warpath," "The Men Who Won the West," "From Coronado to Kit Carson," and "The Grand Canyon of Arizona." Mr. Brigham, as it happens, has a host of friends in this city, for he sang in a well known quartet here years ago, soon after he was graduated from Harvard, and before he went West to hunt big game and become a plainsman. Probably no American today is so well entitled to tell the wonderful story of our western frontier. The sale of tickets will open at Ellingwood's drugstore on Monday.

DEFENDS WOMEN

Cardinal Gibbons Says That They Are Not Idle

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Cardinal Gibbons, in an interview published here yesterday, made what might be called a corrective reply to Dr. Andrew McPhail, who in an article published in the London paper recently was quoted as declaring that American women are idle and unhappy.

"American women of a certain class and a limited number," says the cardinal, "perhaps are the idlest and unhappiest in the world. I refer to those of exorbitant wealth, some of whom have neither religious principles nor domestic virtues to restrain them, and employ vast fortunes merely for the gratification of their passions. But also there is a portion of our very wealthy class that lives quietly and virtuously. Against them and against our middle and poorer classes the charge of idleness is absolutely unfair."

Cardinal Gibbons went on to say that the foreign critic of America gets a distorted view of American social life from the scandals and divorces he reads in the newspapers, seeming to be unaware of the fact of a million happy homes which never get into print.

"The really good women of America whose lives are actuated by sound principles," he continued, "that is, the majority of them, never get into the society that the foreigner sees. He draws his unfavorable conclusions from a few extraordinary women who spend their lives and wealth in the pursuit of mad and meaningless pleasure. Of them the foreign critic of which you speak is entirely just. This should be deplored as much by Americans as by foreigners."

The interviewer told the cardinal that Dr. McPhail likens the woman who works to a trick dog, and the cardinal replied that he admired the woman who works. "But that is a grave economical problem, which I would not discuss offhand," he added.

The boy of Brooklyn college yesterday received the pope's blessing through the medium of the cardinal. The cardinal visited the college at the solicitation of its president, Fr. Connor.

INJURIES FATAL IN THE PULPITS

Woman Was Crushed Under an Auto

AUBURN, Me., Oct. 10.—Dr. Charles E. Williams, a prominent physician of this city, and Mrs. Williams were the victims of an automobile accident at Curtis Corner, in Leeds, about 6 o'clock last night. Their machine was overturned, pinning them beneath it.

Mrs. Williams died a short time after she had been removed from the wreck, and the condition of Dr. Williams was so serious that several physicians from this city were summoned to attend him.

Dr. and Mrs. Williams were on their way to their summer camp on Androscoggin lake in Leeds. At the foot of Bishop's hill, in Wayne, the machine was stalled in a sandy spot. It is thought that the doctor grasped the car bar back against an embankment and turned turtle, pinning both Dr. and Mrs. Williams under it.

No one saw the accident, and it was probably 20 minutes or half an hour later that a girl on her way home from school discovered the overturned machine by the roadside and summoned assistance. Mrs. Williams was badly crushed and when the heavy car was lifted from her she was scarcely breathing. Dr. Williams was also severely injured, being unable to use either his hands or feet.

Mrs. Williams died a short time after she had been taken to the home of Russell Pottinger, nearby. Dr. Williams, who was taken to the same house, remained there last night under the care of several physicians who were summoned from Auburn. They believe he will recover.

MELROSE MAN

HELD FOR PASSING ALLEGED WORTHLESS CHECKS

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 10.—Edward T. Barker, who says he hails from Melrose, Mass., is detained at police headquarters awaiting investigation by the authorities of several checks alleged to have been passed by him which are reported as forgeries. Barker arrived in Manchester some time during the first of the week and visited various places at the West End where it is said he indulged freely in wet goods. It is alleged that he paid for his drinks with checks drawn on banks in Massachusetts, which were accepted by the proprietors of the places visited.

After one of the checks had been accepted the recipient called up the First National bank and asked if the checks were good. Inquiry by the bank officials of the bank of which the checks were drawn developed the fact that the checks were worthless. The police were notified and Barker was arrested. The checks in question are still out and until they are brought in to be cashed, the authorities are working on other branches of the case. Inspector Clifton B. Hildreth has been sent to various places in Massachusetts to investigate claims of the detained man.

BILLERICA

The regular meeting of Billerica grange was held Thursday night. During the lecture hour there was a debate on woman suffrage, "Should Women Vote?" The affirmative was upheld by Mrs. Alexander, Dr. Howland and F. A. D. Singh. The negative side was upheld by George P. Greenwood, Sydney A. Bull and Edward F. Dickinson. By a vote of the grange the affirmative side had the best of the argument. The grange was also favored by the presence of Past State Master George S. Ladd of Sturbridge and State Deputy George E. Crosby of Tewksbury. Invitations were received from Westford and Wilmington to visit them on "Neighbors' Night." A number of applications for membership were received. At the next meeting, Oct. 22, State Lecturer Charles M. Gardner and Mrs. Gardner will be present.

SOME BIG PRIZES

For the Great Auto Race at Long Island Motor Park

LONG ISLAND MOTOR PARK, Oct. 10.—Five miles east of Garden City and about an hour's train ride on Broadway at the middle of a year, three-mile straightaway cemented stretch of the new million dollar motor parkway in which its 2 1/2 miles outline of racing way encloses a track shaped like the state of North Carolina, there began to gather just after dawn many speed enthusiasts for the sport promised when the various powered converted stock motor cars were sent away in the five classes of $1000 prize sweepstakes, the Meadowbrook, 225 miles, selling at $2000 to $4000; Garden City, 200 miles, $1000 to $2000; Jericho, 150 miles, $1000 to $2000, and the Nassau sweepstakes, 10 miles, $1000 and under.

The consensus of opinion of the early arrivals was that the track in its particulars is excellent. The new section of concrete promised great possibilities for speed but for accidents as well. The hard gray roadway of concrete is but 22 feet wide and nicely muscled and eye will be very necessary when the three cars set side by side. Strong wire fences set 35 feet back shut in the course on either side. The repaired section of track is wider and has been put in prime condition. Tolling and nearly 25,000 gallons of oil laid. The entire surface is dustless. Just before 9 o'clock the cars for the various sweepstakes were lined up back of the starting point. The race was ready for the series of half-minute sendaways of the five classes. The attendance at that time was small. The stiff breeze of the earlier morning had become a wind and off across the meadows a fog began to roll up.

Of the cars entered all reported excepting J. 17, G. 23, M. 31, and M. 33. First, the comparatively midged Nassau entries were dismissed one by one, the eight original entries. Then at 9:05 seven Jerichos sputtered off; the Garden City group began to whizz away at 9:10, seven of them. The Meadowbrook pulled their speed levers at 9:15, and the big fellows of the day, the Motor Parkway entries, started on their 250-mile grind at 9:20.

The smaller cars held their own against their more formidable rivals for the first lap. N. 3 had the honor of being the first car around the course, covering the 22 1/2 miles in the excellent time of 30:53. J. 11 led the other cars by several minutes at the end of the first 23 1/2. P. 42, the Italian car, was the first of the machines in the big race to make the circuit, followed by P. 45.

M. 23, first away in the Meadowbrook, maintained its lead in the early part of the race with M. 36 a close second and the rest of the field stretched out far behind.

UNABLE TO WALK AND SUFFERED GREAT PAIN

"This winter I was troubled with rheumatism so badly that I was unable to walk, and suffered all pain that I think it possible for any one to be afflicted with and live. I consulted several prominent physicians and took dose after dose of different prescriptions, but to no avail. Finally I thought—as a drowning man grasps at the proverbial straw—I would give Dr. Grady's Pure Malt and Rye a trial. I took four bottles only, and was completely restored to my former vigor, and enabled to attend to work with my usual activity. I can thank God with a sincere heart that I thoroughly believe in its virtues, and advise all sufferers from the terrible fiend to follow my example. Just think of it! My appetite was gone, and after the first bottle I could feel its cheering effects by becoming hungry and finally when the rheumatism deserted me I could eat ravenously. I am seventy-five years old and am perfectly well, thanks to Dr. Grady's Pure Malt and Rye." Yours sincerely,

GRADY'S MALT AND RYE CO., LOWELL, MASS.

FRANK LALOR IN PRINCE HUMBOLDT

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

This afternoon and evening will be repeated the pleasing melodrama, "The Life of an Actress." The initial performance in Lowell of last evening gave excellent satisfaction to a highly delighted audience.

"Mary Melrose," leading woman at the Lyric theatre, had come originally from Grigsby's station, where her parents had belonged to the farming class. Mary had plenty of talent and so sought the great white way of some big city. She fell in with people who were anxious to turn her into the paths not primed with righteousness. They pretty nearly succeeded in doing it, but a clubman who was of the party and who had a speck of manhood in him jumped up and saved Mary from a drugging. Of course the low down folk gathered there didn't like this bit, and there swore one long revenge. How they bickered after it and tried to pull the game for five acts furnishes certainly a thrilling story.

A MILLIONAIRE'S REVENGE

Next Monday afternoon and evening, October 12th, the attraction at the Opera House will be the sensational melodrama, "The Millionaire's Revenge," a play that was one of the most successful of last season's popular priced bookings here. This company played a three-day engagement here last year to the capacity of the theatre at each performance, and at that time was pronounced one of the best plays of the melodramatic type that had ever been seen on the local stage. The play is based on the "Tale of White Tragedy," and graphically pictures the tragic events of this famous case. The company presenting this play this season is one of merit and in every respect equal to that of last year. A popular scale of prices has been arranged for the engagement and seats are now on sale.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

"Bunco in Arizona," that stirring melodrama which has been presented during the week at the Academy of Music by the Deshon-Pitt Stock company, will be presented for the last time today.

The play has made a decided hit. It has been unusually well staged under the direction of Charles D. Pitt, with its presentation at the hands of the company has been such as to win very favorable comment from the Academy patrons. Its story is unusually interesting in itself, but the combination of excellent company and splendid setting has added the finishing touch.

Miss Della Deshon in the title role is delightful as always. Her part is far from an easy one to carry properly, but she has been equal to every difficulty. Victor Browne as the hero lover has also added to the laurels he had already won in his career in this city.

As a matter of fact the company needs little comment, for it has already made a name for itself of which it may well feel proud. All of the roles are taken with unusual merit. There are in the cast Harry Horne, Jean L. Woodruff, Andrew Glasford, William D. Steadman, Billie Lusk and A. S. McCloskey. For the female roles appear Miss Annie Allen, Miss Marie Pitt and Miss Christal Benson. The parts are good and their interpretation better.

The play will be given this afternoon and evening. Next week the company will present another drama new to Lowell, "A Girl's Best Friend."

THEATRE VOYONS

An all-round pleasing show with several novelties is the offering at the Theatre Voyons today. A Sadie's Sweetheart is a crackjack drama finely acted and consistent in story. "Palermo and its Surroundings" is a truly great travel picture for it shows scenes and places in this old world city that are of the greatest interest. "The Basket Party" is a very funny comedy and has been bringing laughs all the week. "Leah the Forsaken" is a fine comedy, with clever dialogue, laughable scenes and amusing characters, should not miss seeing Miss Marie Doro in "The Richest Girl," when this winsome and talented little actress comes to the Opera House next Tuesday, October 13th. Those who saw Miss Doro in "Charlie" and as "Charlotte," the Syrian wait and refugee, in "The Morals of Marcus" last season, will be doubly eager to follow her progress in the new vehicle which Charles Frohman has selected for her. As "Bertram's Mother," daughter of the chocolate king of France, Miss Doro realizes all that had been expected and more by the authors of "The Richest Girl," Messrs. Gavault and Moton.

FRANK LALOR

There was a very heavy demand for seats at the Opera House box office this morning when the sale opened for Frank Lalor's appearance in the new musical comedy, "Prince Humboldt," which will occur at that house next Wednesday matinee and night. This event is attracting unusual attention, a circumstance which was to have been expected in view of Mr. Lalor's popularity with Lowell theatregoers. Many thousands of people in this city have laughed until they were tired at this clever comedian's delightful performance of "Nott," "Lalor in Coming Time," "The Rye," and the announcement of his coming in a new character, expressly written for him, could not fail to awaken lively interest. That this interest does exist is not only demonstrated in the manner in which the advance sale has started, but by the receipt of hundreds of orders for seats by mail and phone. In view of these conditions it is now practically certain that Mr. Lalor will be greeted by an immense audience. From all accounts an exceedingly fine musical comedy has been provided for Mr. Lalor, one in which he has unlimited opportunities to display to the fullest extent those rare gifts with which he has been so abundantly endowed. It may be said of him without over indulgence in praise, that there is at least no better comedian in this line of work in this country, and it is equally certain that there are few as good.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Passaconaway Tribe of Red Men was held last night in Odd Fellows temple. Sachem George E. Sutherland presiding. The warriors' degree was exemplified on two candidates and the chief's degree will be performed at the next meeting. Quite a number of brothers have signified their intention of being present at the Lyran parade on the 25th. Remarks on degree work and the order in general were made by visiting chiefs from Berwick, Me., Lynn and Stoneham. At the close of the meeting a whist party was held and a social hour was enjoyed.

Lowell lodge, Knights of Pythias, met in regular session last night and arrangements were completed for the Lyran parade of the whist parties to take place next Thursday evening and continue throughout the winter. The committee has also arranged for suitable prizes which will be awarded to the winners.

At a meeting of Court Jeanne d'Arc, French American Foresters, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Chief forester, Miss Pauline; Elks' sub-chief forester, Miss Emma Lusk; treasurer, Miss Maria Favreau; financial secretary, Miss Regina; grand recording secretary, Miss Marie; first guard, Mrs. Ida; second guard, Miss Melina Lusk; first sentinel, Mrs. Anna Leiselle; second sentinel, Miss C. Gendron; first trustee, Miss Alma Lequin; second trustee, Miss Martha Favreau; third trustee, Mrs. E. Gendron; fourth trustee, Mrs. E. Gendron; fifth trustee, Mrs. E. Gendron; past chief forester, Mrs. Elodie Favreau.

HE ESCAPED DEATH

Diver Caught Under River With Air Tubes Cut Off

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—Pinned for 20 minutes many feet below the surface of the Charles river, with air tubes cut off and lifeline hopelessly entangled, David J. Curney of Quincy, a professional diver, barely escaped heading a death roll of the Charles river dam yesterday.

Curney, after a desperate struggle, evidence of which was apparent upon the surface, lapsed into unconsciousness and remained so for over 20 minutes while his comrades worked feverishly with a derrick to raise the wooden sewer outlet which pinned him down.

When taken from the water he was to all appearance a dead man. After physicians had worked over him for half an hour, however, he showed signs of life, and last night it was said at the City hospital that he will recover.

The experience of Curney is one of the most remarkable in local submarine annals.

He was employed on the lighter in charge of Hiram W. Phillips, and was engaged in making alterations to the outlet of the sewerage conduit running from the big catch basin at the foot of Berkeley street to the bottom of the Charles river. When Curney descended, he told his line watcher to be extremely careful in responding to signals, as he anticipated some trouble in executing the work below without getting his air tube entangled.

The task which Curney was to perform was to replace a heavy coil of chains, used as a weight, which had slipped from the inside of the wooden funnel, and was dangling over the end. The water at that point is about 20 feet deep.

Curney had been down about 10 minutes when the watcher, Mr. Phillips, felt the signal to pull up. He immediately prepared to do so, when the life-line became taut, and the excited jerky yanks upon the signal rope told that the diver was in distress.

Calling for help, Mr. Phillips used every effort to liberate the imprisoned worker by pulling his belt, but it was soon evident that Curney's predicament was too serious for such a remedy. John Jacobson, another diver aboard the lighter, hurriedly donned his diving suit, and was lowered to the assistance of the other.

In Death Struggles

To his horror, Jacobson found his comrade apparently in his death struggles. He was pinned under the heavy chain, and his life and air lines were entangled beyond use. Jacobson tried to raise him, but could not. Curney's strength seemed to be slowly ebbing, and his frantic struggles gradually ceased.

Jacobson, knowing that only heroic efforts could help the man, quickly signalled to be taken up. As he pulled off his helmet he gasped: "Rig the derrick; he's dying!"

The five men aboard the lighter, under the direction of Mr. Phillips, worked feverishly, swinging the arm of the derrick over the outlet and connecting the lifting chain with the end of the sunken funnel. Strenuous as their labors were the operation occupied nearly 20 minutes.

When the signal to start the engine to pull up the funnel was given Curney's struggles had ceased.

Exactly 24 minutes from the time that Curney gave the signal of distress the wooden funnel was pulled to the surface and with it the unconscious form of Curney, still tangled in the chain. His lines were unbroken and his suit undamaged, so that no water had reached him.

When taken from the uniform the diver gave every appearance of having met death by strangulation. His face was discolored and his body perfectly lifeless.

13 WERE DROWNED

German Steamers Were in Collision

HAMBURG, Oct. 10.—The German steamers Pretoria and Nipponia have been in collision in the fog off Scheveningen. Thirteen of the Nipponia's crew, including the captain, were drowned. The Pretoria was not damaged.

COMPANY K

WILL BE PRESENT DURING INAUGURATION WEEK

The members of Company K of the Sixth regiment are planning to be present as a military body during the inauguration week in Washington. At a meeting of the company held last night it was unanimously voted to attend.

The troops have a special train to Washington, with short layoffs in the various large cities to permit a hurried inspection of the points of interest. Practically the entire week of the ceremonies of inducting a new president into office will be spent in the capital city.

The committee appointed last night consists of Capt. James N. Greig, First Lieut. John Rogers, Sergt. Jerome Searle, Sergt. John Davis, Corp. Winfred C. MacBrayne and Privates Andrew Y. Rodger, Elmer Bowen and Robert M. Bloyd.

MUST PAY DEBT

Steamship Co. is Given Five Days

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 10.—A decree setting forth that the amount due upon the bonds and coupons of the Consolidated Steamship Lines of Maine, the holding corporation of the various Morse steamship companies, which went into the hands of receivers after the financial disturbance of a year ago, secured by a mortgage held by the American Trust company, is $63,038,200, was entered by Judge Putnam in the United States circuit court here yesterday.

The decree orders also that if the indebtedness is not paid within five days after the entry of the decree all shares of the capital stock of the various corporations mortgaged to the trust company shall be sold by Special Masters John F. A. Merrill and Albert S. Woodman of Portland.

Messrs. Merrill and Woodman are named as masters in connection with a draft decree submitted to the court for the sale of the Eastern Steamship company, now in the hands of temporary receivers, and their appointment was approved by the court in this case.

The mortgaged stock of the consolidated Steamship lines was ordered to be sold as one parcel, the date of the sale to be fixed by the masters. The Consolidated company has been in the hands of permanent receivers since last February.

Judge Putnam announced that any party might have until next Monday, when he will be in Boston, to file an amendment to the decree before formal entry of it is made.

WILDER WON OUT

Lowell Boy Will Play Briggs for the Championship

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—Harvard has won the individual championship of the Intercollegiate golf association for H. H. Wilder and Templeton Briggs, both of the Cambridge university, have reached the final and will play for the title at 25 holes today.

At Brae-Burn yesterday H. H. Wilder defeated Karl Mosser of Yale by 4 and 2, and Templeton Briggs defeated D. Roberts of Princeton by 7 and 4. Yale gives the Y. for winning the individual championship of the association, but her players this year will have to be satisfied with winning the team championship and making it seven team victories to six for Harvard in the series of meetings.

Yale has won the individual championship six times and Harvard's victory this year will make it four for the Crimson, while Princeton three times has produced the title-holder. The college golfers have played as well this year as in any preceding years, and the senior members of the Harvard team—H. H. Wilder and Templeton Briggs—have had rounds equal to those of professionals. The figures have been kept accurately, with no hunching about them.

Thursday afternoon T. Briggs had a round of 74, a styler on the 15th green preventing him from getting a 73. Yesterday afternoon Wilder had a 74 in his match with Mosser and his medal score was 73, as, like Briggs, he was stymied at one hole, the seventh, but he played the putt over and got a 73 instead of a 74.

So today's match between Wilder and Briggs promises to be as fine an amateur golf contest as has been played at Brae-Burn. Briggs has been under 80 for several rounds now, and Wilder seems able to rise to any emergency, in spite of the strenuous time he has been having in first-class golf tournaments lately.

Mosser vs. Wilder. In the first 15 holes of his match with Karl Mosser yesterday morning the Yale man had the Harvard captain 1 down. Wilder was taking more putts on the greens than usual, yet on the other hand he won some holes by his approach putts, which left him nothing more to do.

At the second hole Wilder was off the line and took 7, but he had won the first in 4, Mosser getting into the brook. Mosser took the lead at the fourth, where Wilder took three putts, but the Yale man was bunkered at the short hole and lost it in 4 to 3. Wilder won the next two holes, his approach putt to the seventh giving him a 3. Mosser won the long hole in 6 and Wilder was only 1 up at the turn.

Wilder had a chance to win the 11th, as Mosser missed his drive, but he took three putts and the hole was halved. They halved holes to the 15th, where Wilder took three putts again and Mosser holed a long one for a 4. The match was now square.

Wilder rimmed the 16th hole for a 3. Mosser halved this hole, although he made a poor drive, as he judged the run down the slope to the green so well that he almost holed a 3, the ball going into the cup and coming out. Wilder lost the home hole by getting off the line with his tee shot and Mosser was 1 up.

H. H. Wilder must have lunched on the hearts of lions, for when he returned for the rest of the match he proceeded to even things by getting a 3 at the first hole, one of David Brown's tricks. Wilder was using a cleft from the teeing grounds, getting far enough and every straight, though Mosser usually had the greater distance after the drive.

They halved three holes, and then Wilder holed a long putt for a 2 on the green of the short fifth hole and took the lead. Mosser halved every hole to the turn, and though Wilder by going out in 36 had gained two holes, he was only 1 up, as Mosser had a hole in hand at the start.

On the 11th green, the longest hole on the links, Wilder holed a 20-foot putt for a 4 and became 2 up. Mosser took three putts on the 13th green and Wilder was 3 up. The match was finished on the 15th green in favor of Wilder by 4 and 2. The cards:

Wilder ... 4 7 4 5 3 4 3 4 6-40
Mosser ... 5 5 4 4 4 6 4 4 5-49
Wilder ... 4 6 4 5 4 5 4 4 6-41-81
Mosser ... 4 6 4 5 4 4 4 4 4-39-79
Wilder ... 3 5 4 6 2 4 4 4 5-35
Mosser ... 4 5 4 6 2 4 4 4 5-38
Wilder ... 3 4 4 6 4 4 4 4 4-33-71-109
Mosser ... 5 4 4 5 4 5 4 5 4-43-109

Wilder was stymied at this hole within easy putting distance and putted over, getting a 3, which made his medal play total 73 in the afternoon.

Wilder made the top score—scoring 20 runs against seven for Haverhill May 26, after Haverhill had won the previous day in Worcester, 1 to 0. Lawrence beat Lowell 14 to 0, June runs 5, at Lawrence. Double Worcester accomplishing this eight times, giving Fall River 7 to 2, Lowell 5 to 8; Lynn 2 to 9; New Bedford 3 to 10; Worcester, 5 to 7.

KAUFMAN'S BOUT

Fred Bradley Was Knocked Out

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Al. Kaufman of San Francisco knocked out Fred Bradley of Boston in the 4th round of which was to have been a six round go at the National Athletic club here last night. The men fought at catch weights, Kaufman being about 20 pounds the heavier.

The battle, which was a gruelling one, was witnessed by a large crowd. Kaufman in the first, with right and left to head put Bradley to the floor twice. Bradley took the count on the second knockdown but got up strong and staved off Kaufman to the bell.

In the third Bradley was full of fight, but no telling blows were landed by either.

Bradley was removed to the dressing room in an unconscious condition and late last night, several hours after the fight, had not been revived.

JIMMY WALSH WON
BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 10.—Jimmy Walsh of Boston, claimant of the bantam weight championship, was last night given a well-earned decision over Henry Treffinger, of this city, at the end of a fifteen round bout before the Eureka Athletic club.

BOXING GOSSIP

Young Erne and Young Loughrey will meet next Monday night at Philadelphia.

Tony Ross and Morris Harris will meet for the second time at Pittsburg Oct. 18.

George Memsic will meet Johnny Thompson at Racine, Wis., in place of Kid Herman, Oct. 12.

Larry Temple and Jack O'Brien have been matched to meet at Philadelphia, Oct. 20.

Johnny Conlon and Eddie Curtis have been rematched to meet at Philadelphia in a six-round bout Oct. 13.

Eddie Kennedy and Fred Broad will furnish the Pittsburg fans with the feature event of six rounds Oct. 12.

Frankie Nell or Joe Wagner will be pitted against the winner of the Jimmy Walsh-Young Britt contest.

Bill McKinnon and Chicago Jack Robinson have been matched to meet in a 15-round bout at the Standard A. C. of Rhode Island Oct. 16.

Jim Flynn, the Pueblo heavyweight, has placed himself under the management of Steve Mahoney. Flynn seeks a match with Jack O'Brien.

Tommy Murphy, the New York lightweight, has backing to a big amount that he can defeat Jim Driscoll in a bout of any distance.

The National A. C. of New York would like to get Jack (Twin) Sullivan to meet the winner of the Bradley-Kaufman contest. Sullivan holds a win over the California heavyweight.

Mugby Scholes and Young Erlenborn may meet again. Scholes announces that he will make a try at the game in New York and will start for there soon.

After all his refusals to engage in six-round bouts, Jim Driscoll, the English featherweight, has accepted a match with Matty Baldwin to box at the Fairmount A. C. of New York Oct. 23.

Rouse O'Brien, the South Boston boxer, is in England looking for bouts. The trip across has worked a change for the better in Rouse, and it is expected that he will be matched with Spike Robson or some other English lightweight.

Heywood Briggs and Young Jack Johnson have been matched to meet in preliminary bouts to the Willie Fitzgerald-Tommy Quill contest at the Armory A. A., Boston, next Tuesday night.

POLO NOTES

Manager Mason of the Fall River team has just signed Israel Whipple as first rush. Whipple is remembered in Worcester as a member of the Salem team back in 1903. Ralph McCarthy of Fort Wayne will also be given a trial in Fall River.

The final meeting of the National Roller Polo league before the opening of the season is scheduled to be held in Worcester tomorrow.

Manager Phelan, on his first visit to Worcester tried to locate some of the polo property used in 1902-03. According to reports he learned that some of the bleachers were bleaching up on Dead Horse hill and that the netting and other fixtures were in some of the western cities, where Malachi Kittredge's last roller polo league was located. The exact location could not be ascertained, so Manager Phelan will have new equipment throughout.

Fred Jean is reported to have returned to sign with New Britain for the salary offered.

Manager McGilvray of the Providence polo team has filed a protest against the signing of "Long John" Wiley by the Pawtucket team, claiming first right on the player. At the last meeting in New Haven it was agreed that the first manager to notify no league's secretary that he was doing business with any player would have the call on that man, and no other manager could approach him. McGilvray complied with this regulation from Secretary F. J. O'Neill, the effect that he had first call on Wiley. Shortly afterward the Pawtucket management announced that Wiley would play center for them. Nick immediately filed a protest with Secretary Pine, and a lively argument is anticipated at the next meeting of the league.

THE N. E. LEAGUE

Some Data of Interest to "Fans"

Following are statistics of the New England league season of 1908, recently completed, and one of the most successful ever known in the league.

The Worcester club won the pennant for the third time in succession. When Manager Jesse Burckett consummated the purchase of the Concord, N. H. franchise in 1906, he purchased a pennant winner, so that his organization is really a four-time winner something phenomenal for a minor league organization. The Worcester club lost some strong battery players in Pitchers Frock and Stone and Catcher Knotts, but at that was able to stand the handicap and show a very strong front.

There were 112 shutouts during the season: Brockton administered 12, received 15; Fall River, 2-1; Haverhill, 17-10; Lawrence, 20-9; Lowell, 11-16; Lynn 11-14; New Bedford, 11-10; Worcester 21-1.

There were 24 1-0 games: Brockton won 2, lost 3; Fall River, 1-4; Haverhill 4-3; Lawrence, 4-1; Lowell, 4-3; Lynn, 4-1; New Bedford, 2-1; Worcester, 2-5. Four of Worcester's 1-0 defeats were home games.

Brockton won 24 games by its run, and lost 14—Fall River, 23-19; Haverhill, 22-22; Lawrence, 25-12; Lowell, 22-22; Lynn, 16-23; New Bedford, 11-27; Worcester, 21-15.

Worcester won six games from New Bedford, by one run, five from Lowell and four from Brockton. Of 12 victories over Haverhill, Brockton won eight by one run.

Brockton won 25 games away from home; Fall River, 26; Haverhill 31; Lawrence, 31; Lowell 15; Lynn, 19; New Bedford 17; Worcester 35. Lynn

When Lowell Citizens Show the Certain Way Out

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the danger of diabetes of any kidney ailment, the relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Lowell citizen says:

James D. Hartwell, living at 45 Varney street, Lowell, Mass., says: "I have been greatly benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills and in return willingly give them my endorsement. I had kidney and bladder trouble, I had kidney and bladder trouble, I was forced to get up several times at night on account of the frequent passages of the kidney secretions. I also suffered from backache and often could not stoop or lift. My brother, who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results, advised me to try them and I accordingly procured a box from E. H. Ingwood & Co's drug store. Since using them my back is much stronger and I have no more trouble from my kidneys."

FOOTBALL NOTES

To beat Williams this afternoon Harvard will have to play better football than was shown in the Bates game. On several occasions the Harvard backs gave the play away before the ball was snapped. This was especially true when Burr went back, apparently to kick.

Horro, the Syracuse captain, is tipping the scales at 235. He helps to bring the average weight of his team up to 135 pounds, which is above the average under the new rules.

Tad Jones calls the material down at Yale "good but green." On that basis Harvard's squad would necessitate an addition to the language as a substitute for the latter adjective.

Syracuse is to take a band to Buffalo for the Carleton game, and about 1500 students will go along to help make a noise. A victory over the Indians is confidently expected by the New York state college.

Ramsdell, the Texas sprinter, who is credited with 4.5 for the hundred, is out for a backfield position on the Penn team. Ramsdell ran in the Olympic trials and has a great reputation as a half back.

FISH...

In order to catch fish, the fisherman needs good bait, and what is still more important, his bait must go where there is fish to catch. It is thus with merchants who would fish for business. They must place their bait where it will attract the attention of purchasers. An advertisement is a bait, but if it is inserted in a paper that is not read, how can it catch the attention of purchasers?

The Sun is read by the people, it has by many thousands the largest circulation in Lowell. Put your bait in The Sun, then it will fall in the stream of publicity and catch the attention of the fishes. Be wise, be successful fishermen. Advertise in The Sun, Lowell's Greatest Newspaper.

CARRAGHER RECEIVED 8 VOTES IN CAUCUSES AT DOVER, N. H.

DOVER, N. H., Oct. 10.—The democratic caucuses last night resulted in the nomination without opposition of the tickets voted on in all but ward 5, the democratic ward, where Representative John H. Wesley was renominated for the fourth consecutive term in a very one-sided contest with Ex-Alderman Henry J. Carragher. Wesley received 143 votes to eight for Carragher. At the close Carragher declared that he should run on nomination papers. Less than half the voters turned out to the caucus. The nominations by wards:

Ward 1—Representatives, Thomas F. Quinn, Patrick Redden; supervisor of check list for two years, John J. McClintock.

Ward 2—Representatives, Frank McCabe, Herbert K. Otis, Gilbert Boutin; supervisor, Frank J. Grimes.

Ward 3—Representatives, Charles W. Leavitt, Martin Courtney; supervisor, Felix O'Neill.

Ward 4—Representatives, Edward J. Ackroyd, James Murlough, Roscoe R. Twombly; supervisor, Frank P. Waldron.

Ward 5—Representative John H. Wesley; supervisor, James F. Dennis.

THE BUNTINGS WON
The Bunting Club whist team defeated the Middlesex Social club last night thereby scoring the third consecutive victory.

SHE TRIED SUICIDE

Young Woman Put Bullet Into Her Head

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—A woman, whose name is given by the police as Mrs. Mabel Osborne, attempted suicide about 3:15 yesterday afternoon by shooting herself in the right side of her head with a revolver while alone in a suite on the third floor of the apartment hotel known as Madison place, in the rear of 1035 Washington street.

The shot aroused the dwellers in adjoining apartments, who called the janitor. The police were notified and the woman was hurried to the City hospital. Late last night it was reported that her condition was serious.

E. C. Osborne, in whose apartments the shooting took place, said last night that the woman is not his wife, but his housekeeper, that her name is Mrs. Mabel Johnson, that she was about 30 years old. She has been in his employ as housekeeper, he said, since he went to live at the Madison place about a year ago. He could ascribe no reason for the woman's act.

He did not know of the shooting until about an hour after it happened, when he was notified by telephone from the City hospital. Mr. Osborne said he did not know where his housekeeper belonged, but thought she came from Manchester or Concord, N. H., and he felt quite sure that she had no relatives in Boston.

He said he visited the woman about 5 o'clock at the hospital and talked with her about the affair but she would give him no explanation of it.

The revolver with which the shooting was done was the property of Mr. Osborne and was kept by him in his apartments.

Occupants of other suites in the building did not know or would say nothing about the shooting. Some of them said they only knew that the woman, whom they called Mrs. Osborne, lived there, as they had seen her pass in and out of the building.

CO. M THE WINNER

In Rifle Shoot of Ninth Regiment at Wakefield

Co. M of Lowell, Captain Philip McNulty, commander, covered itself with glory yesterday by winning the annual regimental shoot of the Ninth Infantry. The annual rifle and pistol competitions took place yesterday at the Wakefield military rifle range in Wakefield. The weather was mild, with no sun and wind, making shooting conditions very favorable. The rifle buttes took place from 11 a. m. until nearly 4 p. m., halting at 1 p. m. for lunch, after finishing the 300 and 300 ranges.

The contests were run off smoothly, and the fight for first position was between the teams from Company L, of Natick and Company M of Lowell, the latter getting the regimental championship at the 300 range, with a total for all ranges of 55. Capt. McNulty's team takes the state trophy for 1908, an honor that has been Company L's for years. Artillery Douglas H. Hayden, Company L, was the high individual man, with a score of 67, his score outstriking that of Sgt. Benjamin E. McKenney, Company L, who also made 67, as did Sgt. George L. Worthen, Company M of Lowell, whose score gives him third place in three matches recently at Natick. Hayden and McKenney have been tied with the same scores. Seven prizes are awarded for the seven best individual scores. The winners and their scores are as follows, with a list of the prizes: Art. D. H. Hayden, Company L, 67, first prize, silver service. Sgt. B. E. McKenney, Company L, 67, second prize, silver fruit basket. Sgt. G. L. Worthen, Company M, 67, third prize, silver tureen. Capt. W. H. GRAND PAGEANT 5000 Men and Women in Costume

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Like pages out of the past and fraught with the memories of 225 years, the first great historical pageant planned in this country took place yesterday before three quarters of a million people. It was the culminating feature of Philadelphia's notable celebration of founders' week, there were five thousand men and women in costume. There were seventy floats representing months of careful study, and faithful to the last detail in their portrayal of the scenes selected from the long span of years that have marked the growth of the city. People fought to get a glimpse of the spectacle and hundreds of windows were taken fainting from the congested corners. Every ambulance in the city was brought into use and every hospital was filled. The eight miles of grandstands covering practically every foot on each side of the river traversed by the pageant was fairly choked by ticket-holders, while speculators reaped an exorbitant harvest. Thousands of persons were turned back by the police at every interesting street, unable to crowd their way into the grandstands or upon the best sections of open walk. Two great walls of humanity, stretching four and a half miles down the straight reaches of Broad street, formed the setting for the historical pictures and for two hours and a half the great throngs gazed in wonder and admiration upon the succeeding tableaux. The pageant, heralded by trumpeters and standard bearers moved along in vivid change from the time of the "Oronsi," the first ship to enter the Delaware in 1639, to the present day, with a concluding scene of prophecy and civic pride representing "The City Beautiful."

DEPOT GOSSIP It has been decided by the officials of the Boston and Maine railroad to keep the early morning train on the branch at Wakefield as heretofore. Several petitions which were circulated through the towns along the branch were presented to Lucius Tuttle, president of the road, who decided to run the early morning train and the late evening train on the same schedule time as for the past several years. Wakefield patrons get great service from the train leaving the center of the town at 7 a. m. by electric lines that can connect at Brookside with the

THE BALKAN QUESTION.

There is a shimmering volcano in the Balkans, and only a spark from the guns of any of the powers involved is required to start a war in which nearly every country in Europe would be engaged.

In order to understand the situation it must be remembered that Germany is the powerful active force on one side and Great Britain on the other.

Germany has been striving for a coast line on the southern border, and looks with a longing eye upon the possessions of the Sultan. So far has German intrigue gone that German emissaries have been using money in Turkey to bribe high officials in order to create trouble for the government and lead the Porte into a trap.

Many of the European powers, ambitious for an extension of their territory, have been looking forward to the time when the Turkish empire would be partitioned or when at least the Mohammedans would be driven from the confines of Europe.

Bulgaria, that has been nominally under Turkish sway, has declared its independence. The Island of Crete, held similarly as part of the Turkish empire, secedes and goes over to Greece.

Austria, in order to get an opening on the Adriatic, takes advantage of the disturbance to annex the provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina over which she exercised a protectorate.

All these warlike movements are in violation of the treaty of Berlin under which the Balkan question was settled in 1878.

It is alleged that Russia is determined to withdraw from the treaty of Berlin, while England and Turkey appeal for the observance of the treaty and the suppression of all the revolutionary movements.

Of course, if any one of the powers signatory to the treaty should withdraw the treaty would be thereafter a dead letter, and the new issues would have to be settled by the arbitrament of war or else by a conference of the great powers and the signing of a new treaty.

France has no special interest in this conflict except to block any territorial advancement for Germany. But should a war break out, nearly every power in Europe would be drawn into the conflict in one way or another.

Bulgaria is rejoicing in her self-ordained independence while she is rushing troops to the frontier to meet the Turkish forces there being amassed.

Bulgaria has an army of 365,000 men and no fleet, while Turkey has an army of 345,000 men, six ships of war and 30,220 marines.

It is not likely that all the rest of Europe would stand idly by to see Turkey use her atrocious methods of warfare to throttle the independence of Bulgaria and incidentally to slaughter as many as possible of her people.

It would not be regretted anywhere, we believe, if Turkey, as a result of this outbreak, should be shorn of half her possessions and especially driven from her strongholds on the continent of Europe. But this cannot be done without a bloody war at which the whole world would stand agape. This war would set England and Germany at each other's throat in one of the most bloody conflicts since the Crimean war.

THE DEVIL.

There seems to have been little unanimity of opinion relative to the merits of the play recently presented at the Opera House under the unusual title of "The Devil."

Some people seem to agree with the few critics who praise it while others, and we believe the vast majority, regard it as a pernicious play without a single redeeming feature.

If, as is alleged, this play took Vienna and other European capitals by storm, then we have an insight to the taste and the moral sense of those who not only patronize but applaud such a production.

In this play the devil, or spirit of evil, is personified, the character showing the most deceitful cunning and rascality, the object being from the beginning to promote improper relations between a young wife and the young artist whom she loved before her marriage to a man who was accounted rich but whom she did not love. If the couple are in close proximity, the Devil manages to bring them together; if one is forgetful of the other, he manages to bring up the old love affair and keep it ever new. He works upon the feelings of both, at one time arousing fierce jealousy, at another convincing them that the love of each for the other is all consuming.

The tempter may no doubt portray in a most admirable way how Satan by unseen influence may effect the same object; but it is better in our judgment to leave the operation of such influences to the imagination than to equip a personal devil for the purpose of demonstrating the art of seduction on the public stage.

The only thing that could justify the existence of such a play would be the introduction of a character portraying the spirit of grace to confront the Devil, to illustrate his designs, and to inspire the weak and the erring with strength necessary to enable them to overcome temptation, abandon the path that leads to perdition, and climb to the sublime heights of virtue where marriage vows are sacred and where love is pure as when it was first breathed into the human heart by powers divine.

No, the play known as "The Devil" has no right to exist unless it makes some change such as here suggested, to exalt virtue over vice and even in doing that it must eliminate much of what is now considered suggestive.

SEEN AND HEARD

Strange, and too bad isn't it, that some men who have a deal of the milk of human kindness in the heart and soul have little of the poet's love for nature? One would think that a man blessed with the disposition to aid, sympathize and forgive little wrongs with a smile and a pat would love nature almost to death, but I find that is not always the case, in fact, the exception rather than the rule.

Wandering through the woods with my friend John Delaney a few days ago, I remarked on the beauty of the trees, the cuteness and cunning of the little chipmunk that was digging a hole without making a particle of dirt and I just fairly raved over the beautiful colors that adorned the wood. "No artist's brush," I began when I was suddenly interrupted by John, who, turning quickly upon me, asked: "Have you $25 that you could spare?"

"What lesson have the years taught you?" I asked.

"List to me," quoth John and thusly did he proceed:

"This leafy autumn gold—but, tut! It calls for naught of thanks. It's all right for the poets, but it's no good at the banks."

The best way for a loveless young man to find out what the girl thinks about him is to marry her.

THE EGOTIST

I'd like to be an egotist and think myself a wonder. I'd like to be so convinced that all I did was great, that I could never blunder.

I might, of course, do foolish things, and people might deride me, but sweet self-satisfaction should be safely stored inside me.

I'd like to think that every time I paid attention to them.

The ladies would be flattered; that sweet thrills would flicker through them.

They might, indeed, consider me most kind and annoying.

But I should be possessed of glee no doubts might come destroying.

Oh, happy, happy egotist! To go through life believing That what he has is all there is that may be worth achieving! I wish that I were of his tribe, un plagued by doubt and zealous in holding to the doctrine that my critics all were jealous!

EDITORIAL COMMENT

SHELDON'S MONEY GETTING

New York Sun: From Washington comes the report that, dissatisfied with the money gathering record of George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican national committee, Mr. Roosevelt intends to assume charge of this department of the Taft canvass at once and to make the party strong box. There is nothing impossible in this. Mr. Roosevelt possesses peculiar qualifications for the work at which Mr. Sheldon is charged with making so poor a list. He has power to open the eyes of any person to the desirability of acceding to his requests. He is not averse to using this power. In the federal government he has had the machine easily adaptable to the wringing of contributions from reluctant citizens. He has already used it once, with illustrious success. He knows that money needed for his, by his own proud boast, "a practical man." Besides no cry of "tainted money."

could be raised against sums collected by Mr. Roosevelt. Does not this give the nation know that whatever pledges might be made or implied by him or his agents in squeezing the dollars out of one of them would be of the slightest weight or influence after the cash had been stored in the bank or spent in the progress of the campaign?

ESTIMATING ELECTION RESULTS

Fall River Globe: When the local plurality estimates place Taft's probable plurality at but 10,000, there is good reason for thinking that they regard the prospects of carrying it at all, as somewhat dubious. That is a big drop from the 94,000 plurality for Roosevelt in 1904, and confirms the claims of the Democrats that Indiana is a very doubtful state this year on both the national and state tickets.

AS TO LIBRARIES

New Bedford Standard: Library stacks crowded with books may gratify; a circulation account swelled to many figures may stand for success; but the library that strives chiefly for these is in danger of sacrificing its birthright for a mess of pottage.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Speaking of the late Leslie M. Carter, the Chicago Tribune said that he was as good a man as has lived in Chicago. "He did his full duty as he saw it. In spite of almost appalling obstacles, calumny, and suffering, which might have made a man of less self courage give up life's struggle, he worked to the end. He was devoted to his friends; he was modest—so modest that only a few knew his worth. His friends and those of his cause were by the inspiration of his career will be among the beneficiaries of Leslie M. Carter."

The czarina's health is so undermined as to cause the imperial family serious concern. She has been for months in a nervous state, and a cruising trip off the coast of Finland has failed to work an improvement, so that her physicians desire her to spend the winter in the south. "This course she is unwilling to pursue unless the czar accompanies her—and this is said to be impossible."

Margaret Llewellyn Davies, writing to the Westminster Gazette, says: "The women's co-operative guild of London has lately been inquiring whether co-operative men are in favor of the enfranchisement of married women. Out of 1135 signers of the petition 73 are against giving the vote to all, 133 are in favor of ratepayers only, 16 are doubtful, while 823 believe in giving the vote to wives. Among the women's expressions of opinion on behalf of married women are the following: 'Yes, the wife should have a vote. The economic system affect women more closely than men, and they would become social reformers.' 'I consider her responsibilities as a citizen are enlarged tenfold on marriage.' 'If a woman is good enough for a mother she should be good enough to record a vote.' 'Yes, I believe so; for at that time she is fulfilling her best duties to the state.' 'The hand that rocks the cradle should help to rule the world.' 'Yes, I regard the power of women to vote as a way to amend the evils and oppression from which they suffer, by the raising of their standard of life and comfort.' 'Many wives are like mine—better politicians than their husbands.' 'Men do not represent the claims and responsibilities of free women.' 'Only free women can be mothers of free men.' 'Political action make more of free wives; I have had two, so speak from experience.'"

A men's league for woman's suffrage has been formed in Holland and the Lutheran church there has already given women a vote in its affairs.

What will the critics of the nature fakers say to this? Alfred Sommerlad, musical director of the Devonshire Park theatre, Eastbourne, and Edgar Bateman, the song writer, are fishing caught an edible crab. "They tossed it back into the water. At that moment an accidental kick sent the tin bait box after the crab. There was one fragment of bait adhering to the hook, and this was lowered into the sea, and the anglers left the rod for a time. When they returned they found their baited hook with five flounders, soles, rock whiting and plaice. The explanation was soon forthcoming. Painfully making its way up the fishing line came the creature whose life had been spared, bearing in its minnow's a fine young conger eel, which it placed with the other fish on the basket. Then it dropped back

The first college Young Men's Christian Association in the world was established at the University of Virginia in the year 1858. On the 12th of October of the year mentioned, the organization of the chapter, now completed by the formal adoption of a constitution, and on the 12th of this October—the semi-centennial anniversary—a fitting celebration of the fruitful event will be held. In the approaching celebration a number of the original members of the organization, about thirty of whom are still living—are expected to be present and to participate. Invitations have also been issued to various gentlemen, prominent as large as Y. M. C. A. leaders. The Young Men's Christian Association is said to have had its origin in London in the year 1814. In 1851 beginnings were made in America, at Boston and Montreal; and in 1858, as already stated, the application of the movement to the needs of Christian men in college was first made in Virginia. The Young Men's Christian Association is now a year an association was also organized at the University of Michigan, but was independent of the Virginia organization—not an outgrowth of it. Some of the first work done by the association at the University of Virginia was directed towards the needs of the people in the adjacent "Ragged Mountains," celebrated by the pen of the university's most famous alumnus—Edgar Allan Poe. The centennial of Poe's birth will also be celebrated by the university this season. The philanthropic work thus begun a half-century ago has been continued, under expanding conditions, to the present, and the work of the association among colleges has become a world-wide movement. In view of these facts the approaching celebration at Virginia will doubtless attract wide interest.

FOR MEN WHO SUED SWIFT COMPANY

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—For malicious prosecution in putting a keeper into their store when a bill which was sued for had been paid, Martin Bagdikian et al. (Bagdikian Bros.) recovered a verdict for $400 yesterday against Swift & Co. before Judge Schofield in the fifth session, superior court.

They had bought some fowl from Swift & Co. on June 1, 1905, and the bill came to $25.85. They paid it the next day. Notwithstanding that Swift & Co. sued them for the bill on June 26, 1905, and put a keeper in their store. The suit of the concern against them resulted in their favor.

Then Bagdikian Bros. turned round and sued Swift & Co. for $5000 damages for malicious prosecution. A Suffolk jury which awarded them the $400 verdict found that Swift & Co. did not honestly believe the bill was not paid when it brought the suit and that they acted maliciously.

MAINE PAPER

Gives Great Praise to True's Ellixir Company

The Lewiston Journal says: In the annals of American business life there has been developed to a remarkable degree the question of the personal reputation and standing of the man who is engaged in the conduct of a business. This question is considered that 95 per cent. of the total business of this country is done on a credit basis, the layman does not appreciate how this basis of giving credit is arrived at. For the convenience of merchants there are two large mercantile agencies in the United States whose business it is merely to report on the condition and statement of every concern of size doing business in the United States. These mercantile agencies with organizations entailing the investment of hundreds of thousands of dollars are the means of preventing a great many credits being given to irresponsible concerns, but in all probability the most important method of giving a concern credit is on the personal reputation of the owner of the business—his family life, his standard of honor and integrity are what the average business man looks for nowadays, and the consumer is beginning to make his purchases more on this basis than ever before.

A concern that ties its principles of integrity and honesty to a point unsurpassed by any other in their line is Dr. J. F. True & Co. of Auburn, Me. The founder of the business, Dr. J. F. True, passed away in 1900, after 50 years of the most continuous reputation building ever known in the annals of American pharmaceutical work. He left behind him a name unblemished by a single blemish; he left behind him a remedy that is a standard of its kind in America. The present head of the concern, Dr. E. C. True, has not only maintained this splendid reputation, but in addition his progressiveness, which naturally the elder generation to a certain extent lacked, has built up a business beyond the wildest dream of the founder.

In the state of Maine True's Ellixir is synonymous with good health. It probably can be found in the medicine chest of almost every Maine home. It is gratifying to the Journal to pay a tribute to this concern on the anniversary of their 55th year of entering the business world. We express the wish that we had a hundred more concerns in the state of Maine based on the same standard of honor and integrity as Dr. J. F. True & Co. producers of True's Ellixir.

GOOD TEMPLARS

Successful Fair in Odd Fellows Temple

The Union Good Templar Fair, which opened Thursday night in Odd Fellows Temple was continued last night with a very large attendance. The entertainment last night was an excellent one in every respect and every number certainly deserved the liberal applause received.

Following is the program: Violin trio, Master James Gilmore, Master Willie Kirby and Miss Ruth Kirby; vocal solo, Miss May Bamforth; fancy dance, Miss Ethel Sharrow; piano duet, Sigrid Peterson and Lillian Lagerquist; violin solo, James Gilmore; reading, Ruth Kirby; vocal solo, Mildred Tinker; Highland fling, Miss Kirby; vocal solo, Mr. John Sharrow and Mildred Tinker; reading, Bessie May Skeels of Lawrence; piano duet, Bertie Dean and Miss Bamforth; dance, the Irish reel, Miss Mildred Tinker; accompanists, Miss Jeanette Gilmore and Mr. William Woods.

This evening the fair will be continued and another good entertainment will be given.

The entertainment last night was under the direction of F. E. McLean.

DANCING PARTY

WAS HELD BY DIVISION I, A. O. H.

Division I, A. O. H., held a well attended and successful dance in Hibernian hall last night. Besides the members of division one there were present a good representation of the other local divisions together with a number of out of town friends. Music for dancing was furnished by the Starbird orchestra.

Those in charge of the dance were: General manager, Joseph F. Farnsworth; assistant general manager, Henry Smith; floor director, John O'Leighlin; aids, James Lyons, Owen Craven, Michael Hughes, Jeremiah Connors, Henry Smith and Patrick Lyddy. Daniel Hogan was chairman of the reception committee.

TEXTILE SCHOOL

PLAYED ST. JOHN'S PREPARATORY SCHOOL TODAY

The Textile school football team is playing the St. John's preparatory school team on the textile campus this afternoon. The team is badly crippled as a result of a number of the players meeting with injuries and it was necessary to make a big change in the lineup.

Capt. Prescott is out of the game with a lame hip. Newhall has a broken rib, while Dougan, one of the halves, has a bad shoulder, and Manning, the full back, is suffering from an injured thigh.

NORTH CHELMSFORD

The anniversary concert and dance of the St. John's Total Abstinence society was held last night in the town hall. The affair was well attended and proved to be a success in every particular. The Malleson orchestra furnished music for dancing. Between eight and nine o'clock an excellent concert program was carried out.

Those in charge of the event were: General manager, James W. McTaggart; assistant, John E. Harrington; treasurer, James P. Quigley; floor director, John J. JUST THINK OF IT.

"Gee, Billie! What desperate chances a feller must have took to beat them railroad trains they used to have."

Honors Easy.
"What's the matter?" demanded the customer as the tobacconist examined his nickel. "That coin's all right."
"Oh, it'll pass, I guess," replied the tobacconist, "but it isn't as good as it might be."
"Well, neither is this cigar."

A Warranted Suspicion.

HIS PREFERENCE.

"Which song would you rather hear, Miss Warble sing?"
"Mariner Bold."
"But she doesn't sing that at all."
"I know. That's why I prefer it."

TRUTH WILL PREVAIL.

"My aunt is not dead," began the office boy, "and all the members of the family are well."
The office boy's employer looked up in surprise.
"I am feeling good myself," continued the office boy, "and I could just as well work this afternoon as not, but if you don't let me off to see the ball game I'll throw up my job."
"Thy love of truth hath availed," said the employer. "Go out and root for the home team."

A LEGAL POINT.

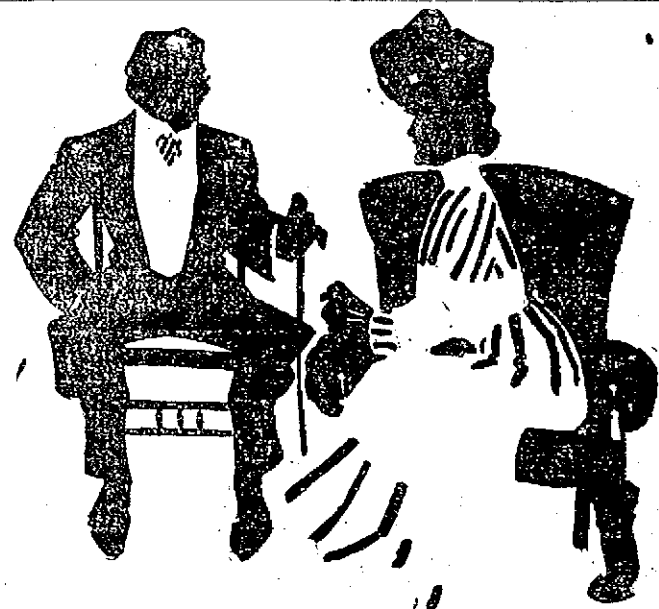

Say, Mr. Officer, if this young lady is engaged to two fellers at once, can't she be arrested for bigamy?"

TOO MANY IN IT.

Grace—He said I was the prettiest girl he had met for some time, and—but you were there and heard him say it, I believe.
Helen—Yes, and—or—really, I could scarcely trust my ears—
Grace (sharply)—Why not? Your ears are certainly big enough and old enough.

Trustworthy.
"Do you consider Bones a reliable man?"
"Sure thing. When he tells you anything you can rely on its not being so."

Good, indeed.

A difference in the laughs, you'll note. Now, whereabouts should it be?

"Ha, ha!" is the proper thing to laugh at thought of the bill and its joys.
"He, he!" is the laugh pronounced when it's twins and the twins are boys!

"Mr. Waffles," said the landlady, "I have a word to say to you."
"Make it a dozen, Mrs. Fry," remarked the young man.

"Mr. Waffles," said the landlady, "you have been smoking in the parlor."

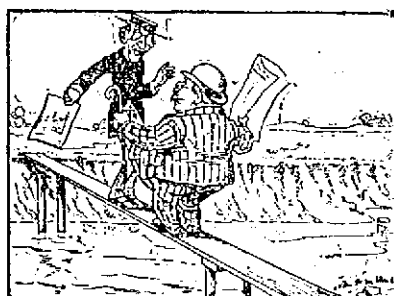

"Yes, Mrs. Fry."
"You have smoked in the parlor many times, Mr. Waffles. And you have smoked in your room and in the library and even in the dining room, and you owe me for three weeks' board, Mr. Waffles."

"Yes, Mrs. Fry."
"Where there is so much smoke, Mr. Waffles, there must be some fire."
So she fired him.

INFORMATION.

The train had stopped for water at a little station in the country.

The passenger with the skullcap, seeing a lone native standing on the station platform, addressed him.

"Farmers around here seem to have been cutting a good deal of hay this morning," he said.

"Yes, sir," answered the native.

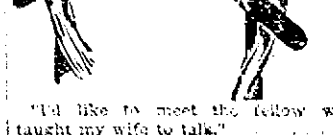

"They're taking risks. Don't you think it looks like rain?"

"Not at all."

"What do you suppose they will do if it does rain?"

"I reckon they'll have sense enough to go in out of it, mister."

LOCKED IN CLOSET

Boy Was Held a Prisoner for Twenty Hours

PEABODY, Oct. 10.—After a stormy meeting of the full school board last night, it was decided to merely censure Miss Katherine Reynolds for locking one of her pupils, little Manuel Silva, in a closet early in the afternoon session Wednesday and going off Wednesday night to make merry as bridesmaid at a wedding, forgetting all about the little prisoner until 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

When the boy was discovered, half dead from fear and exhaustion after his 20 hours' incarceration, Miss Reynolds became hysterical. The matter was brought to the attention of the principal of the school, Miss Sheehan, and it was immediately reported to a sub-committee of the school board.

This committee, consisting of Messrs. Jordan, Conner and Sheehan, investigated the case thoroughly. Impressed by the youth of the teacher, her natural nervousness on account of the ceremony, she was to participate in and the result on her life of any drastic action, they reported to the full board last evening the facts in the case and recommended clemency.

Little Manuel on Wednesday afternoon had been caught whispering. Obeying her natural disinclination to whip him, Miss Reynolds pushed him into a book closet in the front of her room on the second floor of the Endicott Grammar school and turned the key in the door.

Forgetting Her Prisoner.

In her anxiety to go to her home at 33 Grove street, Salem, in time to prepare for the wedding, she forgot her little prisoner completely.

When Manuel heard her hurry out, he became desperate. Beating on the doors of his dark, stifling prison with his hands, kicking until he kicked off the sole of one of his shoes, he exhausted himself and dropped to the floor of the closet. Soon sleep gave him momentary respite from his fear.

Meanwhile Manuel's mother, at her home at 7 Sprague street, wondered at

STRIKE BREAKERS

Arrive to Take Places of Strikers in the Paper Mills

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., Oct. 10.—The crew of 24 strike breakers, which arrived late yesterday was comfortably lodged today in the mill of the International Paper Co., where they will eat and sleep as well as work. One paper machine was started today and two were made ready to start Monday. One of them admitted to a local workman that they were regular papermakers and had been employed at Hamilton, Ont., but struck when the others did. The local strikers believed differently, however. It was stated today that recently the members of the local union voted by a majority of two not to return to work at present.

CATHOLIC CHARITY

Abstract of Mrs. Williams' Paper on Orphanages

At the recent conference of Catholic charities in Boston among the many highly instructive and carefully prepared papers read was one by Mrs. Josephine A. Williams, of Lowell. Her topic was: "The Institutional Care of Children." She said:

Among the many questions of public interest which are occupying the minds of the thoughtful, there is none of greater importance than that which regards the care and education of orphans and neglected children. It is no new problem for from the earliest times, the helpless position of little children, deprived by death, or any other cause of their natural protectors, has made its piteous appeal to the hearts and minds of the charitable, and philanthropic. Today, however, the problem has attained such magnitude that its wise and judicious solution concerns the whole social body.

Each year, an increasing number of children is left to become a charge on the public. This is due to a variety of causes; the three chief ones being, the great mortality among the working class which have found no opportunity to make provision for their children; second, the constant fluctuations in a rapidly growing population, a large portion of which has no adequate conception of its responsibilities, and third, the frequent and sudden changes in industrial conditions.

These helpless and neglected children exposed to every danger, physical and moral, unfortunate today perhaps criminal tomorrow are through no fault of their own, a menace to the public welfare, and setting aside the motives of charity and philanthropy, a urgent request for the public interest requires that a proper provision be made for them.

Mrs. Williams spoke of St. Peter's Orphan Asylum, of Lowell, as among the institutions of Massachusetts which have played an important part in the work of caring for orphans. St. Peter's orphan asylum, originally St. Peter's school, was founded by the Rev. Peter Cradock, who in October, 1855, bought the house and land, corner Appleton and Elliot streets for the purpose of establishing a school for girls, and placed it in charge of the Sisters of Charity.

To the duty of "Teaching the ignorant and promoting learning, piety and virtue in the city of Lowell" was added that of "visiting the sick." In the course of their charitable ministrations, the sisters frequently came into contact with neglected children to whom they sometimes gave temporary shelter, in the endeavor to alleviate, if only for a short time, the sad lot of the unfortunate little ones.

As time went on, the urgent need of a permanent establishment properly equipped for the care of this class of children became more and more apparent, and in 1874 the building was enlarged, and transformed into an orphan asylum for girls between the ages of four and fourteen. When the present pastor of St. Peter's church, Rev. Michael Ronan, took charge of the parish, he freed the asylum from debt and installed the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth. It has always been under the direction of St. Peter's parish, although children from all parishes are received. The number of children admitted annually is about one hundred and twenty-five, though the house accommodates but sixty-five or sixty-seven at one time.

The work of the institution is done entirely by the sisters, seven in number, assisted in the lighter tasks by the older girls, who, in this way, gain a knowledge of domestic duties, which is often of value to them in after life. They are given a good common school education, and taught sewing and mending. Under the gentle management of the sisters, there is a wonderfully rapid improvement in the mental, moral and physical condition of the children, who show in many ways the influence of the loving care bestowed upon them.

Mrs. Williams also spoke of the orphan asylums of Salem, Lawrence and Newburyport and said: "Exercising the greatest care and precaution in selecting homes for children in private families, it is easy to make mistakes. The family life which stimulates the powers and forms the character of children who are born within its circle, may be on the other hand absolutely harmful to little children who are introduced suddenly into the close connection with it, which a kindred relation naturally produces. Often a child who has been tractable and amiable under the systematic condition of an institution, has become unmanageable under the totally different discipline of a strange home, and been returned again and again to the asylum, having acquired a reputation for stubbornness, when she was simply misunderstood."

BOUND TOGETHER

Bodies of Man and Woman Found Floating in Jamaica Bay

NEW YORK, October 10.—A mystery more than six hours. The man was apparently 45 years of age. He was six feet tall and weighed about 200 pounds. In his pockets were a gold watch and chain, and $1.35 in cash, but no cards nor letters to show his identity.

The woman apparently was about 35 years of age and exceptionally good looking. Her brown hair was tinged with gray. She wore a wedding ring. Her long black gloves and $10 in small bills were in her chafeline bag which was not only wired to her waist, but was wired so that it could not open in the usual fashion.

WAR SEEMS CERTAIN

Report From Belgrade Says That It is Inevitable

BELGRADE, Oct. 10.—Even in official circles it is now believed that war is unavoidable. M. Paskos, minister of war, in an interview with the Associated Press declared the situation most critical.

TO SEIZE PAPERS.

VIENNA, Oct. 10.—Austrian newspapers have been informed that the publication of reports concerning mobilization movements is not desirable at the present time and that papers disregarding this intimation will be confiscated.

ADVISED NOT TO BUY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 10.—The city today is posted with bills advising the public on patriotic grounds, to purchase no Austrian, Bulgarian or German products. Many would-be purchasers were persuaded not to enter Austrian shops.

RUSSIA NOT OPPOSED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 10.—Russia has decided to oppose the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria-Hungary. Without approving the action of Baron Von Aehrenthal, the Austro-Hungarian minister of affairs, she will bow to the accomplished fact.

SITUATION IS CRITICAL.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Official advices received here represent the situation between Serbia and Austria-Hungary as extremely critical. Austria-Hungary has served notice that she will not tolerate further "provocation," and that she is prepared for eventualities should the Skupshina today declare war or make an aggressive move.

The 15th Austria-Hungary army corps occupies the frontier along the Danube and a fleet of river gunboats is concentrating at Semlin (Semlin is a Hungarian town on the Danube directly opposite Belgrade and connected with the Serbia capital by a bridge.)

SO. TEWKSBURY IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION WANTS BETTER CAR SERVICE.

Dear Sir:

Just a line to inform you that the South Tewksbury Improvement association has made request of the Boston & Northern street railway for better car service from Foster's corner to Wilmington. The car arriving at Foster's about 6.45 a. m. at present returns from Foster's to Lowell. This car we desire to have continue as far as Wilmington station in order to get the early train for Woburn and Boston instead of having to walk to South Lake station as we have to do at present in order to get the 6.05 a. m. train.

We also desire that some provision be made for the shelter of passengers awaiting cars at Foster's corner. There are other matters which will be agitated to improve this section such as better roads and the lighting of same, also mail collection and delivery.

Thanking you for the space. Yours most respectfully, F. E. M.

NEW AND EFFECTIVE FASHION DESIGNS FROM PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 26.—We women all know that when men get together they invariably discuss the fair sex. We do not, of course, know what they say individually about us, but sometimes we find out what they say about other women, and then we are glad to think that we have a husband, brother or a belonging of some sort at these conferences to act as a safeguard for our reputations. Nevertheless it will come as a kind of shock to most women to know that their "points" are discussed very freely in the club smoking room and that the size of their feet is talked about as dispassionately as the change in the barometer or the slump in stocks. Yet from such information as I have been able to glean on the subject this is not an uncommon occurrence. "In discussing women," said a man of my acquaintance the other day in reply to my question as to which of our features was most subjected to male criticism, "we usually discuss the feet, hands and head." I was quite impressed with the remark, especially as most women seem to labor under the delusion that their faces and their figures are the only features of their anatomy which are of any importance. Under the circumstance it is perhaps fortunate that every man is not a connoisseur, for it must be admitted that few women have much to boast of in the way of extremities. The average woman does well to hide them as much as possible. As topics of conversation they may be inspiring to men, but they are not ornamental and one does not like to think that they occupy so much attention at these seances. It is a comfort to remember that a French writer once said that even in the most beautiful woman there is always one feature upon which a man must turn his head if the illusion of beauty is to be retained.

well known musician whose wavy locks once convulsed a bandy legged boy at a railroad station with merriment. The musician watched him for some time with interest and then went up to him. "My hair—it makes you laugh," he said, with his foreign accent. "But look at your legs," drawing the attention of everybody on the platform to them. "You should see all ze ladies and ze porters how they laugh," he said when relating the adventure to some friends at dinner soon after the occurrence.

The New Short Skirt.

To carry out the dictum of the Polish musician—how ze people will laugh at ze new short skirts—some of which are startling in outline to say the least. They are absurdly tight for one thing and look for another as if made from two widths of material. That they are utterly impossible for women of generous proportions goes without saying. I am very much afraid, though, that we are in for a season of attenuated skirts, both long and short. Of course we are accustomed to the clinging tunic, but there is a great difference between the word "attenuated" and "clinging," and the newest skirt is a skimpy affair that is absolutely ridiculous on any but a slender and exceptionally well shaped figure.

We are accepting a curious outline all round this season. Tightly draped sashes are used frequently with the tight skirts to which I have just alluded, and also straight and shapeless coats. There is great danger that

Mme. La Mode will lead women who love a graceful and picturesque effect into eccentricities of an unbecoming order. Many of the smartest models are fashioned on bizarre lines, and the end is not yet in view. It will be a thousand pities if we allow the powers behind the throne of fashion to inflict upon us shapeless garments which merit the name of "straight jackets" and narrow skirts in which it is impossible to walk gracefully. Now that I have made my little moan I am going to talk about the sleeves of the present and the immediate future. There are two styles receiving decided attention—the very long and quite plain or very long and tucked manche completely covered with embroideries or braiding. The long, tight sleeve is enjoying a triumphant reign, and it is more than likely that this ascendancy will be of long duration. Personally I am enthusiastically in favor of the new sleeves. I had them almost universally becoming, and they certainly have the effect of making a stout woman look slender. On a well cut cloth coat, for instance, nothing could be smarter than long, tight sleeves covered with fine soutache braid, the same braid showing itself in a fanciful design on the upper part of the coat, or, again, the same model with silk embroideries instead of soutache braiding. These raised silk decorations are rapidly coming into notice, and they are wonderfully effective when the pattern is bold and closely covered. To return briefly to sleeves, although the long, tight affair is enjoying such complete success, there is at least one other sleeve which meets with the approval of the Parisian elegance. This is the short, tight model that cannot correctly be described as elbow for more often than not it does not reach to the elbow at all. It is very tight and barely covers the upper part of the arm, and it is always accompanied with extra long mousquetaire gloves. On certain women a sleeve of this genre possesses great charm, but it is suitable only for afternoon dresses, and the gloves worn must fit to perfection and must be kept up on the arms by special bracelets now sold for the purpose.

The Parisienne Shuns Queer Jewelry.

Speaking of jewelry, an artist in this line was showing me some stunning new pendants he had designed and executed for an exhibition to be held in the near future, and he rather surprised me by saying that they would not be popular with Frenchwomen. "They are too bizarre," he said calmly, looking with appreciation at the beautiful work carried out in dull gold, emeralds and pearls. "It is the English and American woman who wear this kind of thing. Frenchwomen will put on the wildest of hats, the most weird of gowns and torture their figures into any conceivable or inconceivable shape, but they will not wear queer jewelry. They prefer the classic diamonds and pearls and rubies of the boulevard and the Rue de la Paix to the dull toned creations of an artist's brain." What he said is quite true. I have had it borne in upon me often, and one would think it strange if women were not inconsistent—above all, the Parisienne—where dress is concerned. The collar shown in the illustration is one of the dress accessories that the Parisienne fancies for the moment, and there is no better way of bringing a blouse up to date than by wearing this little piece of neckwear. As you see, it is nothing more elaborate than a well shaped and boned collar of net with a plaited frill at the top and a biblike effect of the plaited material at the base of the collar.

Smart Costumes Seen at Redfern's.

Yesterday I went to M. Redfern's to see his new velvet gowns and tailor mades as well as his furs. One lovely princess robe in brown velvet was most attractive. The corsage was draped and fastened at the side with buttons covered with brown and black liberty satin. The tunic was edged with a deep brown and black silk fringe of a grasslike nature with a very handsome heading. The sleeves were long and made of velvet and black satin. Another equally graceful gown was in gray velvet with a corsage garniture of gold lace. The newest feature of this costume was the draping of the skirt over the left shoulder and under the right arm.

The tailor makes I saw were without exception long in the skirt and coat, with but a faint indication of the waist line. A distinguished model showed a peacock blue cloth skirt and a long coat of the same shade in ribbed silk trimmed with black. The evening gowns I noticed had a great deal of embroidery on them, and the aim of the designer has evidently been to maintain a long uninterrupted line from shoulder to foot. These characteristics are carried out in the evening gown of yellow satin with rug embroideries shown in the group of cuts. Hats are beyond description. They are lovely and utterly impractical or practical and utterly unbecoming. They increase in width and multiply in feathered trimmings every week. I have seen some models trimmed in taffeta and velvet, but both look too heavy when used in such masses. The colors, too, are often unpleasantly jarring—for instance, a combination of mauve, old rose and brown and a mermaid green allied to a slate gray is not inspiring. But, again, there is a lovely damson shade being used in felt and velvet which is exquisite. Peacock blues and black will be worn both together and apart, and golden brown will hold its own as bravely as of yore.

CATHERINE TALBOT.

Unselfishness Is Sure to Bring Popularity

SO many women want to know how to be popular. It's such a simple thing I wonder they have to ask. To be popular one simply must appear unselfish. I say "appear" unselfish because to be unselfish is impossible unless one is fortunately born that way.

Do your best to stifle your tendency to hold the conversation in your own hands. Never, never, talk about yourself unless you are asked questions, and then answer them in the briefest way possible.

Don't tell your troubles. I wish I could print this in characters a foot high.

Learn to admire other women's hats and gowns and say nice things about their complexions and figures.

Learn to give up your own way and to like the things the person you are with cares for.

Be generous about giving your help in little things. They don't cost much, and they are sometimes appreciated more than the big ones. Remember to send postals from places where you stop and bright little notes on appropriate occasions.

When you hear something nice about a woman, tell her about it, but never let her know the disagreeable things people say.

Be uniformly cheerful and optimistic. It pays. Nobody loves a sour, unhappy woman. Few people want her around or care to help her.

Don't flirt with your friend's husband or sweetheart! There are plenty of other men in the world.

Don't be jealous even if you have cause. Go right ahead minding your own business and thinking of others instead of yourself. By practicing even a few of these rules you can't help winning friends.

You can see for yourself unselfishness and the tactfulness which springs from it are at the root of them all.

The lonely, unappreciated woman, my friends, is invariably the selfish one.

To Read Character.

How quickly you can tell a woman's character from the way she furnishes her house. There are some homes which appear all sham and pretense. The drawing room is filled with spin-dy legged gilt chairs which were never meant to be sat on, rococo tables which tremble so you can scarcely put a lamp or a heavy book on them and light toned carpets with sprawling pink and green figures which show each footstep and make the floor untidily instead of covering it neatly.

Then in other houses where the furniture is of good and sober design the colors clash horribly. The other day I sat for twenty memorable minutes in a living room where a deep red wall paper screamed next to a pair of muddy toned old rose curtains, while a deep green armchair further added to the discord.

It is almost unbelievable how such a disregard for harmony can exist.

The present fashion in interior decoration is very sensible. All the soft, dark tones are being used for the walls and carpets, and these are both soothing to the eye and practical.

Even the picture frames are no longer extravagant masses of gilt and incrustations. They are more likely to be made of plain wood to set off the picture, but not eclipse it. As for the tables and chairs, they are substantial and plain, made to be sat on and leaned against.

There is no pretense in the home of the well bred woman any more than there is in her person.

Elegant simplicity is the keynote of 1908 in dress, household decorations and manners.

A knowledge of human nature and of the right etiquette for each and every occasion is worth more than all the book lore in the world.

Many a woman, college educated and otherwise charming, has been a failure in this one respect—she didn't understand human nature and these little politenesses that stamp one as belonging to good society.

"The trouble with the public schools," said a mother to me recently, "is that they content themselves with cramming a child full of knowledge without paying attention to its outward appearance and its manners."

We are a scandal to Europeans on account of our abrupt ways of speaking, our forgetfulness of etiquette and the way we eat. Is it possible that America needs schools for manners?

Let some bright woman take up the idea.

A Girl's Hair.

I can't hear to see a girl in her teens with her hair all frizzled up in imitation of her elders. Why do mothers allow such things?

In the first place, a girl should wear her hair in a braid as long as possible—gives it a chance to grow it will never get in after years. In the second place, the contrast between a fresh, innocent young face and a rakish, elaborately artificial headdress is anything but harmonious. A young girl's attire should suggest her youth, innocence and freshness. She will have time enough to be a woman. Let her be young as long as she can.

The hair parted and tied back with a stiff ribbon while the ends are water-curlled is becoming to most girls, and for the older ones the simple figure 8 at the base of the head is both charmingly simple and becoming. If your daughter has abundant hair let her try a moderate pompadour with a double 8. This is very soft and pretty.

And, oh, girls, don't wear artificial puffs and curls! Leave those to the older women whose hair is neither so abundant nor so glossy as yours. It looks ghastly to see those artificial arrangements crowning a pretty young face.

Some New Gowns.

The other night I went to John Drew's new play, and I never saw so many pretty gowns in my life.

Speaking of young girls, there was a charming ingenue in the cast who wore dresses simply perfect from the point of view of their suitability.

One evening dress was of palest pink. It was made with the long, semitransparent princess effect and set off beautifully her delicate neck and arms.

Another costume was of white chiffon cloth, with an overdress effect caught under the bust by a pale blue silk sash. The hat to go with this was of white, lined with pale blue and trimmed with white lilacs and a single large pink rose.

The dresses were as simple as it is possible to make them. The lines, being long and graceful, set off her young figure beautifully.

I wish all girls could be induced to leave off ruffles, flounces, bows and tulle effects. How much lovelier they would appear!

What One Thing Needful.

What every woman needs most of all is self control.

She can't have too much of it. By means of it she can endure all things, conquer them and rise to whatever heights she chooses. Without it everything and everybody conquers her.

It makes me tired to hear a woman say "I would accomplish so and so, but"—or "I would be so and so if"—"But" and "if" should be scratched from the modern woman's dialogue. The difficulty, the opposition, lies nine times out of ten in her own character.

There is a friend of mine in very straitened circumstances, and she wants to go to work of some sort very badly—in fact, she must. Is she getting it? No; she finds it very hard.

And why? Because she puts everything before it. She is still accepting all manner of social invitations. As a result she sleeps late in the morning and does not get to people until too late in the afternoon. She is tired all the time, and her mind is not on serious things. She won't stay in her apartment because she says she is lonely there; she is out traveling every minute of her time.

Why will she always be a failure? Because she lacks concentration, and concentration means self control.

Providence helps those who help themselves, and you have to help yourself good and hard, jamming down out of sight and hearing all your little weaknesses, just as Napoleon did. Hunger, loneliness and slights were nothing to him in his youth.

Have time enough to be a woman.

THE MOST INFLUENTIAL WOMAN IN ITALY.

Dowager Queen Margherita is acknowledged by all European diplomats to be the dominant female influence in Italian politics. She is a woman of marked intellectual force, and she has a well developed taste for diplomacy. It now appears that the hitch in the affair of Prince Louis of Savoy and Miss Katherine Elkins is due to her distaste for the match.

THE UNHAPPIEST QUEEN IN EUROPE.

Wilhelmina of Holland, who began her reign under the happiest auspices, has been transformed by her misfortunes into a prematurely aged, pessimistic and pitifully unhappy woman. Although she is wedded to a husband who is by no means ideal, she has tried to make the best of it, but her diminishing prospect of leaving a lineal successor to the throne has saddened her.

Have time enough to be a woman.

KILLED A DEER

Lowell Man Among the Lucky Ones

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 10.—Game receipts were small yesterday on account of a marked rise in temperature in the game regions, which made it difficult to preserve game for any length of time. The total tally last night was 110 deer and two bears.

E. B. Degross of Lowell, Mass., and L. A. Gardner of Stockton Springs brought down game yesterday and a New York party went home with four deer.

MORTGAGEE SALE OF A NINE ROOM HOUSE, STABLE AND ABOUT 6786 SQUARE FEET OF LAND AT 517 WESTFORD STREET.

Promptly at the appointed time and place I will make a positive sale by public auction for the mortgagee, this two and one-half story slated roof, nine room house, stable and about 6786 square feet of land. In one of the best residential parts of the city sets this dwelling which in its present condition, has been set apart into two tenements, giving five rooms with the upstairs tenement, and four rooms with the down stairs tenement. It is in first class condition, has a fine cellar with concrete flooring, and if one desired to make it a two-flat house, it could be done so with little expense. It is heated throughout by furnace, has hot and cold water, gas lighting, bay windows and is well and substantially built. The stable in the rear has two stalls, a box stall and good carriage room. The lot has a frontage on Westford street of about 47 feet, and contains about 6786 square feet, giving in the rear fine garden room with three large apple trees, a grape vine and pear tree. The location is all that could be desired, being in a first class neighborhood, with the best car service in the city, also a splendid street of smooth paving. The sale will be positive, rain or shine.

Terms: $250 to be paid to the auctioneer as soon as struck off. By order of ANDOVER SAVINGS BANK, Mortgagee. Frederick S. Boutwell, Treasurer.

Saturday, October 17, 1908, at 4 P. M.

ADMINISTRATRIX SALE OF A FOUR-TENEMENT HOUSE AND ABOUT 3515 SQUARE FEET OF LAND, AT 124 HIGH STREET.

By virtue of a license granted to me by the Probate Court, I will positively sell by public auction this extraordinary fine parcel of investment property. The cottage contains six rooms and basement kitchen; is in first class repair, and rents for $12 a month.

The house in the rear contains four tenements of four rooms each, and rent for $7 a month each, making a total rental of $40 a month, or $480 a year. This building is also in very fine repair, and is at no time idle, and undoubtedly, on the whole, will pay an exceedingly fine revenue for the price it will be purchased at on day of sale. This is a remarkably good location for investment property, as you are in close proximity to all city conveniences, being but five minutes' walk to Merrimack square and three minutes' walk to schools and churches, and is an entirely sound and solid investment. The lot contains about 3515 square feet, with a frontage on High street of about 40 feet, and runs about 37 feet deep. Make no mistake by not being present at this sale, for it is up for the highest dollar, as it must be sold to settle the estate.

Terms: $400 must be paid to the auctioneer at time and place of sale. Other terms will be made known at sale.

At 4.30 o'clock

Under same power of sale, I will sell a beautiful lot of land on the westerly side of Berkeley street, containing about 485 square feet. It is high and dry, but a minute's walk to the car line on Rogers street, has a frontage of about 50 feet and runs about 57 feet in depth. There are many fine houses built on Berkeley street close to this lot, and to the place of moderate means, he could not choose a better site for building, for it is a place in the country being within the city limits, and will be bought at a very low figure. Berkeley street is the second street below Boylston, off Rogers, and this lot sets but a short distance from Rogers street.

Terms: $50 will be required, and must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as the lot is struck off.

The above two parcels are sold by the order of MARY RILEY, Admrx. of the estate of Philip Riley. JAMES L. OWENS, AU.

Monday, October 19th, at 3 P. M.

MR. CHARLES J. GLIDDEN HAS INSTRUCTED AUCTIONEER KEYES TO SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION HIS HOUSE, STABLE AND ABOUT 20,750 SQ. FT. OF LAND, AT 1131 MIDDLESEX STREET, CORNER OF WILDER, ON FRIDAY, OCT. 12, 1908, AT 3 P. M., REGARDLESS OF THE WEATHER.

The buildings, grounds, location, taken in its entirety go to make up as fine a residence as stands in Lowell today.

Setting on a strong and solid foundation, surrounded by beautiful lawns, the dwelling is attractive, with its fancy slated roof, pretty bays, and alcoves, glazed with plate glass and loaded counterpane, of exquisite design, also with splendid piazzas and stonework on the east side, covering driveway. On entering from the west side there is a large reception hall finished in quartered oak, drawing room to the right finished in cherry, with electric drop fixture, a pure white marble mantle, massive gilded window caps, and the walls are covered with heavy, embossed paper. To the left a large living room, finished in this room running almost to the floor, which is of oak. Landing from this room to the east side of the house, there is a very pretty library, finished in quartered oak, with a lovely hand-carved mantle and bay window. The dining room, on the Wilder street side is finished in quartered oak, with paneled sides. It has a circle bay with handsome leaded glass design. The kitchen and pantry are finished in ash and in the east side of the kitchen, in vestibule is a large refrigerator built in, receiving for use from the outside. On the floor above are three exceedingly large chambers, from each of which off the east chamber is a thoroughly equipped bath room finished in quartered oak and is perfect in every respect. On the top floor are two finished rooms, also large, store room. The walls and ceilings in the main part of the house are all neatly decorated in matched colorings. The cellar is extremely high posted, and is partitioned into a storeroom, preserve and storage apartments. The laundry is in the basement under the kitchen, and is thoroughly equipped with wash trays, boiler, and so forth. The house is heated throughout by an excellent steam plant and also by indirect hot air.

The stable is in keeping with the house in every way. It is heated by steam. There are three single stalls, two box stalls, a large carriage room, harness room, man's room, a large loft and an exceedingly fine cellar with concrete floor.

The lot is laid to a superbly graded lawn, and contains about 20,750 square feet of land, with a frontage on Middlesex street of about 134 feet, and on Wilder street of about 124 feet; it is curbed with granite cut stone, has concrete circle driveway, concrete walks, and is most desirably situated with many pretty residences surrounding it.

Terms: $1000 must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as struck off. Make all inquiries of the auctioneer, whom I have left in full charge. The house will be open for inspection from 12 o'clock on day of sale till hour of sale.

SERIOUS INJURY

Jeremiah Ryan Thrown From Wagon

Jeremiah Ryan, thinsmith, residing at 773 Westford street, was thrown from his wagon in Middlesex street about six o'clock last night and sustained serious injuries.

Ryan with two other men on the seat of the wagon was driving up Stevens street from Marginal street. As he came into Middlesex street an inward bound electric car struck the wagon throwing the three men from the seat to the street. There were several passengers in the car and these and the car crew hurried to the men's assistance. Then it was found that Ryan had broken his leg, and the ambulance was called and hurried Ryan to St. John's hospital. There it was stated late last night that he was resting comfortably without other more serious injury.

STRONG ATTACK

Bryan Gets After the Republicans

QUINCY, Ill., Oct. 10.—Fresh from his conference in Chicago with hundreds of business men whom he also specially addressed, Wm. J. Bryan travelling for 12 hours yesterday through the state of Illinois and making numerous stops, held himself up as "the advance agent of prosperity."

The panic of last fall was his principal theme and from early morning until his last word was uttered last night, he hammered away at the republican charge that his election will mean business depression and failures.

Attention was called by Mr. Bryan to a statement recently appearing in a Chicago republican paper that 1200 children went to school hungry every morning. A democratic victory this year, he asserted, furnished the only hope of a cure for the hard times from which he said the people are suffering, and for restoration of prosperity. He recalled Mr. Taft for running on a platform which he did not endorse, attacked Speaker Cannon and Mr. Sherman, the republican vice presidential nominees as being responsible for stifling legislation in favor of labor, and finally bitterly arraigning the president again for taking a hand in the campaign.

For the first time he referred to Mr. Longworth's alleged statement at Malone, Me., that Mr. Taft should be elected, and held office for eight years, and then be succeeded by his father-in-law, President Roosevelt.

"He shall not be permitted to nominate and elect his successor," Mr. Bryan vehemently declared, "with the prospect announced of his own son-in-law of re-dictating for eight years more. It is time that the power of the people shall be used by the people."

Enormous crowds greeted him everywhere along the line of travel and enthusiastically cheered him. At one point he was caught in the swarms of multitude and forced to extricate himself. With the speech delivered last night he had spoken fourteen times in several instances his remarks were of considerable length. The text of his address here was his denials of a statement printed in a western paper that he wrote editorial and speeches against granting pensions to old soldiers. In his audience was a number of veterans.

Accordingly the candidate for the state yesterday was a far cry from the democratic standard bearer, and Ex-Governor Louis B. Francis, of Missouri, who was a member of President Cleveland's cabinet and introduced Mr. Bryan here last night.

CARD OF THANKS

We are sorry that no better means appears at hand for the expression of our gratitude than this. But we wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to the many who, in our bereavement, offered their sympathy and their beautiful gifts of flowers. In our moment of trial, our burden was lightened by the kindly and thoughtful words and actions of our friends.

Things in the business world are looking up.

There is a more cheerful atmosphere on Merrimack and Central streets. Not exactly intoxicating but things in general are much better. If you have not already, you will feel it soon.

Everybody will find work who wants to work. The sole purpose in life is not to make money nor to hoard it. But it is essential that one be careful, provident, un-wasteful. There will be another "business depression" some day.

Now is a good time to think things. Now is a good time to get the thrifty habit. YOUR BANK DEPOSIT CAN BE MADE TO EARN YOU INTEREST. Earning interest for you—yet always at hand, always subject to check. Does it earn you interest? And again, You should place your valuables down town in a SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX. You should go to the safest place in Lowell and rent such a box. Go where the arrangement is such that you alone have access to the box, where you only handle the box. We should like very much to talk with you concerning matters alluded to. We would like to meet you face to face to make your acquaintance.

TROLLEY SYSTEM

For the Removal of Dirt in Street

TO BE USED IN SEWER LOWERING WORK

In Merrimack Street—Work Will Start Next Wednesday—No Dirt Piles in Street

The work of deepening the sewer in Merrimack street from John street to Bridge street will be begun next Wednesday and for the first time in Lowell the filling in trolley system will be used; a trolley system for the removal of dirt from point to point.

It is for the purpose of precluding the necessity of blockading Merrimack square with heaps of dirt that the trolley system has been resorted to.

When the work of lowering the sewer is begun an excavation will be made at one point while back filling will be begun at another and the dirt from the excavation will be used to back fill.

Frank R. French of the Carson, French Machine company, the company that handles the trolley system is expected to arrive in Lowell today to talk the matter over with Supt. Morse.

Bid Lively There!

Until ten o'clock Monday forenoon, October 12, proposals will be received at the office of the purchasing agent for one car of best white cats for the street department; 50 stone bounds for the street department and various bulbs for the park department.

Typoid Dying Out

No new cases of typhoid fever were reported at the office of the board of health today and the disease is abating very perceptibly. Purchasing Agent Mackenzie who has been confined to his bed for many days with typhoid fever was able to sit up for a while today for the first time since he took his bed.

Big Registration

The total registration up to the noon hour today was 234, a big increase on last year and the registrars expect a heavy registration this afternoon and evening.

NIGHT EDITION

MAZDAZNAN CULT

High Priestess Defends Mrs. Shaw Against Enemies

Says Stories Credited to Her in Court Were False—Lively Time at Spenta Maria Temple Last Night.

Another mild sensation having to do with the Mazdaznans, or Sun Worshipers, occurred last night at their temple Spenta Maria, in Columbus avenue, when Mrs. M. E. R. Hilton, the high priestess, in words "specific" defended Mrs. Helen M. Shaw against stories purported to have been told by her to certain ones; stories having to do with Mazdaznanism.

Mrs. Hilton said she didn't believe that Mrs. Shaw ever told the stories credited to her, and that Mrs. Shaw is of sound mind and should be allowed to do with her money and other property as she sees fit.

The high priestess gave as her opinion that the conservator proceedings now pending were instigated by relatives of Mrs. Shaw through selfish motives.

The meeting last evening was a regular meeting and Mrs. Hilton lectured as usual and having finished her physical culture lecture she sailed in to the folks, who, she declared had been misrepresenting Mrs. Shaw.

She also took occasion to remark that for the first time in the history of Mazdaznanism in Lowell, the newspapers, at the recent hearing for the appointment of a conservator, gave the Sun Worshipers a fair show.

She declared that what evidence the newspapers did publish was true to the stories told in the court room but that the papers didn't give all of the evidence. "Every word of it should have been published," she said.

As to Mrs. Shaw ever having said that Dr. Hanish, "the little master," had gone to the same school as Christ, Mrs. Hilton said: "That statement to my mind is the most ridiculous ever spoken, and I am sure that Mrs. Shaw never said anything of the kind. Mrs. Shaw knows that Christ died hundreds and hundreds of years ago and she knows that Dr. Hanish is but 68 years old. Mrs. Shaw is too intelligent a person to make a statement of that kind."

She declared that conditions had so shaped themselves that the fight would have to be one to the bitter end; that the Mazdaznans though their religion is one of peace and love, they cannot stand aside when one of their number, student or officer, is persecuted.

There was quite a number of outsiders at the meeting last night and the high priestess gave them a very hearty welcome. "We want the public to come to our meetings and see for themselves what is going on. There is nothing that we are afraid of or ashamed of and we will welcome all the strangers that our temple will hold."

The Mazdaznans have had circulars printed and several of these circulars were distributed at the meeting last night. The circular explains that the word Mazdaznan is from a Zend word meaning "master thought" or "the thought that masters," that it is an embracing system of thought, word and deed that takes up the golden thread of life at the cradle, following it through all the plains of development, and the vicissitudes of human experience until the evening shadows and the kindly arms of the night reach forth to claim him and bear him on to a new day of usefulness in another sphere.

Here are a few gems of advice culled from the circular:

When sick or worried take a few long drawn breaths.

Take a sponge bath every morning and a dry towel rub every night.

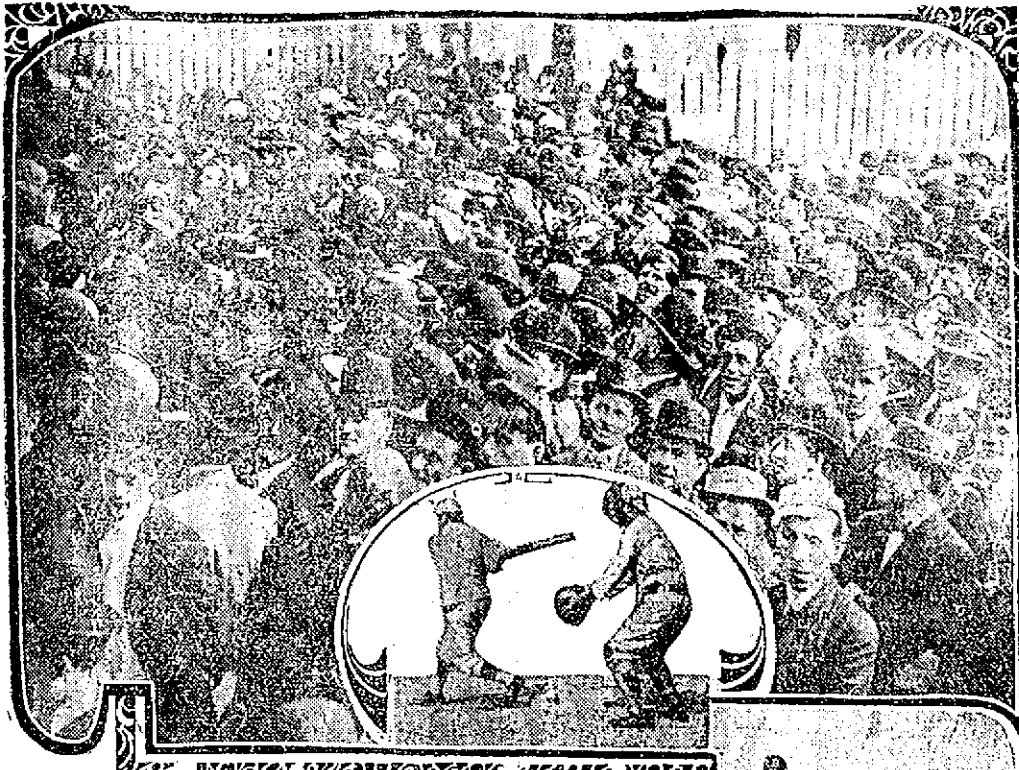

Keep muscles relaxed mouth closed, and breathe through your nostrils only.

Eat no breakfast and control your appetite at dinner.

Disinfect your room by airing it and let a little sunshine in.

When retiring to bed forgive and forget the past.

CROWDS ENTERING GROUNDS AT DETROIT.

A GREAT BATTLE

Chicago and Detroit Meet in First Contest Today

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—Incoming Chicago trains today brought enthusiasts bent on witnessing the first of the Olympic struggles between the Detroit and Chicago teams for the championship of the world. They were a brave and confident minority which flaunted "Cub" banners amidst the multitude of "Tiger" emblems displayed by a no less confident majority. Before daylight the enthusiasts began forming in line before the ticket windows at Bennett park waiting for the sale of general admission tickets to open up at 9 o'clock. Many who had had no breakfast at home munched sandwiches and still had enough left in their pockets or packages which they carried for luncheon at noon. They were taking no chances. All of the reserved seats for today's games were sold within two hours yesterday, leaving hundreds of would-be purchasers unsatisfied. Many of these were to be found in the less ambitious line of fans.

Medicine Hat and the areas of high barometer and low barometer worked together in a harmony worthy of the cause to the great satisfaction of the weather man who had predicted fair and warm weather with just a tinge of autumn crispness.

Expressions of gratification were heard on every hand that both teams were in excellent condition and fit to play the best ball of their already brilliant careers. The list of injured is fortunately short. Catcher Schmidt of Detroit donned his uniform despite a finger the condition of which would have kept a less plucky player from playing. No less Spartan was the conduct of Shortstop O'Leary who ignored a badly bruised thumb. Captain Chance showed no effects of the work which he received in the neck at New York except in the huskiness and faintness of his voice.

Shortstop Bush whose sensational dash was a factor in Detroit's final work for the pennant, was unhappy. He was ineligible to play, having joined a finger the condition of which would have kept a less plucky player from playing. No less Spartan was the conduct of Shortstop O'Leary who ignored a badly bruised thumb.

President F. J. Navin of the Detroit club has erected in the outfield a tier of circus seats which extended to left field fence line over to the pavilion in right field. They would accommodate 10,000 spectators in addition to the normal seating capacity of the park. Altogether there were accommodations for between 15,000 and 20,000 persons with space left for those who were enthusiastic enough to sit upon the ground or stand to watch the contest.

The batting order this morning was announced as follows:

Detroit—McIntyre, cf; O'Leary, ss; Crawford, cf; Cobb, rf; Rossman, 1b; Schafer, 3b; Schmidt, c; Downs, 2b; Killian, p.

Chicago—Sheckard, 1f; Evers, 2b; Schulte, rf; Chance, 1b; Steinmetz, 3b; Hoffman, cf; Tinker, ss; Kling, c; Reulbach, p.

Umpires—American league: Sheridan and Connelly; National league: O'Day and Klem.

The gates to the park were opened at 10 o'clock and the crowd immediately began pouring in. The early comers were entertained by the light morning practice of the Detroit team.

Before the game Garry Hermann presided at a meeting of the national commission at which it was decided that two sets of umpires, O'Day (National) and Sheridan (American) and Tinker (National) and Connelly (American) should alternate at the several games. On American league grounds the American league umpire will be at the home plate, on National league grounds the National league man will occupy that point.

Chicago's Practice
An hour and a quarter before the game began the Chicago team took the field quickly followed by the Tigers. Detroit immediately started practice on the diamond while Capt. Chance and his men started a dozen balls tossing back and forth in the space between their bench and the diamond.

The members of the national commission occupied a box in front of the grandstand. Scattered about the stand were many men of prominence.

THREATENING WEATHER
An hour before the game the sky suddenly darkened. The sun which had shone brightly during the morning was obscured by gray clouds.

The umpires and captains conferred at the plate in a slight drizzle of rain and it was still falling when play was called at 2 o'clock.

With the rain coming down but not sufficiently hard to dampen the odor of the fans the game was called with Chicago at the bat.

First Inning.
Chicago—Sheckard doubled to right field. Cobb struck in the wet grass as he reached for the ball. Evers struck out. Schulte out. Schafer to Rossman. Sheckard taking third. Chance walked. Chance steals second. Hoffman flied to Crawford. No runs.

Detroit—As Detroit came to bat the rain was falling heavily. McIntyre singled over right field base. O'Leary struck out. Crawford struck out. McIntyre stole second. Cobb singled over third base, scoring McIntyre but was thrown out. Sheckard to Evers. One run.

Second Inning
Chicago—Hoffman out. Downs to Rossman. Tinker flied to Crawford who made a wonderful one-hand catch. Kling walked. Reulbach forced King. O'Leary to Downs. No runs.

Detroit—Rossman out. Tinker to Chance. Schafer flied to Hoffman. Schmidt out. Reulbach to Chance. No runs.

BALLOON RACE
WILL BE STARTED FROM SCHMARGENDORF TODAY

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—The first of the international balloon races started today from Schmargendorf. Twenty-three spherical balloons, representing France, Austria, Germany and Belgium, were sent away at intervals of five minutes. The objective point is Schmagenhagen near Grapenburg about 40 miles from Berlin.

The dirigibles traveled straight towards the goal. Several contained women.

COLUMBUS DAY

K. of C. to Attend Vesper Service

Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, will observe Columbus day tomorrow with a special vesper service in the evening at 7 o'clock at St. Peter's church. The musical portion of the service will be of a high order, the regular choir being augmented by other local singers. The Knights will meet in the Fair hall adjoining the old church at 6:30 o'clock and will proceed to the church where seats will be reserved in the main aisle. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Fr. Kenzel, C. S. R., the eloquent Redemptorist father from the Mission church, Roxbury.

THE IRISH LEAGUE

To Meet in Harrington Hall Tomorrow Night

The United Irish league will hold an important meeting in Harrington hall, 52 Central street, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Hibernian hall, the regular place of meetings, will be occupied by a convention.

A local clergyman will deliver an address and there will be a musical program by prominent local singers.

An important matter to receive the attention of the meeting is the arrangements for the reception of the Irish envoys, Hon. Joseph Devlin, M. P., and Rev. Richard McGhee, at Associate hall, a week from tomorrow.

The envoys bring cheering intelligence to the friends of Ireland relative to the progress made in the Irish movement during the past few years. They come to assure the friends of the cause in this city that home rule for Ireland is now inevitable.

The laudable situation presents itself of a coterie of the House of Lords preparing a home rule bill for Ireland to offset the measure that the British ministry whether Tory or Liberal must soon grant. A large attendance is requested at tomorrow's meeting.

LOYAL DEMOCRATS

Nominate Candidates For County Commissioner

County and Councillor Conventions Show Democrats Loyal Despite Overwhelming Republican Majorities

Unterrified by an overwhelming republican majority and in striking contrast to the congressional convention recently held in this city the democrats of Middlesex county in convention assembled at Associate Hall, this afternoon nominated candidates for county commissioner and for high sheriff, and a spirit of unanimity prevailed throughout.

A perfunctory affair, the scoffer may say, but nevertheless there were democrats present from Melrose, Cambridge and other points at the lower end of the county who were present to nominate democrats even though they knew that nothing short of a political miracle would bring them success.

The county convention was called to order at 2:45 by William J. McCluskey, chairman of the county committee. Mr. McCluskey was elected chairman of the convention and Angier Goodwin of Melrose secretary.

After the regular preliminaries had been gone through Edward Gallagher was nominated for the three year term for county commissioner and George R. Duren of Carlisle was named for the unexpired term of two years. John F. Holland of Winchester was nominated for high sheriff.

James F. McCarthy, Jr., of Lowell was the unanimous choice for associate commissioner and Mr. McCarthy, one of the faithful attendants at all conventions was present and accepted the nomination in a neat speech.

Councillor Convention
The councillor convention followed and the following business was transacted:

William J. McCluskey, chairman; Mr. Goodwin, secretary.

Charles T. Day of Medford was nominated councillor.

FATALLY INJURED

Caught in a Belt and Wound Around a Shaft in Belvidere Mill No. 2—Little Hope of His Recovery

William S. Corcoran, residing at 54 South Whipple street, was probably whirled around the shafting three or four times after which he fell to the floor badly bruised, cut and bleeding.

The ambulance was summoned and the injured man was hurried to St. John's hospital where an examination showed that he was suffering from a broken nose, fracture of the skull, several ribs broken and in all probability internally injured.

Little hope is entertained for his recovery.

The man was working around a machine when his clothing got caught in a belt and he was whirled around the shafting three or four times.

The belt was travelling at such a high rate of speed over the pulleys that before any of his fellow employees

BUSINESS GOOD SHORT ON LIGHTS

At Merrimack Woolen Company Plant Too Few Lanterns in Westford Street

Business is booming at the Merrimack Woolen company's plant in Dracut, Contractor Fred E. Pollard was about completed the bridge spanning Beaver brook and connecting the wool scouring department with the main mill.

It is a closed bridge and the structural work is of heavy Georgia pine. Besides the construction of the mill the wool scouring department will also be slightly changed and part of it will be used for a dye house. To meet this demand a part of the wool scouring room is being taken up and the preliminary work of laying a cement foundation for the large dye vats is well under way. A part of the roof will have glass windows and the change will be an added improvement.

DELAY EXPECTED

Work on Sewer Will Interfere With Cars

It is expected that when work is started on the sewer lowering job in Merrimack street between John and Bridge streets that the street railway will meet with more or less trouble and passengers with more or less annoyance. The dirt as has already been stated will be removed by a trolley system, an overhead trolley, and the braces or supports for this trolley will take up considerable room. The work will be begun at Bridge street and men who will have to do with the work stated today that they could see some trouble ahead in the way of delay of cars, shifting and crossing over from track to track.

TO HOLD AUTOPSY

Question as to How Man Met His Death

Assistant Medical Examiner Bell viewed the body of John Dahlgren at J. F. O'Donnell & Sons, undertakers, this afternoon, and decided that it would be best to hold an autopsy before deciding as to the cause of death. The autopsy will be held this afternoon or evening.

John Dahlgren's body was found in a burning house in Westford street early this morning and there is some question as to the cause of death, a question as to whether death was due to suffocation or suicide. The story of the fire and the finding of the body appears in another column.

FOUR MACHINES RUNNING

MILLINOCKETT, Me., Oct. 10.—Four paper machines were in operation, two being started today in the local mill of the Great Northern Paper company. The papermakers who arrived last night were given living quarters in a small building connected with the mill so they might not be molested by the strikers. It was reported that six local men returned to work. More machines will be started next week. The East Millinocket mill of the same company was still idle.

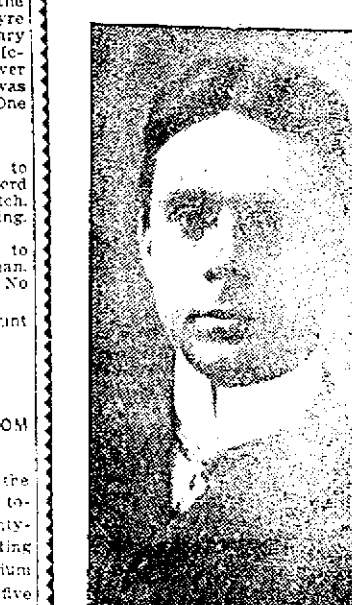

COKE COKE COKE

THREE TIMES as good as you imagine you will find OUR COKE as a winter fuel. If you will but give it a fair try out. Used under proper conditions, you will find it CHEAPER, CLEANER, more ECONOMICAL than any fuel you have ever used. We can give you names and addresses of hundreds of Lowell families who use fuel of no other kind save for kindling—and coke requires less kindling than the best quality of coal you ever saw. I.e., it ignites quickly.

We know we are going to sell more coke next winter than ever before. We know we shall be rushed when the cold weather arrives—hence we advise buying now. During cold weather we do not need to advertise. If the West is scratching the varnish on the front door, remember you can buy in small quantities—anywhere on the street in half-bushel bags containing half bushel for ten cents.

MAYOR OF LYNN

Is Trying to Settle Labor Trouble in That City

LYNN, Oct. 10.—Although much doubt was expressed as to whether many of the shoe manufacturers would attend the meeting at Mayor Porter's office this morning to consider methods of arbitration with the representatives of the lasters' unions and members of the state board of arbitration, it was the consensus of opinion that the conference would not be an uneventful one. The attitude of Joseph Caunt at whose factory the trouble originated who has just returned here after being absent since Tuesday was eagerly awaited.

As the days go on without any apparent approach toward reaching an amicable settlement of the strike the situation becomes more tense. This morning a number of factories did not reopen and the remainder were being operated with a small quota of help. Subsidiary branches of the shoe trade are beginning to feel the effects of the strike and several cut sole, box toe, best and counter factories and several other shoe finding industries are running on short time or with a reduced number of operatives.

That the striking lasters are beginning to undergo hardship is shown by the increasing number fed at the free restaurants and soup kitchens at each meal. Several prominent furniture movers have offered to take care of the furniture of any of the strikers who may be evicted for inability to pay their rent.

Pickets were stationed early this morning in the vicinity of the Vamp building where the factories of Harney Bros. and J. L. Walker & Co. are located in an endeavor to prevent the strike breakers employed by those firms from returning to work.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Waltham Woman Charged With Murdering Boston Man

WALTHAM, Oct. 10.—After entering a plea of not guilty to the murder of Clinton Childs of Boston, Mrs. Rose Silsby of this city was given a hearing in the district court today. Through her counsel, Thomas Carey, she waived the reading of the complaint. The government was represented by Assistant District Attorney Charles J. Wier of Lowell. There were sixteen witnesses present and after five of them had been heard the case was continued until next Saturday, October 17.

SUPT. WHITCOMB

Talks on Evening Drawing Schools

Speaking of the evening drawing schools, Supt. Whitcomb, today, said: The evening drawing schools are much appreciated by the few who are closely connected with them, or who have been pupils in them, but they are not, unfortunately, very well known to the general public.

The machine class is the largest, and the best known. Its principal, Mr. S. G. Stephens, is a former professor in the Institute of Technology, and his ability both as a draughtsman and as a teacher, is widely recognized. The teachers associated with him, eight in number, are also all skilled draughtsmen and experienced teachers, and the results of their work is naturally of the highest order. A graduate of the machine class, who was also a graduate of our day high school, offered drawing as one of the subjects for admission to college a few years ago, and when the president saw his work, he said with a smile, "Mr. Stephens was my teacher 20 or 30 years ago," and he not only accepted the applicant's drawings as proof of fitness, but gave him an advanced rating for one year.

The work of this class is, of course, intensely practical, and nearly all the graduates of the school have used the skill acquired in it to advance themselves in their profession. In fact, the bulk of the civil engineers and draughtsmen in this city have been pupils of this school, and to them and their friends it needs no word of explanation or praise. To others, however, it may be of interest to say that a class of about 150 earnest young men as can be found anywhere in the country are to be found here every winter, and the good they get is as open to others as to them.

The architectural class is taught by well known architect, Mr. Harry P. Graves, and three thoroughly competent instructors. The class usually numbers about fifty, and a large proportion of the architects of this city and many who have gone elsewhere have learned the rudiments at least of their profession in this class.

As to the work in free hand, the principal of that class writes as follows: In the free hand department, the school offers courses in applied design, modeling, cast and life drawing, perspective drawing, water color and china painting. The school offers unusual opportunities for the study of the arts of design, and the application of art to practical handicraft. There will be an opportunity to work out the designs in leather, stenciling and china painting.

The stencil, long known to decorative art in Japan, Germany and England, did not come into use in this country until three years ago. Today it is established. Its general adaptability, its possibilities of artistic development, its ease of execution have won it a permanent place as a method of decoration. For business purposes, table covers, and various house furnishings, this method of textile decoration is deservedly popular. Many have taken it up to beautify their homes, while others are following it as a profitable business.

ony and design as applied to the public school work.

As has been previously announced, an exhibition of the work of the classes of 1907-8 is to be given at the Mann school building, Thursday afternoon and evening next, from 2 to 5 o'clock. This exhibition will not only be well worth seeing by the general public, but it will afford all those who are interested in it, or who wish to know more about it, with a possibility of becoming students in it, an opportunity to see what others have done, to talk with the teachers freely and at length about the work, and to register, if that is desired, in the classes which are to open for regular work Monday and Tuesday, October 19 and 20.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A birthday party that was one of the best social successes of the season was held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bamford in Main street, the occasion being the 20th anniversary of the birth of their daughter, Miss Catherine. About twenty-five guests were present and all assisted in making the evening a pleasant one.

During the evening an excellent musical program was given, including selections by the Sagamore quartet with solos by Fred Bamford, Etta Frazer, Josephine Mawn and others. Misses Bamford and Mawn acted as accompanists for the singers.

Miss Bamford was the recipient of many presents, the most conspicuous being a toilet case and watch fob.

A dainty luncheon was served and all departed wishing the hostess many happy birthdays and thanking her for the good time enjoyed.

"BOB" GANLEY

Says That Chicago Will Win Series

Bob-Ganley, the captain of the Washington baseball team of the American league, has arrived at his home in Lowell. He is looking and feeling as fine as silk. He picks the Chicago Cubs as the winners of the series with Detroit for the world's championship in the series which were begun today. He says the mix-up recently reported as having taken place in St. Louis was a matter of no consequence.

LETTER TO KING

CETTINE, Montenegro, Oct. 10.—Col. Popovitch, an aide-de-camp to Prince Nicholas, left here today for Rome bearing an autograph letter of the prince to King Victor Emmanuel. It is presumed that the prince has appointed to the king of Italy, who is his son-in-law, to support the claims of Montenegro in the present crisis.

IN POLICE COURT MAN FOUND DEAD

Judge Objects to Saloon Men In Flames That Threatened His Bailing Drunks

"I don't want any rum seller from whom you get your liquor to go up and bail you out of jail," was the remark made by Judge Hadley in police court this morning after continuing the case of Robert Farley until next Wednesday morning.

Farley was charged with being drunk and he entered a plea of guilty. Patrolman Hill testified that Farley got crazy drunk and drove his family out of doors after breaking up practically all of the furniture in the house.

Farley's only defense was that the furniture which he broke belonged to him. The court decided that a few days' rest in jail would do the prisoner some good and after continuing the case till Wednesday made the remark that he did not want a liquor dealer to bail the man out.

The fact that Stephen Shaughnessy has a wife and children dependent upon him caused Judge Hadley to be lenient and instead of giving the defendant a direct sentence, gave him a suspended sentence of three months in jail and placed him in the hands of the probation officer for one year.

Catherine Connors and Mary Carroll, second offenders, were fined $5 each. There were three first offenders who were taxed the usual $2.

Cornelius Sullivan, who claims Quincy as his home, was arrested the night before last and yesterday morning was released by the probation officer. Con, however, started to celebrate his good luck in escaping from the lockup by getting intoxicated. He was escorted to the station last night and in court this morning was fined $5 and the morning was not forthcoming he will be sentenced to the house of correction in Cambridge.

William Campbell, of South Boston, was fined $5 because it was the second time he appeared before the court within a year, and if his fine is not paid he will also spend a few days at the house of correction in Cambridge.

Michael J. Carroll and Bridget Kelley were charged with fornication. Both entered pleas of not guilty. Serg. Atkinson and Patrolman Frank Donovan, who made the arrests, testified to the facts and the couple were fined $15 each.

In the case of George Richard, charged with the larceny of $15 from Omer Larue on the 22nd of September, the government asked for a continuance and the case will be heard Monday morning.

British Pensioner

James Bradley was charged with failing to provide proper support for his family since the first of last May. He pleaded guilty and the court remanded him in a severe manner after hearing the testimony of his wife.

Mrs. Bradley, a woman of slight build, with an infant in her arms and a bright looking little boy of about four years, following her to the stand, testified that her husband left her last May and after waiting a week for his return she had to give up her house and go to Worcester, where her sister took care of her.

The government brought out the fact that Bradley is a pensioner of the British army and the court remanded him in a severe manner after hearing the testimony of his wife.

Stole Metal Castings

Stanislaw Glowinski, through his counsel, J. Joseph Hennessy, pleaded guilty to two complaints of larceny. In the first complaint he was charged with the larceny of 130 pounds of metal castings valued at 25 cents a pound, the property of the Lowell Machine shop and in the second complaint with the larceny of a saw valued at $1.50 a gauge valued at $10 and a soldering iron worth $1, also the property of the aforementioned corporation.

The defendant was a yard hand in the "big shop" and had been employed there for the past three or four years. After stealing the castings Glowinski sold some of them and the remainder were found under his bed in Front street by Corporation Officer Noyes and Patrolman Dennett.

Glowinski was found guilty on both counts and was fined $20 on the first count and $15 on the second.

CATHOLIC NEWS

The Parishes Preparing for the Boston Parade

There will be a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock of the officers of the different societies of the Immaculate Conception church to make arrangements for the parish reunion of Wednesday afternoon and evening, Oct. 21. Great preparations are being made to have the coming reunion excel those of the past. A feature of the occasion will be the formation and parade of children of the parish from the Immaculate Conception school to the Associate hall on the afternoon of the day of the reunion.

There will be a meeting of the Holy Name society of the Immaculate Conception church tomorrow afternoon at 5.30 o'clock.

A monthly meeting of the Immaculate Conception Sodality will be held in the basement of the church Tuesday evening immediately after the rosary devotion.

Rev. Fr. Sullivan, C. M., of the Vincentian Order of Mission Fathers, was a caller this week at the parochial residence of the Oblate Fathers of the Immaculate Conception church. Father Sullivan came from Emmitsburg, Va., having been visiting hospitals of the order in Baltimore, Philadelphia, three in Boston and St. John's of Lowell, all of which are conducted by Sisters of the Vincentian Order.

The O. M. I. Cadets

The O. M. I. Cadets held a very successful street drill last night in the vicinity of the Immaculate Conception school hall under the direction of Lieut. Leonard P. McGarry in preparation for the parade in Boston on Nov. 1. The next drill will be held on Friday night of the ensuing week.

St. Peter's Church

On Thursday afternoon, Oct. 23 there will be a meeting of the Spiritual directors of the different organizations that are to parade in Boston on Nov. 1, the occasion of the anniversary of the establishment of the diocese of Boston.

CLASS PARTY

The class of 1908, Lowell Training school, conducted a delightful dancing party in Lincoln hall last night and the event was attended by about twenty-five couples, including many from out of town. Bamber's orchestra furnished pleasing music for dancing. At intermission light refreshments were served. Misses Eugene Hayler and Alice Lynch were the managers of the party event, assisted by the other members of the class.

John Dahlgren of West Adams

Street the Victim — The Suicide Theory Not Credited by Chief Hosmer

John Dahlgren, an iron moulder, was found dead in the attic of his new two-tenement house at 935 Westford street early this morning.

He was found by the firemen who responded to an alarm from box 235 at 4.34 o'clock and the house was in flames when they arrived. It was at first believed that the man had been suffocated but the fact that a piece of window cord was tied in a hangman's knot about his throat gave the impression that it was suicide. The cord had been burned off a foot or more from the knot and while the skin was chafed or cracked there was not the impression about the throat that such a cord would be likely to make, and this was explained by the fact that the cord was below his shirt collar and that the latter was between the cord and his neck.

John Dahlgren lived with his wife and daughter at 52 West Adams street. For years he had been an iron moulder at Peavey's foundry in Walker street and by being prudent had saved money enough to warrant him in building a house. It was said, however, that he was dependent of late because the house cost much more than he anticipated.

When the firemen arrived at the scene of the fire and tragedy the flames were flashing through the attic windows. The fire originated in a barrel in the cellar, the barrel having contained chips and other debris. The barrel was resting on the cellar stairs and all doors were opened to the attic so that there was a sufficient draft to send the flames upward in lightning time.

Some people gave utterance this morning to the belief that John Dahlgren, despondent and weary, went to the house shortly before four o'clock, started the fire in the cellar and opened all doors to the attic, the place which he selected for his death scene.

Chief Hosmer does not believe that Dahlgren set the fire because it had gained such headway when the firemen arrived and there was a straight clear run from the fire houses to the fire, and if the man committed suicide Chief Hosmer says he did it while temporarily insane; that he went to the house, found the fire licking its way from the cellar and, coupled with previous despondency, it so turned his head that he decided to end it all.

Mrs. Dahlgren, whose condition is now critical because of the tragedy, said that her husband left home about twenty minutes before five o'clock this morning. They were to move into the house next Monday and he was to arrange today for the completion of gas fittings.

Chief Hosmer and others think that Mrs. Dahlgren made a mistake on the time that her husband left the house, that he left shortly before 4 rather than shortly before 5 o'clock.

When the body was first discovered it was supposed to be that of Samuel Robertson, a fishman, but Robertson was found safe, sound and solid in the flesh a few hours later. A policeman had been dispatched to John Dahlgren's home in West Adams street to apprise him of the fact that his house was burning and when the policeman got there he found that Mr. Dahlgren had left home earlier in the morning.

Mr. Dahlgren's little girl then went to the scene of the fire and asked Chief Hosmer if he had seen her papa. A minute before the little girl arrived Chief Hosmer had picked up a coat and the little girl immediately recognized it as her father's coat, hence her question to the chief who placed the little girl in his wagon and took her home.

On the way to West Adams street he met Mrs. Dahlgren and he persuaded her to return home and the news of her husband's death was broken to her as easily as possible. The shock proved too much for her and she became hysterical. A physician was summoned and it was said that her condition was serious.

John Dahlgren's body was removed to the parlors of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons in Market street where it remained to be viewed by the medical examiner. The man's clothing was not burned but the intense heat had cracked the skin on the hands and face, but to the ordinary eye there wasn't any signs of strangulation.

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the Dahlgren residence on Westford street.

HOWARD IN COURT

He is Charged With Murder of His Wife

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 10.—The case of William C. Howard charged with the murder of his wife, Ida Howard, came in by continuance in the third district court today. Gardner Hart who claims to have seen Howard at Padanaram on the night of the supposed murder of Assistant Medical Examiner Bullard and Chester L. Claudino, street car conductor, who claimed to have talked with Mrs. Howard on the Padanaram car on the night she is thought to have met her death, were the first witnesses presented by the government.

Medical Examiner Bullard said that from his autopsy death resulted by suffocation from drowning or some other cause, and that it might have been either suicide, homicide or accident.

Mr. Hart and Conductor Claudino definitely placed both Mr. and Mrs. Howard at Padanaram at the time the crime is alleged to have been committed and Privato John Frely testified to having received a note from Howard, who accused him, previous to his arrest in which he wanted him to add him in the establishment of a false alibi. At the conclusion of the hearing Edward T. Banton, attorney for the defense, did not desire to present any evidence at this time in behalf of his client and Judge Milliken, finding Howard probably guilty, bound him over to the superior court without bail. District Attorney Swift conducted the case for the prosecution.

SHE TRIED SUICIDE

Young Woman Put Bullet Into Her Head

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—A woman, whose name is given by the police as Mrs. Nabel Osborne, attempted suicide about 3.15 yesterday afternoon by shooting herself in the right side of her head with a revolver while alone in a suite on the third floor of the apartment hotel known as Madison Osborne and was kept by him in his apartments. Occupants of other suites in the building did not know or would say nothing about the shooting. Some of them said they only knew that a woman, whom they called Mrs. Osborne, lived there, as they had seen her pass in and out of the building.

The shot aroused the dwellers in adjoining apartments, who called the janitor. The police were notified and the woman was hurried to the City hospital. Late last night it was reported that her condition was serious. E. C. Osborn, in whose apartments the shooting took place, said last night that the woman is not his wife, but his housekeeper, that her name is Mrs. Mabel Johnson, that she was about 30 years old. She has been in his employ as housekeeper, he said, since he went to live at the Madison place about a year ago. He could ascribe no reason for the woman's act.

He did not know of the shooting until 10 o'clock.

HON. JOSEPH J. FLYNN CO. M THE WINNER

HON. JOSEPH J. FLYNN, NOMINATED FOR CONGRESS IN FIFTH DISTRICT.

The Democratic Nominee for Congress

Hon. Joseph J. Flynn, of Lawrence, was unanimously nominated for congress from the fifth district, by the delegates to the fifth district convention held at Associate hall yesterday afternoon.

A so-called convention was held in the same building a week ago yesterday, but the strong arm of democracy and Hon. Butler Ames, republican, was endorsed by delegates who pretended to be democrats. No democrat was given a voice at that meeting unless he was a hireling of the republican party.

At the conclusion of the convention held last week it was found that time was wasted inasmuch as no call had been issued. Hence the reason for calling yesterday's convention.

There were over one hundred people in the corridor at Associate hall early yesterday afternoon, the majority anticipating commotion, but everything went along in a harmonious manner and there was not the slightest sign of a disturbance. The convention was called to order shortly after three o'clock by Cornelius Cronan of this city and Thomas J. Fitzgerald, treasurer of the local democratic committee, was made chairman and Michael F. Cronin of Lawrence secretary.

The following committee on credentials was then named: Lowell, Paul Fitzpatrick, John J. Mahoney, John J. Mealey, Lawrence, Timothy Scanlon, Daniel McCabe, Paul Hannigan; Methuen, Jeremiah O'Leary; Dunstable, P. F. Dunn; Tewksbury, William Kelly; Billerica, James A. Higgins; Chelmsford, Carl L. Perham; Andover, William Crowley.

The roll call showed the following result: Total delegates to the convention, 63; present, 40, as follows: Lowell, 16; Lawrence, 17; and one each from Andover, Dunstable, Tewksbury, Methuen, Chelmsford, Tyngsboro and Billerica.

The report of the committee was accepted and the temporary organization was made permanent.

Humphrey O'Sullivan

Humphrey O'Sullivan was recognized at this point and in a well delivered speech nominated Hon. Joseph J. Flynn of Lawrence as a candidate of the democratic party in the fifth district. Mr. O'Sullivan spoke in the fifth district. Mr. O'Sullivan spoke in the fifth district.

"I feel it a duty to be present at this convention to nominate a gentleman to represent the democracy of the fifth district in the coming campaign. I want to compliment the delegates upon the orderly manner in which this convention has been conducted, and upon the spirit of harmony which prevails. It is in striking contrast with the convention of last week."

"I will not undertake to repeat what I said at the last convention, but I do wish to say that the scene enacted at that convention was most reprehensible, and if it can be traced to the man now representing the district in congress. If this man sought to buy the votes in order to get away with the plum so cheaply—if he tried to secure a senatorship by such a nefarious proceeding, he is not one who should represent Massachusetts in the senate; and more than that, he unfits himself to represent anybody anywhere."

Mr. O'Sullivan paid a tribute to Mr. Flynn, mentioning Mr. Flynn's generosity in contributing oil boards and advertising matter for Lowell's muster, Aug. 20.

Within two months, Mr. Flynn did all this, and within a week Mr. Ames had his convention. The difference in the two men is pretty well depicted right here," said the speaker.

Messrs. Humphrey O'Sullivan of Lowell and Paul Hannigan of Lawrence then escorted Mr. Flynn to the platform and the latter made a short speech.

"I think it is hardly necessary for me to state that this nomination came as a distinct surprise and I think that the democrats of this district have done me a great honor. In the interest of democracy and fair play I am going to accept the nomination which you gentlemen so kindly offered me. I will do my best to be elected and if elected will do everything in my power to represent the people of the district in a just manner. I hope that my opponent will look up my record while I am a member of the state legislature and try to find something of a derogatory nature. The people of this district, democrats and republicans, believe in fair dealing. Gentlemen, I thank you."

The following committee was appointed to bring in a congressional committee: Paul Hannigan, Lawrence; Lowell, Ward L. J. Mahoney; ward 2, John F. Mealey; ward 3, Thomas J. Fitzgerald; ward 4, William J. McCuskey; ward 5, Edward Gallagher; ward 6, Joseph Jodoin; ward 7, Cornelius Cronan; ward 8, John M. Ryan; ward 9, Michael J. Fahey; Lawrence, Ward L. J. Mahoney; ward 2, James A. Higgins; ward 3, William Kelly; ward 4, Fred Spaulding; ward 5, Duncan Wood; ward 6, M. A. Cronin; Billerica, Martin Conway; Braintree, John T. Sparks; Chelmsford, James P. Dunnigan; Dunstable, P. F. Dunn; Tewksbury, William A. Kelley; Wilmington, John A. Kelley; North Andover, C. J. Mahoney; Methuen, Jeremiah O'Leary; Andover, William C. Crowley.

THE X-10-U-8 10c CIGAR THE BLUEBELL 5c CIGAR LEE & CO. 78 Agawam St., Lowell

Co. M of Lowell, Captain Philip McNulty, commander, covered itself with glory yesterday by winning the annual regimental shoot of the Ninth Infantry. The annual rifle and pistol competitions took place yesterday at the Bay State military rifle range in Wakefield. The weather was ideal, with no sun and wind, making standing conditions very favorable. The rifle shoot took place from 11 a. m. until nearly 1 p. m., halting at 1:30 for lunch, after finishing the 200 and 300 ranges.

The contests were run off smoothly, and the fight for first position was between the teams from Company L of Natick and Company M of Lowell, the latter getting the regimental championship at the 300 range, with a total for all ranges of 20, Capt. McNulty's team takes the state trophy for 1908, an honor that has been Company L's for years.

Artillery Douglas R. Hayden, Company L, was the high individual man, with a score of 61, his score outstriking that of Sgt. D. R. Hayden, Company L, who also made 61, as did Sgt. George T. Werten, Company M of Lowell, whose score gives him third prize. In three matches recently at Natick, Hayden and McKenna have been tied with the same scores. Seven prizes are awarded for the seven best individual scores. The winners and their scores are as follows, with a list of the prizes:

Artillery Douglas R. Hayden, Company L, 61, first prize, silver service. Sgt. B. E. McKenzie, Company L, G. second prize, silver fruit basket. Sgt. G. E. Werten, Company M, 61, third prize, silver tureen.

THE BALKAN QUESTION.

There is a slumbering volcano in the Balkans, and only a spark from the guns of any of the powers involved is required to start a war in which nearly every country in Europe would be engaged.

In order to understand the situation it must be remembered that Germany is the powerful active force on one side and Great Britain on the other.

Germany has been striving for a coast line on the southern border, and looks with a longing eye upon the possessions of the Sultan. So far has German intrigue gone that German emissaries have been using money in Turkey to bribe high officials in order to create trouble for the government and lead the Porte into a trap.

Many of the European powers, ambitious for an extension of their territory, have been looking forward to the time when the Turkish empire would be partitioned or when at least the Mohammedans would be driven from the confines of Europe.

Bulgaria, that has been nominally under Turkish sway, has declared its independence. The Island of Crete, held similarly as part of the Turkish empire, secedes and goes over to Greece.

Austria, in order to get an opening on the Adriatic, takes advantage of the disturbance to annex the provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina over which she exercised a protectorate.

All these warlike movements are in violation of the treaty of Berlin under which the Balkan question was settled in 1878.

It is alleged that Russia is determined to withdraw from the treaty of Berlin, while England and Turkey appeal for the observance of the treaty and the suppression of all the revolutionary movements.

Of course, if any one of the powers signatory to the treaty should withdraw the treaty would be thereafter a dead letter, and the new issues would have to be settled by the arbitrament of war or else by a conference of the great powers and the signing of a new treaty.

France has no special interest in this conflict except to block any territorial advancement for Germany. But should a war break out, nearly every power in Europe would be drawn into the conflict in one way or another.

Bulgaria is rejoicing in her self-ordained independence while she is rushing troops to the frontier to meet the Turkish forces there being amassed.

Bulgaria has an army of 305,000 men and no fleet, while Turkey has an army of 845,000 men, six ships of war and 30,920 marines.

It is not likely that all the rest of Europe would stand idly by to see Turkey use her atrocious methods of warfare to throttle the independence of Bulgaria and incidentally to slaughter as many as possible of her people.

It would not be regretted anywhere, we believe, if Turkey, as a result of this outbreak, should be shorn of half her possessions and especially driven from her strongholds on the continent of Europe. But this cannot be done without a bloody war at which the whole world would stand aghast. This war would set England and Germany at each other's throat in one of the most bloody conflicts since the Crimean war.

THE DEVIL.

There seems to have been little unanimity of opinion relative to the merits of the play recently presented at the Opera House under the unusual title of "The Devil."

Some people seem to agree with the few critics who praise it while others, and we believe the vast majority, regard it as a pernicious play without a single redeeming feature.

If, as is alleged, this play took Vienna and other European capitals by storm, then we have an insight to the taste and the moral sense of those who not only patronize but applaud such a production.

In this play the devil, or spirit of evil, is personified, the character showing the most deceitful cunning and rascality, the object being from the beginning to promote improper relations between a young wife and the young artist whom she loved before her marriage to a man who was accounted rich but whom she did not love. If the couple are in close proximity, the Devil manages to bring them together; if one is forgetful of the other, he manages to bring up the old love affair and keep it ever new. He works upon the feelings of both, at one time arousing fierce jealousy, at another convincing them that the love of each for the other is all consuming.

The tempter may no doubt portray in a most admirable way how Satan by unseen influence may effect the same object; but it is better in our judgment to leave the operation of such influences to the imagination than to equip a personal devil for the purpose of demonstrating the art of seduction on the public stage.

The only thing that could justify the existence of such a play would be the introduction of a character portraying the spirit of grace to confound the Devil, to frustrate his designs, and to inspire the weak and the erring with strength necessary to enable them to overcome temptation, abandon the path that leads to perdition and climb to the sublime heights of virtue where marriage vows are sacred and where love is pure as when it was first breathed into the human heart by powers divine.

No, the play known as "The Devil" has no right to exist unless it makes some change such as here suggested, to exalt virtue over vice and even in doing that it must eliminate much of what is now considered suggestive.

SEEN AND HEARD

Strange, and too bad isn't it, that some men who have a deal of the milk of human kindness in the heart and soul have little of the poet's love for nature? One would think that a man blessed with the disposition to aid, sympathize and forgive little wrongs with a smile and a pat would love nature almost to death, but I find that is not always the case. In fact, the exception rather than the rule.

Wandering through the woods with my friend John Delaney a few days ago, I remarked on the beauty of the trees, the cuteness and cunning of the little chipmunk that was digging a hole without making a particle of dirt and I just fairly raved over the beautiful colors that adorned the woods. "No artist's brush," I began when I was suddenly interrupted by John, who, turning quickly upon me, asked: "Have you $25 that you could spare?"

"It's a chum that John is kidding" for scarcely had my sad reply reached him when he said: "No, but still you rave about the leafy autumn gold and the wild delicious life of the chipmunk. I used to feel that way when I was a young fellow, but years have taught me a lesson."

"What lesson have the years taught you?" I asked.

"List to me," quoth John and thusly did he pontificate:

"This leafy autumn gold—tut, tut! It calls for naught of thanks, it's all right for the poets, but it's no good at the banks."

The best way for a lovesick young man to find out what the girl thinks about him is to marry her.

THE EGOTIST

I'd like to be an egotist and think myself a wonder—

Convinced that all I did was great, that I'm never blunder—

I might, of course, do foolish things, and people might deride me.

But sweet self-satisfaction should be safely stored inside me.

I'd like to think that every time I paid attention to them

The ladies would be flattered; that sweet thrills would flicker through them;

They might, indeed, consider me most stupid and annoying.

But I should be possessed of glee no doubts might come destroying.

Oh, happy, happy egotist! To go through life believing

That what he has is all there is, that may be worth achieving!

I wish that I were of his tribe, untroubled by doubt and zealous

In holding to the doctrine that my critics are all wrong and foolish!

SHELDON'S MONEY GETTING
New York Sun. From Washington comes the report that, dissatisfied with the money getting record of George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican national committee, Mr. Roosevelt intends to assume charge of this department of the Taft canvass at once and all the party strong box. There is nothing improbable in this. Mr. Roosevelt possesses preeminent qualifications for the work at which Mr. Sheldon is charged with making so poor a fist. He has power to open the eyes of any person to the desirability of acceding to his requests. He is not averse to using this power. In the federal government he has had the machine easily adaptable to the wringing of contributions from reluctant citizens. He has already used it once, at least, with illustrious success. He knows that money needed for his own proud boast, "a practical man." Besides no cry of "tainted money" could be raised against sums collected by Mr. Roosevelt. Does not the entire nation know that whatever pledged might be made or implied by him, or his agents in squeezing the dollars out of one of them would be of the slightest weight or influence after the cash had been stored in the bank or spent in the progress of the campaign?

ESTIMATING ELECTION RESULTS

Fall River Globe: When the Republican estimates place Taft's probable plurality at but 10,000, there is good reason for thinking that they regard the prospects of carrying it, at all, as somewhat dubious. That is a big drop from the 34,000 plurality for Roosevelt in 1904, and confirms the claims of the Democrats that Indiana is a very doubtful state this year on both the national and state tickets.

AS TO LIBRARIES

New Bedford Standard: Library stacks crowded with books may be gratifying; a circulation account swelled to many figures may stand for success; but the library that strives chiefly for these is in danger of sacrificing its birthright for a mess of pottage.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Speaking of the late Leslie M. Carter, the Chicago Tribune said that he was as good a man as has lived in Chicago. "He did his full duty as he saw it. In spite of almost appalling obstacles, calumny, and suffering, which might have made a man of less stiff courage give up life's struggle, he worked to the end. He was devoted to his friends; he was modest—so modest that only a few knew his worth. His life and those others who may profit by the inspiration of his career will be among the beneficiaries of Leslie M. Carter."

The czar's health is so undermined as to cause the imperial couple serious concern. She has been for months in a nervous state, and a cruising trip off the coast of Finland has failed to work an improvement, so that her physicians desire her to spend the winter in the south. This course she is unwilling to pursue unless the czar accompanies her—and this is said to be impossible.

Margaret Llewellyn Davies, writing to the Westminster Gazette, says that the women's co-operative guild of London has lately been inquiring whether co-operative men are in favor of the enfranchisement of married women. Out of 1138 signed cards received 73 are in favor of the vote at all, 123 are in favor of ratifying the 16 are doubtful, while 923 believe in giving the vote to wives. Among the many strong expressions of opinion on behalf of married women are the following: "The evils of our economic system, the evils of our women more closely than men, and they would be some social reformers." "I consider her responsibilities as a citizen are enlarged tenfold on marriage." "If a woman is good enough for a husband, she should be good enough to record a vote." "Yes, decidedly, for at that time she is fulfilling her highest duties to the state."

"That rocks the cradle should help to rule the world." "Yes, I regard the power of women to vote as a way to amend the evils and oppression from which they suffer, and the raising of their standard of life and comfort." "Many wives are like mine—better politicians than their husbands." "Men do not represent the claims and responsibilities of women." "Only free women can be mothers to a race of free men." "Politicians make much better wives; I have had two, so speak from experience."

A men's league for woman's suffrage has been formed in Holland and the Lutheran church there has already given women a vote in its affairs.

What will the critics of the nature fakers say to this? "Alfred Sommerlad, musical director of the Devonshire Park theatre, Epsom, and Edgar Bateman, the song writer, out fishing caught an edible crab," says an English periodical. They tossed it back into the water. At that moment an accidental kick sent the tin bait box after the crab. There was one fragment of bait adhering to the hook, and this was lowered into the sea, and the anglers left the rod for a time. When they returned they found their basket which they had left empty, full to overflowing with fine flounders, sea bream, whiting and plaice. The explanation was forthcoming. Painfully making its way up the fishing line came the creature whose life had been spared, bearing in its nippers a fine young conger eel, which it placed with the other fish in the basket. Then it dropped back

The first college Young Men's Christian Association in the world was established at the University of Virginia in the year 1858. On the 12th of October of the year mentioned, the organization of the chapter was completed by the formal adoption of a constitution; and on the 12th of this month—the semi-centennial anniversary—a fitting celebration of the fruitfulness of the chapter was held. In the approaching celebration a number of the prominent members of the organization—about thirty of whom are still living—are expected to be present and to participate. Invitations have also been issued to various gentlemen, prominent in large as M. C. A. leaders. The Young Men's Christian Association is said to have had its origin at London in the year 1844. In 1847, at the beginning of the year, the organization was established in America, at Boston and Montreal; and in 1858, as already noted, the application of the movement to the needs of Christian men in colleges was first made at Virginia. The same year an association was also organized at the University of Michigan, and was independent of the Virginia organization—not an outgrowth of it. Some of the first work done by the association at the University of Virginia was directed towards the needs of the people in the adjacent "Ragged Mountains," celebrated by the pen of the university's most famous alumnus—Alfred Russel Wallace. The centennial of 1858's birth will also be celebrated by the university this season. The philanthropic work thus begun a half-century ago has been continued, under expanding conditions, to the present, and the work of the association among colleges has become a world-wide movement. In view of these facts the approaching celebration at Virginia will doubtless attract wide interest.

FOR MEN WHO SUED SWIFT COMPANY

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—For malicious prosecution in putting a keeper into their store when a bill which was sued for had been paid, Martin Dagdigan et al. (Dagdigan Bros.) recovered a verdict for $400 yesterday against Swift & Co. before Judge Schofield in the fifth session, superior court.

They had bought some fowl from Swift & Co. on June 1, 1905, and the bill came to $25.65. They paid it the next day. Notwithstanding that Swift & Co. sued them for the bill on June 28, 1905, and put a keeper in their store. The suit of the concern against them resulted in their favor.

Then Dagdigan Bros. turned round and sued Swift & Co. for $5000 damages for malicious prosecution. A Suffolk jury which awarded them the $400 verdict found that Swift & Co. did not honestly believe the bill was due, but that when it brought the suit and that they acted maliciously.

MAINE PAPER

Gives Great Praise to True's Elixir Company

The Lewiston Journal says: In the annals of American business life there has been developed to a remarkable degree the question of the personal reputation and standing of the members of a concern. When it is the total business of a country is done on a credit basis, the lawyer does not appreciate how this basis of giving credit is arrived at. For the convenience of merchants there are two large mercantile agencies in the United States whose business it is merely to report on the condition and statement of every concern of size doing business in the United States. These mercantile agencies with organizations entailing the investment of hundreds of thousands of dollars are the means of preventing a great many credits being given to irresponsible concerns, but in all probability the most important method of giving a concern credit is on the personal reputation of the owner of the business—his family life, his standard of honor and integrity are what the average business man looks for nowadays, and even the consumer is beginning to make his purchases more on this basis than ever before.

A concern that typifies this principle of integrity and honesty to a point unsurpassed by any other in their line is Dr. J. F. True & Co. of Auburn, Me. The founder of the business, Dr. J. F. True, passed away in 1900, after 50 years of the most continuous reputation building ever known in the annals of American pharmaceutical work. He left behind him a name unblemished by a single blemish; he left behind him a remedy that is a standard of kind in America. The present head of the concern, Dr. E. C. True, has not only maintained this splendid reputation, but in addition his progressiveness, which naturally the elder generation to a certain extent lacked, has built up a business beyond the wildest dream of the founder.

In the state of Maine True's Elixir is synonymously with good health. It probably can be found in the medicine chest of almost every Maine home. It is gratifying to the Journal to pay a tribute to this concern on the anniversary of their 55th year of entering the business world. We express the wish that we had a hundred more concerns in the state of Maine based on the same standard of honor and integrity as Dr. J. F. True & Co. producers of True's Elixir.

 "'Mariner Bold.'"
 "But she doesn't sing that at all."
 "I know. That's why I prefer it."

"My aunt is not dead," began the office boy, "and all the members of the family are well."

The office boy's employer looked up in surprise:

"I am feeling good myself," continued the office boy, "and I could just as well work this afternoon as not, but if you don't let me off to see the ball game I'll throw up my job."

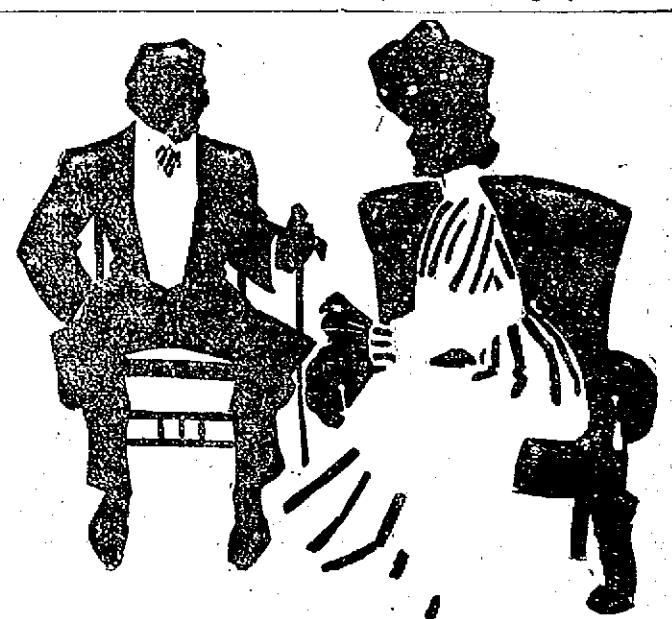

"Thy love of truth hath availed," said the employer. "Go out and root for the home team."

 Said the spider to the fly.
 "It would beat a web to pieces
 As a trap in which to die."
 "Logic truly," said the insect.
 "That's a stumper. Well, goodbye."

INFORMATION.

The train had stopped for water at a little station in the country. The passenger with the skullcap, seeing a lone native standing on the station platform, addressed him.

"Farmers around here seem to have been cutting a good deal of hay this morning," he said.

"Yes, sir," answered the native.

"They're taking risks. Don't you think it looks like rain?"

"Sort o'."

"What do you suppose they will do if it does rain?"

"I reckon they'll have sense enough to go in out of it, mister."

Boy Was Held a Prisoner for Twenty Hours

PEABODY, Oct. 10.—After a stormy meeting of the full school board last night, it was decided to merely censure Miss Katherine Reynolds for locking one of her pupils, little Manuel Silva, in a closet early in the afternoon session Wednesday and going off Wednesday night to make merry as a bridemaid at a wedding, forgetting all about the little prisoner until 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

When the boy was discovered, half dead from fear and exhaustion after his 20 hours' incarceration, Miss Reynolds became hysterical. The matter was brought to the attention of the principal of the school, Miss Sheehan, and it was immediately reported to a sub-committee of the school board.

This committee, consisting of Messrs. Jordan, Connors and Sheehan, investigated the case thoroughly. Impressed by the youth of the teacher, her natural nervousness on account of the ceremony she was to participate in and the result on her life of any drastic action, they reported to the full board last evening the facts in the case and recommended clemency.

Little Manuel on Wednesday afternoon had been caught whispering. Obeying her natural disinclination to whip him, Miss Reynolds pushed him into a book closet in the front of her room on the second floor of the Endicott Grammar school and turned the key in the door.

Forgot Her Prisoner

In her anxiety to go to her home at 33 Grove street, Salem, in time to prepare for the wedding, she forgot her little prisoner completely.

When Manuel heard her hurry out he became desperate. Beating on the door of his dark, stifling prison with his hands, kicking until he kicked off the sole of one of his shoes, he exhausted himself and dropped to the floor of the closet. Soon sleep gave him momentary respite from his fear.

Meanwhile Manuel's mother, at her home at 7 Sprague street, wondered at her little boy's strange absence after school had closed.

When his father, Martin Silva, returned from work, he became alarmed and went out to look for the boy. Not a trace of him could be found. After supper he went down town and enlisted the assistance of the police.

All the evening the police, Mr. Silva and a friend searched the fields and vacant lots for the little fellow without success.

Early in the morning he went to the station house and a trace had been found of the boy.

Meanwhile Manuel, who had cried himself to sleep, awoke in the middle of the night. A rustling in the walls recalled the peril he dreaded most—rats.

Naturally a rather nervous boy, his torment was terrible.

In the school room things went smoothly that morning, although the pupils were wondering at Manuel's strange disappearance.

About 11 o'clock William Barnes, another pupil in the room, became unruly. Taking him to the closet to lock him in, she placed her hand on the door—and the memory suddenly returned. With hands that would hardly obey her she turned the lock in the door. There, on the floor, huddled in a heap, was the little boy.

Miss Reynolds was hysterical. The boy was sent home and is apparently unhurt by his experience.

Mr. Silva, on account of his unfamiliarity with the English language, retained lawyers to handle the case for him. Apart from the boy's fright he had lost money and wanted the loss made up by someone.

At last the case was made plain to the father. Miss Reynolds, who is a young girl, was starting out in her career. This would have been her last. Her parents were poor and her assistance was needed. The circumstances of the case were explained to him and he consented to allow his attorneys to act as they saw best.

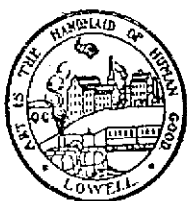

KITCHEN HELP

To Be Organized in Union

Now it is up to the cooks, waiters and waitresses of Lowell to wear the union label with, of course, a few other things. They met in Weaver's hall in Middle street, last night and formed a new union. Officers were elected and the organization will be made permanent at a meeting to be held tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

The union will be affiliated the American Federation of Labor and its charter is expected to arrive today. It is said that the union will be a good thing all around, that it will be of great benefit to members as sure

Arrive to Take Places of Strikers in the Paper Mills

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., Oct. 10.—The crew of 24 strike breakers, which arrived today in the mill of the International Paper Co., where they will eat and sleep as well as work. One paper machine was started today and two were made ready to start Monday. One of them admitted to a local workman that they were regular papermakers and had been employed at Hamilton, Ont., but struck when the others did. The local strikers believed differently, however. It was stated today that recently the members of the local union voted by a majority of two not to return to work at present.

The following statement was distributed today from the headquarters of the papermakers' local 11 of this town, dated October 9:

"To the members: Twenty-six strike breakers arrived here this afternoon and have been provided with cots in the mill. The members of the local union are notified that not a papermaker is in the bunch. This action on the part of the paper company in bringing this class of help into town, proves that their case is hopeless and the papermakers are bound to win."

This was signed by the papermakers' committee.

CATHOLIC CHARITY

Abstract of Mrs. Williams' Paper on Orphanages

At the recent conference of Catholic charities in Boston among the many highly instructive and carefully prepared papers read was one by Mrs. Josephine A. Williams, of Lowell. Her topic was: "The Institutional Care of Children." She said:

Among the many questions of public interest which are occupying the minds of the thoughtful, there is none of greater importance than that which regards the care and education of orphans and neglected children. This is no new problem, for from the earliest times, the helpless position of little children, deprived by death, or other cause of their natural protectors, has made its piteous appeal to the hearts and minds of the charitable, and philanthropic. Today, however, the problem has attained such magnitude, that its wise and judicious solution concerns the whole society.

Each year an increasing number of children is left to become a charge on the public. This is due to a variety of causes; the three chief ones being, first, the great mortality among the classes which have found no opportunity to make provision for their children; second, the constant fluctuations in a rapidly growing population, a large portion of which has no adequate conception of its responsibilities; and third, the frequent and sudden changes in industrial conditions.

These helpless and neglected children exposed to every danger, physical and moral, unfortunate today perhaps criminal tomorrow are through no fault of their own, a menace to the public welfare, and setting aside motives of charity and philanthropy, a prudent regard for the public interest requires that a proper provision be made for them.

Mrs. Williams spoke of St. Peter's Orphan Asylum, of Lowell, as among the institutions of Massachusetts which have played an important part in the work of caring for orphans. St. Peter's orphan asylum, originally St. Peter's school, was founded by Rev. Peter Crutcher, who in October, 1855, bought the house and land, corner Appleton and Elliot streets for the purpose of establishing a school for girls, and placed it in charge of the Sisters of Charity. To the duty of "Teaching the ignorant and promoting the piety and virtue in the city of Lowell" was added that of "visiting the sick." In the course of their charitable ministrations, the sisters frequently came into contact with neglected children to whom they sometimes gave temporary shelter, in the endeavor to allay their only for a short time, the sad lot of the unfortunate little ones.

As time went on, the urgent need of a permanent establishment, properly equipped for the care of this class of children, became more and more apparent, and in 1874 the building was enlarged, and transferred into an orphan asylum for girls between the ages of four and fourteen. When the present pastor of St. Peter's church, Rev. Michael Ronan, took charge of the parish, he freed the asylum from debt, and installed the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth. It has always been under the direction of St. Peter's parish, although children from all parishes are received. The number of children admitted annually is about one hundred and twenty-five, though the house accommodates but thirty-five or sixty-seven at one time.

The work of the institution is done entirely by the sisters, seven in number, assisted in the lighter tasks by the older girls, who, in this way, gain a knowledge of domestic duties, which is often of value to them in after life. They are given a good common school education, and taught sewing and mending. Under the gentle management of the sisters, there is a wonderfully rapid improvement in the mental, moral and physical condition of the children, who show in many ways the influence of the loving care bestowed upon them.

Mrs. Williams also spoke of the orphan asylums of Salem, Lawrence and Newburyport and said: "Extending the greatest care and precaution in selecting homes for children in private families, it is easy to make mistakes. The family life which stimulates the powers and forms the character of children who are born within its circle, may be on the other hand, devastatingly harmful to little children who are introduced suddenly into the close connection with it, which a kindred relation naturally produces."

Often a child who has been tractable and amiable in the systematic condition of an institution, has become unmanageable under the totally different discipline of a strange home and been returned again to the asylum, having acquired a reputation for stubbornness, when she was simply misunderstood.

BOWLING GAMES

Several Good Contests Last Night

The Palmer Street department of the A. G. Pollard Co. won three points from the Cotton Goods department on the Bridge Street Bowldway last night. At no stage of the game was the losing team in the running.

The second hands of the Merrimack Woolen mills defeated the overseers of same mills at the Bowldway last night by the narrow margin of 13 pins.

Several other games of interest were played on the local alleys. The scores:

BOUND TOGETHER

Bodies of Man and Woman Found Floating in Jamaica Bay

NEW YORK, October 10.—A mystery came to light today when the bodies of a well dressed man and woman bound securely together with wire, were found floating in Jamaica bay. The bodies were found by two fishermen. Their little motor boat bumped into them as they were crossing the bay. Both victims had their valuables intact; the woman's chatelaine bag was even wired to her waist, but there was nothing in the possession of either one to aid the police in identification. The fishermen towed their grisly find to Nassau beach. The bodies were taken to the little morgue at Ozone park, where Dr. Nut said the bodies had not been in the water more than six hours.

The man was apparently 45 years of age. He was six feet tall and weighed about 150 pounds. In his pockets were a gold watch and chain, and $1.33 in cash, but no cards nor letters to show his identity.

The woman apparently was about 35 years of age and exceptionally good looking. Her brown hair was tinged with gray. She wore a wedding ring. Her long black gloves and $10 in small bills were in her chatelaine bag which was not only wired to her waist, but was wired so that it could not open in the usual fashion.

KING'S The Store for a Big Dollar's Worth 31 to 41 Merr'k St.

NEW AND EFFECTIVE FASHION DESIGNS FROM PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 26.—We women all know that when men get together they invariably discuss the fair sex. We do not, of course, know what they say individually about us, but sometimes we find out what they say about other women, and then we are glad to think that we have a husband, brother or a belonging of some sort at these conferences to act as a safeguard for our reputations. Nevertheless it will come as a kind of shock to most women to know that their "points" are discussed very freely in the club smoking room and that the size of their feet is talked about as dispassionately as the change in the barometer or the slump in stocks. Yet from such information as I have been able to glean on the subject this is not an uncommon occurrence. "In discussing women," said a man of my acquaintance the other day in reply to my question as to which of our features was most subjected to male criticism, "we usually discuss the feet, hands and head." I was quite impressed with the remark, especially as most women seem to labor under the delusion that their faces and their figures are the only features of their anatomy which are of any importance. Under the circumstances it is perhaps fortunate that every man is not a connoisseur, for it must be admitted that few women have much to boast of in the way of extremities. The average woman does well to hide them as much as possible. As topics of conversation they may be inspiring to men, but they are not ornamental and one does not like to think that they occupy so much attention at these seances. It is a comfort to remember that a French writer once said that even in the most beautiful woman there is always one feature upon which a man must turn his head if the illusion of beauty is to be retained.

In the matter of hands the average woman, too, falls short, but there are few "points" in a woman to which men are more susceptible, while no impediment to matrimony is quite so great as the possession of large and ugly hands. If, however, a man must occasionally ignore a woman's feet and forget her hands, it is altogether impossible for him to avoid being affected by the most obvious of all her extremities—namely, her hair. Nothing determines a woman's fate quite so quickly, for we are all victims not to hereditary yet to environment, but to our hair. If its color is indefinite and its nature scanty, we may know that goodness will be our portion here and heaven the reward of our blameless baldness on earth. A glint of gold, on the other hand, a touch of auburn or an irrepressible waviness and we find ourselves gathering the roses while we may on our earthly pilgrimage. Why this should be so it is difficult to say, but the demoralizing effect of the hair on the mind can scarcely be denied in the face of the demand of the church that every nun who relinquishes the world shall relinquish her hair. Certainly in my own experience I have never yet met a woman with beautiful hair who was not inclined to frivolity nor a painfully virtuous one whose hair was not straight and scraggly.

It is evident that there is much philosophy in this smoking room gossip, and, after all, if we do not like it we can retaliate on our critics, like the well known musician whose waving locks once convulsed a bandy legged boy at a railroad station with merriment. The musician watched him for some time with interest and then went up to him. "My hair—it makes you laugh," he said, with his foreign accent. "But look at your legs," drawing the attention of everybody on the platform to them. "You should go to the ladies and see how they laugh," he said when relating the adventure to some friends at dinner soon after the occurrence.

The New Short Skirt.

To carry out the dictum of the Polish musician—how ze people will laugh at ze new short skirts—some of which are startling in outline to say the least. They are absurdly tight for one thing and look for another as if made from two widths of material. That they are utterly impossible for women of generous proportions goes without saying. I am very much afraid, though, that we are in for a season of attenuated skirts, both long and short. Of course we are accustomed to the clinging tulle, but there is a great difference between the word "attenuated" and "clinging," and the newest skirt is a skimpy affair that is absolutely ridiculous on any but a slender and exceptionally well-shaped figure.

We are accepting a curious outline all round this season. Tightly draped sashes are used frequently with the tight skirts to which I have just alluded, and also straight and shapeless coats. There is great danger that

Mme. La Mode will lead women who love a gracious and picturesque effect into eccentricities of an unbecoming order. Many of the smartest models are fashioned on bizarre lines, and the end is not yet in view. It will be a thousand pities if we allow the powers behind the throne of fashion to inflict upon us shapeless garments which merit the name of "straight jackets" and narrow skirts in which it is impossible to walk gracefully.

Now that I have made my little mean I am going to talk about the sleeves of the present and the immediate future. There are two styles receiving decided attention—the very long and quite plain or very long and tucked maniche completely covered with embroideries or braiding. The long, tight sleeve is enjoying a triumphant reign, and it is more than likely that this ascendancy will be of long duration. Personally I am enthusiastically in favor of the new sleeves. I find them almost universally becoming, and they certainly have the effect of making a stout woman look slender. On a well cut cloth coat, for instance, nothing could be smarter than long, tight sleeves covered with fine soutache braid, the same braid showing itself in a fanciful design on the upper part of the coat, or, again, the same model with silk embroideries instead of soutache braiding. These raised silk decorations are rapidly coming into notice, and they are wonderfully effective when the pattern is bold and closely covered.

To return briefly to sleeves, although the long, tight affair is enjoying such complete success, there is at least one other sleeve which meets with the approval of the Parisian elegance. This is the short, tight model that cannot correctly be described as elbow, for more often than not it does not reach to the elbow at all. It is very tight and barely covers the upper part of the arm, and it is always accompanied with extra long mousquetaire gloves. On certain women a sleeve of this general possession great charm, but it is suitable only for afternoon dresses, and the gloves worn must fit to perfection and must be kept up on the arms by special bracelets now sold for the purpose.

The Parisienne Shuns Queer Jewelry. Speaking of jewelry, an artist in this line was showing me some stunning new pendants he had designed and executed for an exhibition to be held in the near future, and he rather surprised me by saying that they would not be popular with Frenchwomen. "They are too bizarre," he said calmly, looking with appreciation at his beautiful work carried out in dull gold, emeralds and pearls. "It is the English and American woman who wear this kind of thing. Frenchwomen will put on the wildest of hats, the most weird of gowns and torture their figures into any conceivable or inconceivable shape, but they will not wear queer jewelry. They prefer the classic diamonds and pearls and rubies of the boulevard and the Rue de la Paix jewelers to the dull toned creations of an artist's brain." What he said is quite true. I have had it borne in upon me often, and one would think it strange if women were not inconsistent—above all, the Parisienne—where dress is concerned. The collar shown in the illustration is one of the dress accessories that the Parisienne fancies for the moment, and there is no better way of bringing a blouse up to date than by wearing this little piece of neckwear. As you see, it is nothing more elaborate than a well shaped and boned collar of net with a plaited frill at the top and a biblike effect of the plaited material at the base of the collar.

Smart Costumes Seen at Redfern's.

Yesterday I went to M. Redfern's to see his new velvet gowns and tailor makes as well as his furs. One lovely princess robe in brown velvet was most attractive. The corsage was draped and fastened at the side with buttons covered with brown and black liberty satin. The tunic was edged with a deep brown and black silk fringe of a grasslike nature with a very handsome heading. The sleeves were long and made of velvet and black satin. Another equally graceful gown was in gray velvet with a corsage garniture of gold lace. The newest feature of this costume was the draping of the skirt over the left shoulder and under the right arm.

The tailor makes I saw were without exception long in the skirt and coat, with but a faint indication of the waist line. A distinguished model showed a peacock blue cloth skirt and a long coat of the same shade in ribbed silk trimmed with black. The evening gowns I noticed had a great deal of embroidery on them, and the aim of the designer has evidently been to maintain a long, uninterrupted line from shoulder to feet. These characteristics are carried out in the evening gown of yellow satin with rug embroideries shown in the group of cuts.

Hats are beyond description. They are lovely and utterly impractical or practical and utterly unbecoming. They increase in width and multiply in feathered trimmings every week. I have seen some models trimmed in taffeta and velvet, but both look too heavy when used in such masses. The colors, too, are often unpleasantly jarring—for instance, a combination of mauve, old rose and brown and a morbid green allied to a slate gray is not inspiring. But, again, there is a lovely daisies shade being used in felt and velvet which is exquisite. Peacock blues and black will be worn both together and apart, and golden brown will hold its own as bravely as of yore. CATHERINE TALBOT.

Unselfishness Is Sure to Bring Popularity

SO many women want to know how to be popular.

It's such a simple thing I wonder they have to ask.

To be popular one simply must appear unselfish. I say "appear" unselfish because to be unselfish is impossible unless one is fortunately born that way.

Do your best to stifle your tendency to hold the conversation in your own hands. Never, never, talk about your self unless you are asked questions, and then answer them in the briefest way possible.

Don't tell your troubles. I wish I could print this in characters a foot high.

Learn to admire other women's hats and gowns and say nice things about their complexions and figures.

Learn to give up your own way and to like the things the person you are with cares for.

Be generous about giving your help in little things. They don't cost much, and they are sometimes appreciated more than the big ones. Remember to send postals from places where you stop and bright little notes on appropriate occasions.

When you hear something nice about a woman, tell her about it, but never let her know the disagreeable things people say.

Be uniformly cheerful and optimistic. It pays. Nobody loves a sour, unhappy woman. Few people want her around or care to help her.

Don't flirt with your friend's husband or sweetheart. There are plenty other men in the world.

Don't be jealous even if you have cause. Go right ahead minding your own business and thinking of others instead of yourself. By practicing even a few of these rules you can't help winning friends.

You can see for yourself unselfishness and the tactfulness which springs from it are at the root of them all. The lonely, unappreciated woman, my friends, is invariably the selfish one.

To Read Character.

How quickly you can tell a woman's character from the way she furnishes her house. There are some houses which appear all sham and pretense. The drawing room is filled with splendide legged gilt chairs which were never meant to be sat on, rococo tables which tremble so you can scarcely put a lamp or a heavy book on them and light toned carpets with sprawling pink and green figures which show each footstep and make the floor untidy instead of covering it neatly.

Then in other houses where the furniture is of good and sober design the colors clash horribly. The other day I sat for twenty memorable minutes in a living room where a deep red wall paper screamed next to a pair of muddy toned old rose curtains, while a deep green armchair further added to the discord.

It is almost unbelievable how such a disregard for harmony can exist.

The present fashion in interior decoration is very sensible. All the soft, dark tones are being used for the walls and carpets, and these are both soothing to the eye and practical.

Even the picture frames are no longer extravagant masses of gilt and incrustations. They are more likely to be made of plain wood to set off the picture, but not eclipse it. As for the tables and chairs, they are substantial and plain, made to be sat on and leaned against.

There is no pretense in the home of the well bred woman any more than there is in her person.

Elegant simplicity is the keynote of 1908 in dress, household decorations and manners.

A knowledge of human nature and of the right etiquette for each and every occasion is worth more than all the book lore in the world.

Many a woman, college educated and otherwise charming, has been a failure in this one respect—she didn't understand human nature and those little politenesses that stamp one as belonging to good society.

"The trouble with the public schools," said a mother to me recently, "is that they content themselves with cramming a child full of knowledge without paying attention to its outward appearance and its manners."

We are a scandal to Europeans on account of our abrupt ways of speaking, our forgetfulness of etiquette and the way we eat. Is it possible that America needs schools for manners?

Let some bright woman take up the idea.

A Girl's Hair.

I can't bear to see a girl in her teens with her hair all frizzled up in imitation of her elders. Why do mothers allow such things?

In the first place, a girl should wear her hair in a braid as long as possible. It gives it a chance to grow and will never get up in years. In the second place, the contrast between a fresh, innocent young face and a rakish, artificially artificial headpiece is unbecomingly but harmonious. A young girl's hair should suggest her youth and innocence and freshness. She will have time enough to be a woman. Let her be young as long as she can.

The hair parted and tied back with a stiff ribbon while the ends are water curled is becoming to most girls, and for the older ones the simple figure 8 at the base of the head is both charmingly simple and becoming. If your daughter has abundant hair let her try a moderate pompadour with a double 8. This is very soft and pretty.

And, oh, girls, don't wear artificial puffs and curls! Leave those to the older women whose hair is neither so abundant nor so glossy as yours. It looks ghastly to see those artificial arrangements crowning a pretty young face.

Some New Gowns.

The other night I went to John Drew's new play, and I never saw so many pretty gowns in my life.

Speaking of young girls, there was a charming ingenue in the cast who wore dresses simply perfect from the point of view of their suitability.

One evening dress was of palest pink. It was made with the long, semimitted princess effect and set off beautifully her delicate neck and arms.

Another costume was of white chiffon cloth, with an overdress effect caught under the bust by a pale blue silk sash. The hat to go with this was of white, lined with pale blue and trimmed with white lilacs and a single large pink rose.

The dresses were as simple as it is possible to make them. The lines, being long and graceful, set off her young figure beautifully.

The One Thing Needful.

What every woman needs most of all is self control.

She can't have too much of it. By means of it she can endure all things, conquer them and rise to whatever heights she chooses. Without it everything and everybody conquers her.

It makes me tired to hear a woman say "I would accomplish, so and so, but"—or "I would be so and so if"—"But" and "if" should be scratched from the modern woman's dialogue. The difficulty, the opposition, lies nine times out of ten in her own character.

There is a friend of mine in very straitened circumstances, and she wants to go to work of some sort very badly—in fact, she must. Is she getting it? No; she finds it very hard.

And why? Because she puts everything before it. She is still accepting all manner of social invitations. As a result she sleeps late in the morning and does not get to people until too late in the afternoon. She is tired all the time, and her mind is not on serious things. She won't stay in her apartment because she says she is lonely there; she is out friveling every minute of her time.

Why will she always be a failure? Because she lacks concentration, and concentration means self control.

Providence helps those who help themselves, and you have to help yourself good and hard, jamming down out of sight and hearing all your little weaknesses, just as Napoleon did. Hunger, loneliness and slights were nothing to him in his youth.

Have time enough to be a woman.

THE MOST INFLUENTIAL WOMAN IN ITALY.

Dowager Queen Margherita is acknowledged by all European diplomats to be the dominant female influence in Italian politics. She is a woman of marked intellectual force, and she has a well developed taste for diplomacy. It now appears that the hitch in the affair of Prince Louis of Savoy and Miss Katherine Elkins is due to her distaste for the match.

THE UNHAPPIEST QUEEN IN EUROPE.

Wilhelmina of Holland, who began her reign under the happiest auspices, has been transformed by her misfortune into a prematurely aged, pessimistic and pitifully unhappy woman. Although she is wedded to a husband who is by no means ideal, she has tried to make the best of it, but her diminishing prospect of leaving a lineal successor to the throne has saddened her.

KILLED A DEER

Lowell Man Among the Lucky Ones

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 10.—Game receipts were small yesterday on account of a marked rise in temperature in the game regions, which made it difficult to preserve game for any length of time. The total tally last night was 110 deer and two bears.

E. B. Degross of Lowell, Mass., and L. A. Gardner of Stockton Springs brought down game yesterday and a New York party went home with four deer.

MORTGAGEE SALE OF A NINE ROOM HOUSE, STABLE AND ABOUT 6786 SQUARE FEET OF LAND AT 517 WESTFORD STREET.

Promptly at the appointed time and place I will make a positive sale by public auction for the mortgagee, this two and one-half story slated roof, nine room house, stable and about 6786 square feet of land. In one of the best residential parts of the city sets this dwelling which in its present condition, has been set apart into two tenements, giving five rooms with the upstairs tenement, and four rooms with the downstairs tenement. It is in first class condition, has a fine cellar with concrete flooring, and if one desired it for a single dwelling it is perfect in every respect. It is heated throughout by furnace, has hot and cold water, gas lighting, bay windows and is well and substantially built. The stable in the rear has two stalls, a box stall and good carriage room. The lot has a frontage on Westford street of about 47 feet, and contains about 6786 square feet, giving in the rear fine garden room with three large apple trees, a grape vine and pear tree. The location is all that could be desired, being in a first class neighborhood, with the best car service in the city, also a splendid street of smooth paving. The sale will be positive, rain or shine.

Terms: $250 to be paid to the auctioneer as soon as struck off. By order of ANDOVER SAVINGS BANK, Mortgagee. Frederick S. Boutwell, Treasurer.

Saturday, October 17, 1908, at 4 P. M.

ADMINISTRATRIX SALE OF A FOUR-TENEMENT HOUSE AND ABOUT 3516 SQUARE FEET OF LAND, AT 124 HIGH STREET.

By virtue of a license granted to me by the Probate Court, I will positively sell by public auction this extraordinary fine piece of investment property. The cottage contains six rooms and basement kitchen; is in first class repair, and rents for $12 a month.

The house in the rear contains four tenements of four rooms each, and rent for $7 a month each, making a total rental of $40 a month, or $480 a year. This building is also in very fine repair, and is at no time idle, and undoubtedly, on the whole, will pay an exceedingly fine revenue for the price it will be purchased at on day of sale. This is a remarkably good location for investment property, as you are in close proximity to all city conveniences, being but five minutes' walk to Merrimack square and the mill, in that locality, having several lines of electric within a stone's throw, but the minutes' walk to schools and churches, and is an entirely sound and solid investment. The lot contains about 3516 square feet, with a frontage on High street of about 47 feet, and runs about 87 feet deep. Make no mistake by not being present at this sale, for it is up for the highest dollar, as it must be sold to settle the estate.

Terms: $500 must be paid to the auctioneer at time and place of sale. Other terms will be made known at sale.

At 4.30 o'clock

Under same power of sale, I will sell a beautiful lot of land on the westerly side of Berkeley street, containing about 485 square feet. It is high and dry, but a minute's walk to the car line on Rogers street, has a frontage of about 50 feet and runs about 87 feet in depth. There are many fine houses built on Berkeley street close to this lot, and if a man of moderate means, he could not choose a better site for building, for it is a place the country being within the city limits, and will be bought at a very low figure. Berkeley street is the second street below Boylston, off Rogers, and this lot sets but a short distance from Rogers street.

Terms: $500 will be required, and must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as the lot is struck off.

The above two parcels are sold by the order of

Monday, October 19th, at 3 P. M.

MR. CHARLES J. GLIDDEN HAS INSTRUCTED AUCTIONEER KEYES TO SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION HIS HOUSE, STABLE AND ABOUT 20,750 SQ. FT. OF LAND, AT 1131 MIDDLESEX STREET, CORNER OF WILDER, ON MONDAY, OCT. 12, 1908, AT 3 P. M., REGARDLESS OF THE WEATHER.

The buildings, grounds, location, taken in its entirety go to make up as fine a residence as stands in Lowell today.

Setting on a strong and solid foundation, surrounded by beautiful lawns, the dwelling is attractive, with its fancy roof, pretty bays, and alcoves, glazed with plate glass and leaded counterparts, of exquisite design, also with splendid piazzas and stonework on the east side, covering driveway. On entering from the west side there is a large reception hall finished in quartered oak, drawing room to the right finished in cherry, with electric drop fixture, a pure white marble mantle, massive gilded window caps and the walls are covered with heavy embossed paper. To the left a large living room, finished in cherry, with a handsome drop fixture, a white marble mantle, the windows in this room running almost to the floor, which is of oak. Leading from this room to the east side of the house, there is a very pretty library, finished in quartered oak, with a lovely hand-carved mantle and lavatory. The dining room, on the Wilder street side is finished in quartered oak, with paneled sides; it has a circle wall with handsome leaded glass design. The kitchen and parlor are finished in ash, and in the east side off the kitchen, in vestibule is a large refrigerator built in, receiving ice from the outside. On the floor above are three exceedingly large chambers, front, east and west. Off the floor above is a thoroughly equipped bath room finished in quartered oak, with a marble slab under white enameled tub. It has all open plumbing, and is perfect in every respect. On the top floor are two finished rooms, also large store room. The walls and ceilings in the main part of the house are all neatly frescoed in matched colors. The cellar is extremely high, and is partitioned into vegetable, preserve and cage apartments. The laundry is in the basement under the kitchen, and is thoroughly equipped with wash trays, boiler, and so forth. The house is heated throughout by an excellent steam plant and also by indirect hot air.

The stable is in keeping with the house in every way. It is heated by steam. There are three single stalls, two box stalls, a large carriage room, harness room, man's room, a large loft and an exceedingly fine cellar with concrete floor.

The lot is laid to a superbly graded lawn and contains about 20,750 square feet of land, with a frontage on Middlesex street of about 124 feet, and on Wilder street of about 124 feet; it is curbed with granite cut stone, has concrete circle driveway, concrete walks, and is most desirably situated with many pretty residences surrounding it.

Terms: $1000 must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as struck off. Make all inquiries of the auctioneer, whom I have left in full charge. The house will be open for inspection from 12 o'clock on day of sale till hour of sale.

SERIOUS INJURY

Jeremiah Ryan Thrown From Wagon

Jeremiah Ryan, (insmith, residing at 773 Westford street, was thrown from his wagon in Middlesex street about six o'clock last night and sustained serious injuries.

Ryan with two other men on the seat of the wagon was driving up Stevens street from Marginal street. As he came into Middlesex street an inward bound electric car struck the wagon throwing the three men from the seat to the street. There were several passengers in the car and these and the car crew hurried to the men's assistance. Then it was found that Ryan had broken his leg, and the ambulance was called and hurried Ryan to St. John's hospital. There it was stated late last night that he was resting comfortably without other more serious injury.

STRONG ATTACK

Bryan Gets After the Republicans

QUINCY, Ill., Oct. 10.—Fresh from his conference in Chicago with hundreds of business men whom he also specially addressed, Wm. J. Bryan travelling for 12 hours yesterday through the state of Illinois and making numerous stops, held himself up as "the advance agent of prosperity."

"The panic of last fall was his principal theme and from early morning until his last word was uttered last night, he hammered away at the republican charge that his election will mean business depression and failures. Attention was called by Mr. Bryan to a statement recently appearing in a Chicago republican paper that 15,000 children went to school hungry every morning. A democratic victory this year, he asserted, furnished the only hope of a cure for the hard times from which he said the people are suffering, and for restoration of prosperity. He assailed Mr. Taft for running on a platform which he did not endorse, attacked Speaker Cannon and Mr. Sherman, the republican vice presidential nominee, as being responsible for stalling legislation in favor of labor, and finally bitterly arraigning the president again for taking a hand in the campaign.

For the first time he referred to Mr. Longworth's alleged statement at Moline, Ill., that Mr. Taft should be elected, and held office for eight years and then be succeeded by his father-in-law, President Roosevelt.

"He shall not be permitted to nominate and elect his successor," Mr. Bryan vehemently declared, "with the prospect announced of his own son-in-law of then detaching for eight years more. It is time that the power of the people shall be used by the people."

Enormous crowds greeted him everywhere along the line of travel and enthusiastically cheered him. At some points he was caught in the swarming multitude and forced to extricate himself. With the speech delivered more last night, he had spoken fourteen times in several instances his remarks were of considerable length. The feature of his address here was his denial of the statement printed in a western paper that he wrote editorial and made speeches against granting pensions to old soldiers. In his audience was a number of veterans.

Accompanying the candidate through the state yesterday was a large delegation from the democratic state committee and Ex-Governor David R. Francis, of Missouri, who was a member of President Cleveland's cabinet and who introduced Mr. Bryan here last night.

Things in the business world are looking up. There is a more cheerful atmosphere on Merrimack and Central streets. Not exactly intoxicating but things in general are much better. If you have not already, you will feel it soon. Everybody will find work who wants to work. The sole purpose in life is not to make money nor to hoard it. But it is essential that one be careful, provident, un-wasteful. There will be another "business depression" some day. Now is a good time to think things. Now is a good time to get the thrifty habit. YOUR BANK DEPOSIT CAN BE MADE TO EARN YOU INTEREST. Earning interest for you—yet always at hand, always subject to check. Does it earn you interest? And again, You should place your valuables down town in a SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX. You should go to the safest place in Lowell and rent such a box. TROLLEY SYSTEM

In Merrimack Street—Work Will Start Next Wednesday—No Dirt Piles in Street

The work of deepening the sewer in Merrimack street from John street to Bridge street will be begun next Wednesday and for the first time in Lowell the filling in trolley system will be used; a trolley system for the removal of dirt from point to point.

It is for the purpose of precluding the necessity of blockading Merrimack square with heaps of dirt that the trolley system has been resorted to.

When the work of lowering the sewer is begun an excavation will be made at one point while back filling will be begun at another and the dirt from the excavation will be used to back fill.

Frank B. French of the Carson, French Machine company, the company that handles the trolley system is expected to arrive in Lowell today to talk the matter over with Supt. Morse.

Bid Lively There! Until ten o'clock Monday forenoon, October 12, proposals will be received at the office of the purchasing agent for one car of best white cows for the street department; 50 stone bounds for the street department and various bulls for the park department.

CHICAGO WINS

DETROIT 6, CHICAGO 10

The First Game for Championship in the World's Series

SCORE BY INNINGS

Chicago - 0 0 4 0 0 0 1 0 5 - 10
 Detroit - 1 0 0 0 0 0 3 2 0 - 6

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—Incoming Chicago trains today brought enthusiasts bent on witnessing the first of the Olympic struggles between the Detroit and Chicago teams for the championship of the world. They were a brave and confident minority which flouted "Cub" banners amidst the multitude of "Tiger" emblems displayed by a no less confident majority. Before daylight the enthusiasts began forming in line before the ticket windows at Fenner park waiting for the sale of general admission tickets to open up at 5 o'clock. Many who had had no breakfast at home nipped sandwiches and still had enough left in their pockets or packages which they carried for luncheon at noon. They were taking no chances. All of the reserved seats for today's games were sold within two hours yesterday, leaving hundreds of would-be purchasers unsatisfied. Many of these were to be found in the less ambitious line today.

Medicine Hat and the areas of high barometer and low barometer worked together in a harmony worthy of the cause to the great satisfaction of the weather man who had predicted fair and warm weather with just a tinge of autumn crispness. Expressions of gratification were heard on every hand that both teams were in excellent condition and fit to play the best ball of their careers. The list of injured is fortunately short. Catcher Schmidt of Detroit donned his uniform despite a finger, the condition of which would have kept a less plucky player from playing. No less Spartan was the conduct of Shortstop O'Leary who ignored a badly bruised thumb. Captain Chance showed no effects of the blow which he received in the neck at New York except in the huskiness and faintness of his voice.

Shortstop Bush whose sensational dash for the pennant, was unhappy. He was ineligible to play, having joined the club too late in the season.

President F. J. Navin of the Detroit club has erected in the outfield a tier of circus seats which extended to left field and line over to the pavilion in right field. They would accommodate 20,000 spectators in addition to the normal seating capacity of the park. Altogether there were accommodations for between 18,000 and 20,000 persons with space left for those who were enthusiastic enough to sit upon the ground or stand to watch the contest.

The batting order this morning was announced as follows:
 Detroit—McIntyre, lf; O'Leary, ss; Crawford, cf; Cobb, rf; Rossman, 1b; Schaefer, 3b; Schmidt, c; Downs, 2b; Kilian, p.
 Chicago—Sheppard, lf; Evers, 2b; Schulte, rf; Chance, 1b; Steinfield, 3b; Hoffman, cf; Tinker, ss; Kling, c; Reulbach, p.

Umpires—American league: Sheridan and Connolly; National league: O'Day and Klein.
 The gates to the park were opened at 10 o'clock and the crowd immediately began pouring in. The early comers were entertained by the light morning practice of the Detroit team.

Before the game Garry Hermann presided at a meeting of the national commission at which it was decided that two sets of umpires, O'Day (National) and Sheridan (American) and Connolly (National) and Connolly (American) should alternate at the several games. An American league umpire will be at the home plate, on National league grounds the National league man will occupy that point.

Chicago's Practice

An hour and a quarter before the game began the Chicago team took the field quickly followed by the Tigers. Detroit immediately started practice in the diamond while Capt. Chance and his men started a dozen balls tossing back and forth in the space between their bench and the diamond.

The members of the national commission occupied a box in front of the grandstand. Scattered about the stand were many men of prominence.

THREATENING WEATHER

An hour before the game the sky suddenly darkened. The sun which had shown brightly during the morning was obscured by gray clouds.

The umpires and captains conferred at the plate in a slight drizzle of rain and it was still falling when play was called at 2 o'clock.

With the rain coming down but not sufficiently hard to dampen the ardor of the fans the game was called with Chicago at the bat.

First Inning

Chicago—Sheppard doubled to right field, Cobb falling in the wet grass as he reached for the ball. Evers struck out. Schulte out. Schaefer to Rossman. Schaefer taking third. Chance walked. Chance's steals second. Hoffman flied to Crawford. No runs.

Second Inning

Chicago—Hoffman out. Downs to Rossman. Tinker flied to Crawford who made a wonderful one-hand catch. Kling walked. Reulbach forced King. O'Leary to Downs. No runs.

Detroit—Rossman out. Tinker to Chance. Schaefer flied to Hoffman. Schmidt out. Reulbach to Chance. No runs.

Third Inning

Chicago—Before Sheppard came to bat a shower of rain fell. The rain was falling heavily. Sheppard doubled over first base. Evers batted second. Evers and Schulte were safe. Schaefer flied to Rossman. Schaefer taking third. Chance walked. Chance's steals second. Hoffman flied to Crawford. No runs.

Fourth Inning

Chicago—Reulbach struck out. Sheppard singled to center. His third hit. Evers sacrificed. Summers to Rossman. Schulte flied to McIntyre. No runs.

Detroit—O'Leary out. Tinker to Chance. Crawford flied to Evers. Cobb out. Evers to Chance. No runs.

Kling tried to steal but was out. Schmidt to Downs. Four runs.
 Detroit—Tinker made a wonderful stop of Downs' grounder, throwing him out to Chance. Summers struck out. McIntyre fouled to Kling. No runs.

Fifth Inning

Chicago—Chance fouled to Schmidt. Steinfield walked. Hoffman forced Steinfield. O'Leary to Downs. Tinker was out. Schaefer to Rossman. No runs.

Detroit—Downs bunted to Reulbach who threw him out at first. McIntyre hit the ball into the mud in front of the plate and it rolled out of Kling's reach. O'Leary singled. Crawford hit a little grounder to Reulbach who retired him easily at first. No runs.

Sixth Inning

Chicago—Kling flied to McIntyre who made a pretty running catch. Reulbach out to Downs to Rossman. Schaefer flied to McIntyre. No runs.

Detroit—Downs bunted to Reulbach who threw him out at first. McIntyre hit the ball into the mud in front of the plate and it rolled out of Kling's reach. O'Leary singled. Crawford hit a little grounder to Reulbach who retired him easily at first. No runs.

Seventh Inning

Chicago—The rain had ceased somewhat at the beginning of the seventh inning. Evers hit a grounder to Rossman and was safe when Rossman waited too long for Summers to cover the bag. Schulte sacrificed. Summers to Rossman. Downs flied to Chance's grounder and he was safe at first. Evers taking third. Steinfield flied to Crawford and Evers scored on the throw. O'Leary and Downs tried unsuccessfully to catch Chance but the Chicago captain made second. Hoffman out. Summers to Rossman. One run.

Detroit—Cobb's hit was too hot for Reulbach to handle and he was safe at first. Rossman singled over second base. Cobb taking third by a daring run. Rossman went to second on an attempt to catch Cobb at third. Schaefer struck out. Schmidt hit to Tinker and was thrown at first. Cobb scoring on the play. Rossman was held at second. Downs doubled down the third base line, scoring Rossman. Summers drove a pop fly just over Tinker's head and Downs scored. Reulbach was taken out and Overall put in to pitch.

McIntyre was hit by pitched ball. O'Leary flied to Schulte, three runs. Score: Chicago, 5; Detroit, 4.

Eighth Inning

Tinker singled to right and went to second on a slow throw in. Kling sacrificed. Summers to Rossman. Tinker got to third. Overall struck out. Schaefer was thrown out at first by O'Leary. No runs.

Crawford walked. Overall was taken out and Brown went in the box. Crawford advanced to second on a wild pitch. Cobb was safe when Chance, dropped Brown's throw of Cobb's bunt. Crawford taking third. Rossman doubled over second, scoring Crawford. Cobb went to third and then scored when Hoffman's throw went wild. Schaefer out. Kling to Chance.

Rossman took third on the play. Schmidt out. Evers to Chance. Downs flied to Hoffman. Detroit 2 runs.

Ninth Inning

Chicago—Rossman retired Evers unassisted on a grounder. Schulte hits a fly on the ground to O'Leary. Chance singled over second. Steinfield singled over third, bases now filled. Evers hit safely to left, scoring Schulte and Chance. Tinker bunted safely in front of the plate. Schmidt falling down and Steinfield scoring. Hoffman and Tinker worked a double steal. Kling singled to center scoring Hoffman and Tinker.

Brown sacrificed. Summers to Rossman. Schaefer flied to Crawford. Five runs.

Detroit failed to score in the ninth inning.

BROKE HIS LEG

In the game between the Y. M. C. I. and Chelsea A. A. Craig, the captain of the Lowell team received a broken leg. He was going through the center for gains when the players of the visiting team piled on him with the result as above stated.

LARCENY OF $29,000

Is the Charge Made Against Cardenio King

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—The trial of Cardenio King, charged with the larceny of $29,000 on 31 counts, was set for December 7 by Chief Justice Aiken of the superior court today.

King dealt in the stocks of a number of new companies not listed on the regular exchanges until last spring when he took up a number of those which were listed. He also started a newspaper in this city which ran about nine months. He left the city early in the spring and during his absence was indicted, a number of former customers appearing before the grand jury. He returned during the summer and has been out on bail.

BROKE RECORD BIG RECEPTION

For the Marathon Race Course

Will Be Tendered Cardinal Gibbins

LONDON, Oct. 10.—H. Stret, the champion professional long distance runner of France, today covered the course of the Marathon race, a distance of 26 miles, in 2 hours, 37 minutes and 23 seconds and thus broke all previous records for this contest.

John J. Hayes of New York, who won the race during the Olympic games last summer, made the distance in 2:55:18.

The course today was over the same course covered by Hayes. The prize was $500, given by an evening newspaper. There were 89 competitors, including an American named Percy Smallwood of New York. The runners were sent off from Windsor by Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein. Second place was obtained by an Irishman named White. Smallwood, who was leading at the ten mile point, did not get a place at the finish.

BIG BATTLESHIP

Will Be Repaired at Portsmouth

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The battleship Maine and Alabama which left the Azores yesterday for the United States will part company as they near the Atlantic coast, the Maine going to Portsmouth, N. H., for repairs and the Alabama to be put out of commission. It will be the first time in the history of the navy department that a battleship will go to Portsmouth for repairs.

CAN'T GO HOME

Queer Sentence of Man in New Jersey

PATERSON, N. J., Oct. 10.—The sentence imposed by Judge Francis Scott in the court of special sessions here yesterday upon Samuel Band of 84 Governor street, Paterson, prohibits Band from going to his home and family. If he disregards the decision he will be sent to state prison for a year.

Band's wife complained that he had beaten her and forced her to work in the silk mills while he loafed around the house. The only child, a girl of 18, testified that her father was a nuisance about the home and was really in the way.

Asked what disposition she wanted the court to make of her husband Mrs. Band replied that she did not care whether he were sent to prison "or any old place."

Band implored the court upon his knees not to send him to prison, where, upon Judge Scott ordered the husband and father to send an expressman around to his house for his personal belongings.

"Get your clothes and luggage, if you have any," said the court, "and if you ever go near your home or your wife I will send you to prison for one year."

Band changed his quarters late yesterday afternoon and his old clothes have gone with him.

LOWELL MEN

KNOW HOW TO GET WHAT THEY WANT

The Lowell business men have a way of getting what they want in the way of trains that is rather refreshing to people in this section. There has been considerable complaint in Lowell because the morning train due to leave there at 8:30 o'clock for Boston has been behindhand in arriving here much of the time of late. This didn't suit the Lowell business men as a deputation called on President Tuttle and put the matter up to him in such a convincing manner that they got a promise that a special train would be put on when the other train was late. A special train was put on yesterday, and it left on time; too—Manchester, N. H. Mirror.

MADE AN ASCENSION

PITTSFIELD, Oct. 10.—The balloon Pittsfield in the heart of Berkshire made an ascension here today piloted by William Van Sleet and carrying as passengers Edward C. Wood, Jr., and Edward Thomas of this city. The balloon moved in a northwesterly direction and the last seen of it was when it was proceeding towards Bennington.

WARNING TO HUNTERS

Among the crowd of men who are now seeking the woods for an outing and incidentally to shoot birds are many who are aliens, not yet citizens of this country. Under the law they are held to be the same as non-residents and they should be compelled to take out a shooter's license or made to pay the penalty that is given those from outside the state who infringe this law. Not only are they law breakers in hunting without a license but they shoot at everything they see in the woods, song birds, squirrels and even the farmer's chickens, no matter whether the law states that such birds and animals shall not be killed in open season or at all—Manchester, N. H. Mirror.

FUNERALS

QUINN.—The funeral of Miss Mary T. Quinn took place from her home, 14 Agawam street this morning at 8:30. High mass of requiem was sung by Rev. T. Wade Smith, at 9 o'clock at the Sacred Heart church. The boys' choir under the direction of Mrs. Adelaide Muldoon rendered the Gregorian chant. There were a number of floral pieces from friends of the deceased. The bearers were: John Tarrant, John Quinn, John Farrell, Henry J. Rogers, James Quinn and Bartholomew Gallagher. Burial took place in the Catholic cemetery, Rev. Fr. Smith read the prayers at the grave. Undertaker J. F. Rogers in charge. Under the floral tributes included a large pillow from the family inscribed "Sister"; wreath of roses inscribed "Aunt Mary" from Mr. John Quinn and family; cross on base inscribed "Mrs. Mary Quinn"; wreath of roses from Mr. Kelley; wreath of galax leaves from a friend.

GAGAN.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary Gagan took place this morning at 8:30 from the chapel of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons, and was largely attended by sorrowing friends and relatives including a number from out of town. Among the latter were Mrs. Bridget Hughes, Mrs. Anna Martin, Mrs. Margaret Baker, John C. Hughes and John P. Baker of Bradford, Mr. and Miss O'Donnell of Melrose, Mass. The cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church, where at 9 o'clock a mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Hugh M. McDermott. The choir, under the direction of Mr. P. P. Haggerty, sang the Gregorian mass. Mrs. Josephine McKeenney presiding at the organ. Among the many beautiful tributes were a large pillow inscribed "Mother" from the family; pillow inscribed "At Rest" from the Overseers' association of the Sterling mill; sheaf of wheat, from Mr. Edward Bushnell; basket of flowers, from Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Martin and son; spray of asters, Master George Gagan; wreath, Mrs. Hughes; spray of asters, from Daniel F. Powell; cypress palms, Mr. and Mrs. Flinnerty; wreath, Miss Minnie West and Nellie Daly; standing wreath on base, the office employees of Sterling mills. The bearers were John H. James F. Charles H. and Edward W. Gagan, sons of deceased, and John C. Hughes and John P. Baker, nephews. At the grave Rev. Fr. McDermott read the communal prayers and the burial was in the Catholic cemetery, in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

FUNERAL NOTICES

LYNCH.—The funeral of Anna Teresa Lynch, beloved daughter of John J. Lynch and Mary (Sullivan) Lynch, will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home of her parents, 2 rear 45 Andrew street, and burial will take place in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery, under the direction of Undertaker John A. Finnegan.

SUIT ENTERED

Mrs. Harriet Powers, of this city, through her counsel, Messrs. Pratt and Devine, has filed a suit for separate maintenance from her husband, in the court house at East Cambridge.

BRYAN CERTAIN

That Missouri Will Roll Up a Big Vote

MONROE CITY, Oct. 10.—"I know in advance what Missouri will do on election day," said Mr. Bryan to a crowd he addressed briefly today. "I know what she has done and if I can trust the reports that we have received I know that your majority for the electoral ticket is going to be larger this year than it has been in previous campaigns when I have been a candidate."

DID NOT CONTRIBUTE

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Vice-Chairman Huddspeth of the democratic national committee, said today that he knew of his personal knowledge that some of the names that appear in the list of democratic contributors have not given a cent.

TAPT TO SPEAK

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10.—W. H. Tappan today will make a brief address to the members of the Taft club of Port Thomas, Ky., in the assembly room of the Synton hotel.

KERN COMING EAST

HUNTINGTON, Oct. 10.—John W. Kern passed through here early today on the way to speak at Point Pleasant, fifty miles north. Mr. Kern's eastern tour will include a speech at Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 17.

STAMP AND A PENNY

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Information was given out today at republican national headquarters that a contribution of one two cent stamp and one penny had been sent in by mail to be added to the campaign fund. As an offset to this it was stated at democratic headquarters that contribution of one penny had been received there to be added to the democratic campaign fund.

THE MOTOR RACES

Lytle Relieves Monotony for the Spectators

MOTOR PARKWAY, L. I., Oct. 10.—The one relieving feature of the dead monotony from a spectator's point of view in the Long Island Motor Parkway sweepstakes was speculation as to whether the terrific pace begun by Herbert Lytle in his Italian car would be held without accident to the machine and without some slow lap which would cut down his pace average. But he was able to maintain his high powered drive to the end and his record stands as the fastest in the country. The nearest approach to it was Henry's in the Vanderbilt race of 1905, approximately 300 miles at the rate of 61.49 miles per hour. Europe has the world's record of 66.25 miles.

Lytle's record is notable not only as showing his skill but demonstrating the suitability of the track for high time work. The track also showed especial freedom from causes of minor accidents. Reports from the course showed that excepting for the overturning of Karl Wright's machine in the Jericho road no one was injured and the broken arm sustained by Miller's mechanic show that there were only trifling troubles with machinery and tires.

GAMBLERS SQUELCHED

MOTOR PARKWAY, L. I., Oct. 10.—Congressman W. W. Cooks, who represents President Roosevelt's district in the house of representatives and who is a land-owner in the vicinity of the Jericho-Westbury turn, early in the day organized himself into a vigilance committee and set about to drive away the shell game and prize wheel men who were numerous along the course. A small riot ensued and the gamblers threatened violence but in the end they backed down, some of their tables were smashed and the militant congressman gained his point.

PLACER MINER

Finds Gems in Winthrop Ruins

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—Following an offer of a commission of 25 per cent. for recovering diamonds, silver and gold lost at the big Crest Hill fire in Winthrop, Harry Eskridge, a Klondike miner, is placer mining the ruins.

His first contract was with a Mrs. Hutchins of Philadelphia, who lost jewelry valued at $5,000. While workmen carried the debris to the water front, Eskridge with two sieves sifted the ashes.

He had scarcely begun work when he discovered one of two large diamonds lost by Mrs. Hutchins. The stone was valued at $60, and was in perfect condition. Later he found three more. There are ten more still missing, and it will take several days to complete the job.

Several hundred dollars worth of gold and silver have already been recovered. Mr. Eskridge is confident that if the diamonds are still in the ruins he will be able to find them. The entire ruins will be "washed out," and it is expected that thousands of dollars' worth of valuables will be found.

Mr. Eskridge has been mining in the Klondike region for ten years, and is owner of fourteen claims in the British Yukon district, 100 miles from the Alaskan line. His visit to his home in Winthrop is the first since his departure a decade ago, when the Alaskan gold was swept the country.

"This is the easiest kind of mining," said Mr. Eskridge. "By using two screens, a coarse and a fine one, I can discover any valuables that are left. I shall keep at this work just as long as they want me and I am sure that I can find most of the lost jewelry."

HATHAWAY'S THEATRE

"It would be a mistake to miss it." is a succinct sump of the variety show that will be presented for the approval of the Hathaway clientele next week. The feature offering of the big show will be Preston Kendall & Co. in "The Devil," condensed and adapted for a one-act play by Mr. Kendall. Mr. Kendall gives a dramatic and fascinating impersonation of the Satanic character—polished, suave and eloquent in his persuasiveness; and fiendish in his gloating over the struggles of his intended victims. Mr. Gordon portrays the artist effectively and Miss Fisher plays the part of Vera, with fillet and charm. The Six American Dancers form a sextet whose terpsichorean revs have never been equalled in this country. Three pretty girls and three young men are included, and all of them have won innumerable medals for their proficiency in dancing. A number of intricate and beautiful solo dances is presented and the finale is a solo challenge dance by each member which gives the act a particularly sensational finish.

Charles Leonard Fletcher is unquestionably America's greatest impersonator. His impersonations include the famous actors of America and England, and his performance is very artistic and high-class. Gray and Graham, "The Musical Bell Boy and the Military Maid," are a pair of instrumentalists whose act gets away from all the others in its originality and cleverness. The man's burlesque of the Scotch Highlander character is excruciatingly funny. The woman introduces the largest saxophone in the world and plays it very skillfully. Grif, London's festive juggler, the favorite of the music halls, does a bit of everything in the line of juggling, keeping audiences convulsed with laughter over the oddity of his antics and his running fire fast. Robert's animals, including bears, dogs and a cigarette-smoking monkey, will delight the children and please the grown-ups as well. The Berkes, father and son, offer an entertaining medley of dancing, singing and impersonations. New moving pictures close a bill that is remarkably generous in quantity and superior in quality.

HENRY H. WILDER

Lowell Golfer is in the Lead

NEWTON, Oct. 10.—At the end of the first 18 holes of the 36 hole final match for the individual championship of the intercollegiate golf association on the Brae Burn links today Henry H. Wilder, the Harvard captain, led his college mate, Hamilton Briggs 4 up.

The forenoon play took place under the best of conditions but Briggs was far off the game that he had shown all the week up to today. On the other hand Wilder was steady and accurate. The remaining 18 holes will be played this afternoon.

REVEALS SECRET

On His Death Bed at Mt. Vernon

MOUNT VERNON, Oct. 10.—Thomas R. Hodge, 65 years old, former county register of Westchester county, died at his home here yesterday. He had been ill about a year of Bright's disease. Mr. Hodge was a republican and a former alderman of Mount Vernon.

It was generally supposed that he was a bachelor, but on his deathbed he told his relatives that on a recent visit to his native home, Penance, Cornwall, England, he had married his cousin, Miss Kate Redhead. His bride was married to and arrived here a few days ago.

Mr. Hodge was a stockholder and director in half a dozen Westchester corporations and leaves an estate valued at more than $100,000. He was a Mason and a member of the republican organization.

150,000 ARMED MEN

Could Be Thrown Across Servian Frontier in 24 Hours

BUDAPEST, Oct. 10.—Servia has replied to the Austro-Hungarian demand for an explanation of her purpose in summoning the reserves to the colors by declaring that this step has no aggressive character. Speaking at today's session of the Austro-Hungarian delegation, Foreign Minister Ven Aehrenthal expressed the belief that he would be able to carry through the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina peacefully. He said that already he was negotiating with some of the powers with the view of smoothing out of the existing difficulties.

The Servian national assembly is in secret session this afternoon discussing the attitude to be adopted toward Austria-Hungary. The delegates are pervaded by a warlike spirit. The Servian capital is consequently the danger point.

London is the seat of negotiations between M. Jowolsky, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, and Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, looking to the convocation of an international conference to maintain peace.

Turkey continues to give evidences of self-control under the tutelage of Great Britain.

Austria-Hungary could throw 150,000 men across the Servian frontier in twenty-four hours.

"The czar of Bulgaria" will make his triumphal entry into Sofia next Monday.

HURRYING TROOPS

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The Vienna correspondent of the Temps says in a despatch that the eleventh and thirteenth Austro-Hungarian army corps with arms and ammunition, are being hurried in the direction of the Servian frontier and that hospital trains are being prepared at Vienna and Budapest.

A local news agency prints a report from Belgrade to the effect that the Austro-Hungarian minister to Servia, Count Von Glimmes, has been assassinated.

nated. The report is discredited here. The reports that President Pallares and Premier Clemenceau have congratulated Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria on his declaration of independence are untrue.

WILL HOLD CONFERENCE

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The threats of war emanating from Belgrade where the Servian national assembly is in special session today and the forthcoming conference between Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, and M. Jowolsky, the Russian minister of foreign affairs who arrived here last night from Paris constitute the two points of interest in the near eastern situation today.

It is now believed that a conference between the powers is inevitable. Italy, it is learned believes that the situation can be settled only by agreement of the signatories of the Berlin treaty. Italy holds that Austria-Hungary should be asked to renounce article 29 of the treaty of Berlin which relates to Montenegro as well as article 36 which deals with Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The feeling is growing here that Sir Edward and Jowolsky will come to an agreement as to the terms. However, Sir Edward will insist that the conference be limited to a consideration of accomplished facts. The despatch yesterday of a British fleet from Malta to the Aegean sea was decided upon for the purpose of encouraging Turkey to adhere to this policy and to show other states, particularly Greece, that the powers do not view favorably any movements against Turkey at the present moment.

It is believed in some capitals of Europe, however, that Russian ambitions will not prevail here. M. Jowolsky has frankly said to the British government that when the crisis arose he was informed of the intentions of Austria-Hungary but that he was not a consenting party thereto.

MAYOR OF LYNN

Is Trying to Settle Labor Trouble in That City

LYNN, Oct. 10.—Although much doubt was expressed as to whether many of the shoe manufacturers would attend the meeting at Mayor Porter's office this morning to consider methods of arbitration with the representatives of the lasters' unions and members of the state board of arbitration, it was the consensus of opinion that the conference would not be an uneventful one. The attitude of Joseph Cant at whose factory the trouble originated who has just returned here after being absent since Tuesday was eagerly awaited.

As the days go on without any apparent approach toward reaching an amicable settlement of the strike the situation becomes more intense. This morning a number of factories did not reopen and the remainder were being operated with a small quota of help. Subsidiary branches of the shoe trade are beginning to feel the effects of the strike and several cut sole, box toe, heel and counter factories and several other shoe finding industries are running on short time or with a reduced number of operatives.

That the striking lasters are beginning to undergo hardship is shown by the increasing number fed at the free restaurants and soup kitchens at each meal. Several prominent furniture movers have offered to take care of the furniture of any of the strikers who may be evicted for inability to pay their rent.

Pickets were stationed early this morning in the vicinity of the Vamp building where the factories of Harney Bros. and J. L. Walker & Co. are located in an endeavor to prevent the strike breakers employed by those firms from returning to work.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Waltham Woman Charged With Murdering Boston Man

WALTHAM, Oct. 10.—After entering a plea of not guilty to the murder of Clinton Childs of Boston, Mrs. Rose Sibley of this city was given a hearing in the district court today. Through her counsel, Thomas Carey, she waived the reading of the complaint. The government was represented by Assistant District Attorney Charles J. Wier of Lowell. There were sixteen witnesses present and after five of them had been heard the case was continued until next Saturday, October 17.

SUPT. WHITCOMB

Talks on Evening Drawing Schools

Speaking of the evening drawing schools, Supt. Whitcomb, today, said: The evening drawing schools are much appreciated by the few who are closely connected with them, or who have been pupils in them, but they are not, unfortunately, very well known to the general public.

The machine class is the largest, and the best known. Its principal, Mr. S. G. Stephens, is a former professor in the Institute of Technology, and his ability both as a draftsman and as a teacher, is widely recognized. The teachers associated with him, eight in number, are also all skilled draftsmen and experienced teachers, and the results of their work is naturally of the highest order. A graduate of the machine class, who was also a graduate of our day high school, offered drawing as one of the subjects for admission to college a few years ago, and when the president saw his work, he said with a smile, "Mr. Stephens was my teacher too, 30 years ago," and he not only accepted the applicant's drawings as proof of fitness, but gave him an advanced rating for one year.

The work of this class is, of course, intensely practical, and nearly all the graduates of the school have used the skill acquired in it to advance themselves in their profession. In fact, the bulk of the civil engineers and draftsmen in the city have been pupils of this school, and to them and their friends it needs no word of explanation or praise. To others, however, it may be of interest to say that a class of about 150 as earnest young men as can be found anywhere in the country are to be found here every winter, and the good they get is as open to others as to them.

The architectural class is taught by well known architect, Mr. Harry P. Graves, and three thoroughly competent instructors. The class usually numbers about fifty, and a large proportion of the architects of this city and many who have gone elsewhere have learned the rudiments at least of their profession in this class.

As to the work in free hand, the principal of that class writes as follows: In the free hand department, the school offers courses in applied design, modeling, cast and life drawing, perspective drawing, water color and china painting. The school offers unusual opportunities for the study of the arts of design, and the application of art to practical handicraft. There will be an opportunity to work out the designs in leather, stenciling and china painting.

The stenciling, long known to decorative art in Japan, Germany and England, did not come into use in this country until the Art and Crafts introduced it about three years ago. Today it is established. Its general adaptability, its possibilities of artistic development, its ease of execution have won it a permanent place as a method of decoration. For hangings, pillows, table covers, and various house furnishings, this method of textile decoration is deservedly popular. Many have taken it up to beautify their homes, while others are following it as a profitable business.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A birthday party that was one of the best social successes of the season was held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bamford in Main street, the occasion being the 20th anniversary of the birth of their daughter, Miss Catherine. About twenty-five guests were present and all assisted in making the evening a pleasant one.

During the evening an excellent musical program was given, including selections by the Sagamore quartet with solos by Fred Bamford, Etta Frazer, Josephine Mawn and others. Misses Bamford and Mawn acted as accompanists for the singers.

Miss Bamford was the recipient of many presents, the most conspicuous being a toilet case and watch fob.

A dainty luncheon was served and all departed wishing the hostess many happy birthdays and thanking her for the good time enjoyed.

"BOB" GANLEY

Says That Chicago Will Win Series

Bob Ganley, the captain of the Washington baseball team of the American league, has arrived at his home in Lowell. He is looking and feeling as fine as silk. He picks the Chicago Cubs as the winners of the series with Detroit for the world's championship in the series which were begun today. He denied the mix-up recently reported as having taken place in St. Louis with Burns. He said that only a few angry words passed between them and the matter then ended.

WANTS AN ALLIANCE

LETTER TO KING

CETTINE, Montenegro, Oct. 10.—Col. Popovitch, an aide-de-camp to Prince Nicholas, left here today for Rome bearing an autograph letter of the prince to King Victor Emmanuel. It is presumed that the prince has appealed to the king of Italy, who is his cousin-in-law, to support the claims of Montenegro in the present crisis.

IN POLICE COURT MAN FOUND DEAD

Judge Objects to Saloon Men in Flames That Threatened His Bailing Drunks

"I don't want any rum seller from whom you get your liquor to go up and bail you out of jail," was the remark made by Judge Hadley in police court this morning after continuing the case of Robert Farley until next Wednesday morning.

Farley was charged with being drunk and he entered a plea of guilty. Patrolman Hill testified that Farley got crazy drunk and drove his family out of doors after breaking up practically all of the furniture in the house.

Farley's only defense was that the furniture which he broke belonged to him. The court decided that a few days' rest in jail would do the prisoner some good and after continuing the case till Wednesday made the remark that he did not want a liquor dealer to bail the man out.

The fact that Stephen Shaughnessy has a wife and children dependent upon him caused Judge Hadley to be lenient and instead of giving the defendant a direct sentence, gave him a suspended sentence of three months in jail and placed him in the hands of the probation officer for one year.

Catherine Connors and Mary Carroll, second offenders, were fined $5 each. There were three first offenders who were taxed the usual $2.

Cornelius Sullivan, who claims Quincy as his home, was arrested the night before last and yesterday morning was released by the probation officer. Con, however, started to celebrate his good luck in escaping from the lockup by getting intoxicated. He was escorted to the station last night and in court this morning was fined $6 and if the money is not forthcoming he will be sentenced to the house of correction in Cambridge.

William Campbell, of South Boston, was fined $6 because it was the second time he appeared before the court within a year, and if his fine is not paid he will also spend a few days at the house of correction in Cambridge.

Michael J. Carroll and Bridget Kelley were charged with fornication. Both entered pleas of not guilty. Sgt. Atkinson and Patrolman Frank Donovan, who made the arrests, testified to the facts and the couple were fined $15 each.

In the case of George Richard, charged with the larceny of $15 from Omer Larnac on the 22nd of September, the government asked for a continuance and the case will be heard Monday morning.

British Pensioner

James Bradley was charged with failing to provide proper support for his family since the first of last May. He pleaded guilty and the court reprimanded him in a severe manner after hearing the testimony of his wife.

Mrs. Bradley, a woman of slight build, with an infant in her arms and a bright looking little boy of about four years, following her to the stand, testified that her husband left her last May and after waiting a week for his return she had to give up her house and go to Worcester, where her sister took care of her.

The government brought out the fact that Bradley is a pensioner of the British army and last Wednesday endeavored to secure passage on a steamship leaving Boston for Europe, but owing to the fact that the steamer was filled he was refused passage.

Judge Hadley sentenced Bradley to three months in jail and informed the prisoner that if he gave any signs of contrition while incarcerated in jail the probation officer would take him out.

Stole Metal Castings

Stanislaw Glowinski, through his counsel, J. Joseph Hennessy, pleaded guilty to two complaints of larceny. In the first complaint he was charged with the larceny of 130 pounds of metal castings valued at 35 cents a pound, the property of the Lowell Machine Shop and in the second complaint with the larceny of a saw valued at $1.60 a gauge valued at $10 and a soldering iron worth $1, also the property of the aforementioned corporation.

The defendant was a yard hand in the "big shop" and had been employed there for the past three or four years. After stealing the castings Glowinski sold some of them and the remainder were found under his bed in Front street by Corporation Officer Noyes and Patrolman Dennett.

Glowinski was found guilty on both counts and was fined $20 on the first count and $15 on the second.

CATHOLIC NEWS

The Parishes Preparing for the Boston Parade

There will be a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock of the officers of the different sodalities of the Immaculate Conception church to make arrangements for the parish reunion of Wednesday afternoon and evening, Oct. 21. Great preparations are being made to have the coming reunion excel those of the past. A feature of the occasion will be the formation and parade of children of the parish from the Immaculate Conception school to the Associate hall on the afternoon of the day of the reunion.

There will be a meeting of the Holy Name society of the Immaculate Conception church tomorrow afternoon at 8.30 o'clock.

The monthly meeting of the Immaculate Conception Sodality will be held in the basement of the church Tuesday evening immediately after the rosary devotion.

Rev. F. Sullivan, C. M., of the Vincentian Order of Mission Fathers, was a caller this week at the parochial residence of the Oblate Fathers of the Immaculate Conception church. Father Sullivan came from Emmitsburg, Va., having been visiting hospitals of the order in Baltimore, Philadelphia, three in Boston and St. John's of Lowell, all of which are conducted by Sisters of the Vincentian Order.

The O. M. I. Cadets held a very successful street drill last night in the vicinity of the Immaculate Conception school hall under the direction of Lieut. Bernard F. McCardle in preparation for the parade in Boston on Nov. 1. The next drill will be held on Friday night of the ensuing week.

St. Peter's Church

On Thursday afternoon, Oct. 29 there will be a meeting of the Spiritual directors of the different organizations that are to parade in Boston on Nov. 1, the occasion of the anniversary of the establishment of the diocese of Boston.

The different Lowell parishes and those of the surrounding towns together with those from Ayer and Pepperell will be represented at this meeting.

The different companies of the Holy Name society of St. Peter's church will hold a drill on the South Common on Tuesday evening next under the direction of Capt. Philip McNulty of Company M.

At St. Michael's Church

On Thursday evening next there will be a drill of the Holy Name society of St. Michael's parish under the direction of Sgt. Maj. Moore of the United States Maine corps who conducted

John Dahlgren of West Adams Street the Victim — The Suicide Theory Not Credited by Chief Hosmer

John Dahlgren, an iron moulder, was found dead in the attic of his new two-tenement house at 955 Westford street early this morning.

He was found by the firemen who responded to an alarm from box 255 at 4.34 o'clock and the house was in flames when they arrived. It was at first believed that the man had been suffocated but the fact that a piece of window cord was tied in a hangerman's knot about his throat gave the impression that it was suicide. The cord had been burned off a foot or more from the knot and while the skin was chafed or cracked there was not the impression about the throat that such a cord would be likely to make, and this was explained by the fact that the cord was below his shirt collar and that the latter was between the cord and his neck.

John Dahlgren lived with his wife and daughter at 32 West Adams street. For years he had been an iron moulder at Peavey's foundry in Walker street and by being prudent had saved money enough to warrant him in building a house. It was said, however, that he was despondent of late because the house cost much more than he anticipated.

When the firemen arrived at the scene of the fire and tragedy the flames were flashing through the attic windows. The fire originated in a barrel in the cellar, the barrel having contained chips and other debris. The barrel was resting on the cellar stairs and all doors were opened to draft to send the flames upward in lightning time.

Some people gave utterance this morning to the belief that John Dahlgren, despondent and weary, went to the house shortly before four o'clock, started the fire in the cellar and opened all doors to the attic, the place which he selected for his death scene.

Chief Hosmer does not believe that Dahlgren set the fire because it had gained such headway when the firemen arrived, and theirs was a straight clear run from the fire house to the fire, and if the man committed suicide Chief Hosmer says he did it while temperarily insane; that he went to the house, found the fire licking its way from the cellar and, coupled with previous despondency, it so turned his head that he decided to end it all.

Mrs. Dahlgren, whose condition is now critical because of the tragedy, said that her husband left home about twenty minutes to five o'clock this morning. They were to move into the house next Monday and he was to arrange today for the completion of gas fittings.

Chief Hosmer and others think that Mrs. Dahlgren made a mistake on the time that her husband left the house; that he left shortly before 4 rather than shortly before 5 o'clock.

When the body was first discovered it was supposed to be that of Samuel Robertson, a fishman, but Robertson was found safe, sound and solid in the flesh a few hours later. A policeman had been despatched to John Dahlgren's home in West Adams street to advise him of the fact that his house was burning and when the policeman got there he found that Mr. Dahlgren had left home earlier in the morning.

Mr. Dahlgren's little girl then went to the scene of the fire and asked Chief Hosmer if he had seen her papa. A minute before the little girl arrived Chief Hosmer had picked up a coat and the little girl immediately recognized it as her father's coat, hence her question to the chief who placed the little girl in his wagon and took her home.

On the way to West Adams street he met Mrs. Dahlgren and she persuaded him to return home and the news of her husband's death was broken to her as easily as possible. The shock proved too much for her and she became hysterical. A physician was summoned and it was said that her condition was serious.

John Dahlgren's body was removed to the parlors of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons in Market street, where it remained to be viewed by the medical examiner. The man's clothing was not turned but the intense heat had cracked the skin on the hands and face, but to the ordinary eye there wasn't any signs of strangulation.

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the Dahlgren residence on Westford street.

HOWARD IN COURT

He is Charged With Murder of His Wife

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 10.—The case of William C. Howard charged with the murder of his wife, Ida Howard, came in by continuance in the third district court today. Gardner Hart who claims to have seen Howard at Padanaram on the night of the supposed murder of Assistant Medical Examiner Bullard and Chester L. Claudine, street car conductor, who claimed to have talked with Mrs. Howard on the Padanaram car on the night she is thought to have met her death, were the first witnesses presented by the government.

Medical Examiner Bullard said that from his autopsy death resulted by suffocation from drowning or some other cause, and that it might have been either suicide, homicide or accident.

Mr. Hart and Conductor Claudine definitely placed both Mr. and Mrs. Howard at Padanaram at the time the crime is alleged to have been committed and Private John Freely testified to having received a note from Howard, the accused man, previous to his arrest in which he wanted him to aid in the establishment of a false alibi. At the conclusion of the hearing Edward T. Bannon, attorney for the defense, did not desire to present any evidence at this time in behalf of his client and Judge Miliken, finding Howard probably guilty, bound him over to the superior court without bail. District Attorney Swift conducted the case for the prosecution.

A TOTAL WRECK GEORGE CONLEY

Norwegian Bark Australia Went Ashore

CAMBELLTON, N. B., Oct. 10.—The Norwegian bark Australia, Captain Pederson, for Great Britain, which went ashore at Cape Chateau in the St. Lawrence river last Monday, is a total wreck. She was saved in Laurvig and registered 1210 tons. The head and stern were broken off and the ship was still aground but was probably hoisted as soon as her cargo is lightened. She is resting on soft bottom.

The local members of the Independent league held conventions for the nomination of candidates to be balloted for in the coming state election, at 22 Middle street, last evening with what they were pleased to call a large attendance.

William N. Osmond, candidate for governor, was present and made an address which was received with enthusiasm.

The following nominations were made: For congress, 6th district, Mr. George Conley, president of the cotton spinners' union.

For senator, 17th senatorial district, Mr. John O'Regan.

For senator 8th senatorial district, Mr. Hugh Gallagher, president of the Firemen's union.

For representative, 15th district, John W. Burt.

WILDER WON OUT

Lowell Boy Will Play Briggs for the Championship

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—Harvard has won the individual championship of the Intercollegiate golf association, for H. H. Wilder and Templeton Briggs, both of the Cambridge university, have reached the final and will play for the title at 36 holes today.

At Braze-Burn yesterday H. H. Wilder defeated Karl Mosser of Yale by 4 and 2, and Templeton Briggs defeated D. Roberts of Princeton by 7 and 6. Yale gives the Y. for winning the individual championship of the association, but her players this year will have to be satisfied with winning the team championship and making it seven team victories to six for Harvard in the series of meetings.

Yale has won the individual championship six times and Harvard's victory this year will make it four for the Crimson, while Princeton three times has produced the title-holder. The college golfers have played as well this year as in any preceding years, and the senior members of the Harvard team—H. H. Wilder and Templeton Briggs—have had rounds equal to those of professionals. The figures have been kept accurately, with no blunder about them.

Thursday afternoon T. Briggs had a round of 74, a stymie on the 13th green preventing him from getting a 73. Yesterday afternoon Wilder had a 74 in his match with Mosser and his medal score was 72, as, like Briggs, he was stymied at one hole, the seventh, but he played the putt over and got a 3 instead of a 4.

So today's match between Wilder and Briggs promises to be as fine as any amateur golf contest as has been played at Braze-Burn. Wilder has been under $0 for several rounds now, and Wilder seems able to rise to any emergency, in spite of the strenuous time he has been having in first-class golf tournaments lately.

Mosser vs. Wilder
In the first 18 holes of his match with Karl Mosser yesterday morning the Yale man had the Harvard captain 1 down. Wilder was taking more putts on the greens than usual, yet on the other hand he won some holes by his approach putts, which left him nothing more to do.

At the second hole Wilder was off the line and took 7, but he had won the first in 4. Mosser getting into the brook, Mosser took the lead at the fourth, where Wilder took three putts, but the Yale man was bunkered at the short hole and lost it in 4 to 3. Wilder won the next two holes, his approach putt to the seventh giving him a 3. Mosser won the long hole in 5 and Wilder was only 1 up at the turn.

Wilder had a chance to win the 11th, as Mosser missed his drive, but he took three putts and the hole was missed. They halved holes to the 15th, where Wilder took three putts again and Mosser holed a long one for a 4. The match was now square.

Wilder rimmed the 16th hole for a 3. Mosser halved this hole, although he made a poor drive, as he judged the run down the slope to the green so well that he almost holed a 3, the ball going into the cup and coming out. Wilder lost the home hole by getting off the line with his tee shot and Mosser was 1 up.

H. H. Wilder must have lunched on the hearts of lions, for when he returned for the rest of the match he proceeded to even things by getting a 3 at the first hole, one of David Brown's tricks. Wilder was using a cleft from the teeing grounds, getting for enough and every straight, though Mosser usually had the greater distance after the drive.

They halved three holes, and then Wilder holed a long putt for 2 on the green of the short fifth hole and took the lead. Mosser halved every hole to the turn, and though Wilder by going out in 36 had gained two holes, he was only 1 up, as Mosser had a hole in hand at the start.

On the 11th green, the longest hole on the links, Wilder holed a 20-foot putt for 3 and became 2 up. Mosser took three putts on the 13th green and Wilder was 3 up. The match was finished on the 16th green in favor of Wilder by 4 and 2. The cards:

Wilder	4	7	4	5	2	4	3	4	6	49
Mosser	5	6	4	4	4	5	4	4	5	49
Wilder	4	6	4	5	4	4	4	4	5	41
Mosser	4	6	4	5	4	4	4	4	5	39
Wilder	3	5	4	5	2	4	4	4	5	34
Mosser	4	5	4	5	3	4	4	4	5	33
Wilder	5	4	4	5	4	4	4	4	5	43
Mosser	5	4	4	5	4	4	4	4	5	43

Wilder was stymied at this hole within easy putting distance and putted over, getting a 3, which made his medal play total 73 in the afternoon.

KAUFMAN'S BOUT

Fred Bradley Was Knocked Out

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Al. Kaufman of San Francisco knocked out Fred Bradley of Boston in the 4th round of which was to have been a six round go at the National Athletic club here last night. The men fought at catch weights, Kaufman being about 20 pounds the heavier.

The battle, which was a grueling one, was witnessed by a large crowd. Kaufman in the first, with right and left to head put Bradley to the floor twice. Bradley took the count on the second knockdown but got up strong and stayed off Kaufman to the bell.

In the third Bradley was full of fight, but no telling blows were landed by either.

Bradley was removed to the dressing room in an unconscious condition and late last night, several hours after the fight, had not been revived.

JIMMY WALSH WON

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 10.—Jimmy Walsh of Boston, claimant of the bantam weight championship, was last night given a well-earned decision over Henry Treffinger, of this city, at the end of a fifteen round bout before the Eureka Athletic club.

BOXING GOSSIP

Young Erne and Young Loughrey will meet next Monday night at Philadelphia.

Tony Ross and Morris Harris will meet for the second time at Pittsburgh Oct. 19.

George Memsic will meet Johnny Thompson at Racine, Wis., in place of Kid Herman, Oct. 12.

Larry Temple and Jack O'Brien have been matched to meet at Philadelphia Oct. 20.

Johnny Conlon and Eddie Curtis have been rematched to meet at Philadelphia in a six-round bout Oct. 13.

Eddie Kennedy and Fred Broad will furnish the Pittsburgh fans with the feature event of six rounds Oct. 12.

Frankie Nell or Joe Wagner will be pitted against the winner of the Jimmy Walsh-Young Britt contest.

Bill McKinnon and Chicago Jack Robinson have been matched to meet in a 15-round bout at the Standard A. C. of Rhode Island Oct. 16.

Jim Flynn, the Pueblo heavyweight, has placed himself under the management of Steve Mahoney. Flynn seeks a match with Jack O'Brien.

Tommy Murphy, the New York lightweight, has backing to a big amount that he can defeat Jim Driscoll in a bout of any distance.

The National A. C. of New York would like to get Jack (Twin) Sullivan to meet the winner of the Bradley-Kaufman contest. Sullivan holds a win over the California heavyweight.

Mugy Scholes and Young Erlenbush may meet again. Scholes announced that he will make a try at the game in New York and will start for there soon.

After all his refusals to engage in six-round bouts, Jim Driscoll, the English featherweight, has accepted a match with Matty Baldwin to box at the Fairmount A. C. of New York Oct. 23.

Rousse O'Brien, the South Boston boxer, is in England looking for bouts. The trip across has worked a change for the better in Rousse, and it is expected that he will be matched with Splice Robinson or some other English lightweight.

Heyward Briggs and Young Jack Johnson have been matched to meet in one of the preliminary bouts to the Willie Fitzgerald-Tommy Quill contest at the Armory A. A., Boston, next Tuesday night.

POLO NEWS

Manager Mason of the Fall River team has just signed Israel Whipple as first rush. Whipple is remembered in Worcester as a member of the Salem team back in 1903. Ralph McCarthy of Fall River will also be given a trial in Fall River.

The final meeting of the National Roller Polo league before the opening of the season is scheduled to be held in Worcester tomorrow.

Manager Phelan, on his first visit to Worcester tried to locate some of the polo property used in 1902-03. According to reports he learned that some of the bladders were bleaching up on Dead Horse hill and that the netting and other fixtures were in some of the western cities, where Malachi Kittredge's last roller polo league was located. The exact location could not be ascertained, so Manager Phelan will have new equipment throughout.

Fred Jean is reported to have refused to sign with New Britain for the salary offered.

Manager McGivray of the Providence polo team has filed a protest against the signing of "Long John" Wiley by the Pawtucket team, claiming first right on the player. At the last meeting in New Haven it was agreed that the first manager to notify the league's secretary that he was doing business with any player would have the call on that man, and no other manager could approach him. McGivray complied with this regulation in Wiley's case and received a letter from Secretary Pike to the effect that he had first call on Wiley. Shortly afterward the Pawtucket management announced that Wiley would play center for them. Nick immediately filed a protest with Secretary Pike, and a lively argument is anticipated at the next meeting of the league.

THE POPE

SENDS HIS BLESSING TO THE PEOPLE OF AMERICA

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The steamer Rosedale, with 1500 Roman Catholic dignitaries and laymen on board, went down the bay to quarantine yesterday to meet the steamer Princess Irene, bringing Archbishop Farley back to New York from Rome.

The friends and admirers of the archbishop were filled with a pent-up enthusiasm that started to let itself out when the liner was sighted, but only got really exuberant when the archbishop himself was seen on deck. It was a reception that almost took him off his feet.

The archbishop said he brought this message from the Pope to the American people: "Let the people of the United States that for all they have done for the Catholic church in America I send my heartfelt benediction from highest to the lowest."

The archbishop was asked if, while he was in Rome, he had heard that the Pope would be conferred on anybody in New York. He laughed as he replied, shaking his cane at the questioner: "I know no more of that than you do."

THE N. E. LEAGUE

Some Data of Interest to "Fans"

Following are statistics of the New England league season of 1908, recently completed, and one of the most successful ever known in the league.

The Worcester club won the pennant for the third time in succession. When Manager Jesse Burkett consummated the purchase of the Concord, N. H., franchise in 1906 he purchased a pennant winner, so that his organization is really a four-time winner, something uncommon for a minor league organization. The Worcester club lost some strong battery players in Pitchers Brock and Stone and Catcher Knott, but at that was able to stand the handicap and show a very strong front.

There were 112 shutouts during the season: Brockton administered 12, Lowell 11; Fall River, 2-21; Haverhill, 17-22; Lawrence, 20-21; Haverhill, 11-16; Lynn, 12-14; New Bedford, 11-10; Worcester 21-15.

There were 24 1-0 games; Brockton won 2, lost 3; Fall River, 1-4; Haverhill 4-3; Lawrence, 4-1; Lowell, 4-3; Lynn, 4-4; New Bedford, 2-1; Worcester, 3-5. Four of Worcester's 1-0 defeats were home games. Brockton won 24 games by one run, and lost 14. Fall River, 22-13; Haverhill 19-22; Lawrence, 20-12; Lowell, 22-23; Lynn, 18-23; New Bedford, 11-21; Worcester, 21-15.

Worcester won six games from New Bedford, by one run, five from Lowell and four from Brockton. Of 12 victories over Haverhill, Brockton won eight by one run.

Brockton won 25 games away from home; Fall River, 31; Haverhill 31; Lawrence, 31; Lowell 33; Lynn, 19; New Bedford 17; Worcester 33. Lynn

No Reason For It

When Lowell Citizens Show the Certain Way Out

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the danger of diabetes of any kidney ail when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Lowell citizen

James D. Hartwell, living at 45 Varnum street, Lowell, Mass., says: "I have been greatly benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills and in return willingly give them my endorsement. I had kidney and bladder trouble and was forced to get up several times at night on account of the frequent passages of the kidney secretions. I also suffered from backache and often could not stoop or lift. My brother, who had used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results, advised me to try them and I accordingly procured a box from E. L. Maywood & Co. of New York. Since using them my back is much stronger and I have no more trouble from my kidneys."

FOOTBALL NOTES

To beat Williams this afternoon Harvard will have to play better football than was shown in the Bates game. On several occasions the Harvard backs gave the play away before the ball was snapped. This was especially true when Burr went back, apparently to kick.

Horr, the Syracuse captain, is tipping the scales at 212. He helps to bring the average weight of his team up to 285 pounds, which is above the average under the new rules.

Tad Jones calls the material down at Yale "good but green." On that basis Harvard's squad would necessitate an addition to the language as a substitute for the latter adjective.

Syracuse is to take a band to Buffalo for the Carle game, and about 150 students will go along to help make a noise. A victory over the Indians is considerably expected by the New York state college.

Hamedell, the Texas sprinter, who is credited with 9.15 for the hundred, is out for a backfield position on the Penn. team. Ramsdell ran in the Olympics.

FISH...

In order to catch fish, the fisherman needs good bait, and what is still more important, his bait must go where there is fish to catch. It is thus with merchants who would fish for business. They must place their bait where it will attract the attention of purchasers. An advertisement is a bait, but if it is inserted in a paper that is not read, how can it catch the attention of purchasers?

The Sun is read by the people, it has by many thousands the largest circulation in Lowell. Put your bait in The Sun, then it will fall in the stream of publicity and catch the attention of the fishes. Be wise, be successful fishermen. Advertise in The Sun, Lowell's Greatest Newspaper.

trials and has a great reputation as a half back.

Following is the Princeton freshmen's schedule: Oct. 10, Exeter at Exeter; Oct. 17, Andover at Andover; Oct. 24, Mercersburg at Mercersburg; Oct. 31, open; Nov. 7, Syracuse Freshmen at Syracuse; Nov. 14, Yale Freshmen at Princeton.

Harvard's line plays continue to show improvement. There is plenty of help for the man with the ball and the backs show fairly good judgment in picking holes. As shown Wednesday this was the strongest feature of Harvard's play.

One trouble with Harvard's defensive formation is that there is apparently no secondary defense backing up the centre of the line. Those who saw Princeton's defensive game last year realized what wonderful work Jim McCormick was able to do playing close behind the Tiger forwards and ranging back and forth as the play demanded.

Princeton used 32 players in its game against Stevens in its attempt to develop a new team.

Worcester academy players have been cutting practice this week and an extra call for candidates has been issued.

The Holy Cross squad was given a hard drill in defense tactics yesterday afternoon against such plays as will be used by Yale today.

The Yale varsity yesterday scored at will against the second team, taking the ball across once in the first half of the regular game and twice when the regulars had been partially replaced by substitutes.

Coach O'Connor of Dartmouth tried a new stunt in yesterday's practice. On punts and kicks he stopped the men at a certain distance after they had gone down. The first and second teams had a thorough signal drill and after signals the first and third had a scrimmage. The latter team was trying out some new plays, but could not gain on the regulars. The varsity and second team opposed each other. The first scored twice.

SHE TRIED SUICIDE

Young Woman Put Bullet Into Her Head

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—A woman, whose name is given by the police as Mrs. Mabel Osborne, attempted suicide about 3.15 yesterday afternoon by shooting herself in the right side of her head with a revolver while alone in a suite on the third floor of the apartment hotel known as Madison place, in the rear of 1098 Washington street.

The shot aroused the dwellers in adjoining apartments, who called the janitor. The police were notified and the woman was hurried to the City hospital. Late last night it was reported that her condition was serious.

E. C. Osborne, in whose apartments the shooting took place, said last night that the woman is not his wife, but his housekeeper, that her name is Mrs. Mabel Johnson, that she was about 20 years old. She has been in his employ as housekeeper. He said since he went to live at the Madison place about a year ago. He could ascribe no reason for the woman's act.

He did not know of the shooting until about an hour after it happened, when he was notified by telephone from the City hospital. Mr. Osborne said he did not know where his housekeeper belonged, but thought she came from Manchester or Concord, N. H., and he felt quite sure that she had no relatives in Boston.

He said he visited the woman about 5 o'clock at the hospital and talked with her about the affair but she would give him no explanation of it.

The revolver with which the shooting was done was the property of Mr. Osborne and was kept by him in his apartments.

Occupants of other suites in the building did not know or would say nothing about the shooting. Some of them said they only knew that the woman, whom they called Mrs. Osborne, lived there, as they had seen her pass in and out of the building.

THE BALKAN QUESTION.

There is a slumbering volcano in the Balkans, and only a spark from the guns of one of the powers involved is required to start a war in which nearly every country in Europe would be engaged.

In order to understand the situation it must be remembered that Germany is the powerful active force on one side and Great Britain on the other.

Germany has been striving for a coast line on the southern border, and looks with a longing eye upon the possessions of the Sultan. So far has German intrigue gone that German emissaries have been using money in Turkey to bribe high officials in order to create trouble for the government and lead the Porte into a trap.

Many of the European powers, ambitious for an extension of their territory, have been looking forward to the time when the Turkish empire would be partitioned or when at least the Mohammedans would be driven from the confines of Europe.

Bulgaria, that has been nominally under Turkish sway, has declared its independence. The Island of Crete, held similarly as part of the Turkish empire, secedes and goes over to Greece.

Austria, in order to get an opening on the Adriatic, takes advantage of the disturbance to annex the provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina over which she exercised a protectorate.

All these warlike movements are in violation of the treaty of Berlin under which the Balkan question was settled in 1878.

It is alleged that Russia is determined to withdraw from the treaty of Berlin, while England and Turkey appeal for the observance of the treaty and the suppression of all the revolutionary movements.

Of course, if any one of the powers signatory to the treaty should withdraw the treaty would be thereafter a deadletter, and the new issues would have to be settled by the arbitrament of war or else by a conference of the great powers and the signing of a new treaty.

France has no special interest in this conflict except to block any territorial advancement for Germany. But should a war break out, nearly every power in Europe would be drawn into the conflict in one way or another.

Bulgaria is rejoicing in her self-ordained independence while she is rushing troops to the frontier to meet the Turkish forces there being amassed.

Bulgaria has an army of 365,000 men and no fleet, while Turkey has an army of 845,000 men, six ships of war and 30,920 marines.

It is not likely that all the rest of Europe would stand idly by to see Turkey use her atrocious methods of warfare to throttle the independence of Bulgaria and incidentally to slaughter as many as possible of her people.

It would not be regretted anywhere, we believe, if Turkey, as a result of this outbreak, should be shorn of half her possessions and especially driven from her strongholds on the continent of Europe. But this cannot be done without a bloody war at which the whole world would stand agast. This war would set England and Germany at each other's throat in one of the most bloody conflicts since the Crimean war.

THE DEVIL.

There seems to have been little unanimity of opinion relative to the merits of the play recently presented at the Opera House under the unusual title of "The Devil."

Some people seem to agree with the few critics who praise it while others, and we believe the vast majority, regard it as a pernicious play without a single redeeming feature.

If, as is alleged, this play took Vienna and other European capitals by storm, then we have an insight to the taste and the moral sense of those who not only patronize but applaud such a production.

In this play the devil, or spirit of evil, is personified, the character showing the most deceitful cunning and rascality, the object being from the beginning to promote improper relations between a young wife and the young artist whom she loved before her marriage to a man who was accounted rich but whom she did not love. If the couple are in close proximity, the Devil manages to bring them together; if one is forgetful of the other, he manages to bring up the old love affair and keep it ever new. He works upon the feelings of both, at one time arousing fierce jealousy, at another convincing them that the love of each for the other is all consuming.

The tempter may no doubt portray in a most admirable way how Satan by unseen influence may effect the same object; but it is better in our judgment to leave the operation of such influences to the imagination than to equip a personified devil for the purpose of demonstrating the art of seduction on the public stage.

The only thing that could justify the existence of such a play would be the introduction of a character portraying the spirit of grace to confound the Devil, to frustrate his designs, and to inspire the weak and the erring with strength necessary to enable them to overcome temptation, abandon the path that leads to perdition and climb to the sublime heights of virtue where marriage vows are sacred and where love is pure as when it was first breathed into the human heart by powers divine.

No, the play known as "The Devil" has no right to exist unless it makes some change such as here suggested, to exalt virtue over vice and even in doing that it must eliminate much of what is now considered suggestive.

SEEN AND HEARD

Strange, and too bad isn't it, that some men who have a deal of the milk of human kindness in the heart and soul have little of the poet's love for nature? Or would you think that a man blessed with the disposition to aid, sympathize and forgive little wrongs with a smile and a pat would love nature almost to death, but I find that is not always the case, in fact, the exception rather than the rule.

Wandering through the woods with my friend John Deane, a few days ago, I remarked on the beauty of the trees, the cuteness and cunning of the little chipmunk that was digging a hole without making a particle of dirt and I just fairly raved over the beautiful colors that adorned the wood. "No artist's touch," I began when I was suddenly interrupted by John, who, turning quickly upon me, asked: "Have you $25 that you could spare?"

It's a crouch that John was "kidding" for scarcely had my sad reply reached him when he said: "No, but still you have about the best autumn gold and the wild delicious life of the chipmunk. I used to feel that way when I was a young fellow, but years have taught me a lesson."

"What lesson have the years taught you?" I asked.

"Just to not to quoth John and thusly did he poeize: 'This leafy autumn gold—tut, tut! It calls for naught of thanks, it's all right for the poets, but it's no good at the banks.'"

The best way for a lovesick young man to find out what the girl thinks about him is to marry her.

THE EGOTIST

I'd like to be an egotist and think myself a wonder—

Convinced that all I did was great, that I might, of course, do foolish things, and people might deride me, but sweet self-satisfaction should be safely stored inside me.

I'd like to think that every time I paid attention to them

The ladies would be flattered; that sweet thrills would flicker through them;

They might, indeed, consider me most stupid and annoying;

But I should be possessed of glee no doubts might come destroying.

Oh, happy, happy egotist! To go through life believing

That what he has is all there is that may be worth achieving!

I wish that I were of his tribe, un-plagued by doubt and zealous in holding to the doctrine that my critics all were jealous!

SHELDON'S MONEY GETTING

New York Sun: From Washington comes the report that dissatisfied with the money gathering record of George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican national committee, Mr. Roosevelt intends to assume charge of this department of their canvass at once and fill the party strong box. There is nothing improbable in this. Mr. Roosevelt possesses preeminent qualifications for the work at which Mr. Sheldon is charged with making so poor a fist. He has power to open the eyes of any person to the desirability of acceding to his requests. He is not averse to using this power. In the federal government he has had the machine easily adaptable to the wringing of contributions from reluctant citizens. He has already used it once, at least, with illustrious success. He knows that money needed for his, by his own proud boast, "a practical man." Besides no cry of "tainted money" could be raised against sums collected by Mr. Roosevelt. Does not the entire nation know that whatever pledges might be made or implied by him or his agents in squeezing the dollars out of one of them would be of the slightest weight or influence after the cash had been stored in the bank or spent in the progress of the campaign?

ESTIMATING ELECTION RESULTS

Fall River Globe: When the Republican estimates place Taft's probable plurality at but 10,000, there is good reason for thinking that they regard the prospects of carrying it, at all, as somewhat dubious. That is a big drop from the 94,000 plurality for Roosevelt in 1904.

AS TO LIBRARIES

New Bedford Standard: Library stacks crowded with books may be gratifying; a circulation account swelled by many figures may stand for success; but the library that strives chiefly for these is in danger of sacrificing its birthright for a mess of pottage.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Speaking of the late Leslie M. Carter, the Chicago Tribune said that he was as good a man as has lived in Chicago. "He did his full duty as he saw it. In spite of almost appalling obstacles, calumny, and suffering, which might have made a man of less courage give up life's struggle, he worked to the end. He was devoted to his friends; he was modest—so modest that only a few knew his worth. His friends and those others who may profit by the inspiration of his career will be among the beneficiaries of Leslie M. Carter."

The czarina's health is so undermined as to cause the imperial family serious concern. She has been for months in a nervous state, and a cruising trip off the coast of Finland was failed to work an improvement, so that the physicians desire her to spend the winter in the south. This course she is unwilling to pursue, unless the czar accompanies her—and this is said to be impossible.

Margaret Llewellyn Davies, writing to The Westminster Gazette, says: "The women's co-operative guild of London has lately been inquiring whether co-operative men are in favor of the enfranchisement of married women. Out of 1138 signed cards received 73 are against giving the vote at all, 113 are in favor of ratenayers only, 18 are doubtful, while 923 believe in giving the vote to wives. Among many strong expressions of opinion on behalf of married women are the following: 'Yes, the evils of our economic system affect women more closely than men, and they would become co-operative reformers.' 'I consider their responsibilities as wives and mothers are enlarged tenfold on marriage.' 'If a woman is good enough for a mother she should be good enough to record a vote.' 'Yes, decidedly; for at that time she is fulfilling her highest duties to the state.' 'The hand that rocks the cradle should help to rule the world.' 'Yes, I regard the power of women to vote as a way to amend the evils and oppression from which they suffer by the raising of their standard of life and comfort.' 'Many women are like mine—better politicians than their husbands.' 'Men do not represent the claims and responsibilities of women.' 'Only free women can be mothers to a race of free men.' 'Politicians make much better wives; I have had two, so speak from experience.'"

A men's league for woman's suffrage has been formed in Holland and the Lutheran church there has already given women a vote in its affairs.

What will the critics of the nature fakirs say to this? "Alfred Sommerfeld, musical director of the Devonshire Park theatre, Eastbourne, and Edgar Bator, the dancing writer, out fishing caught an 'oddball' says an English periodical. "They tossed it back into the water. At that moment an accidental kick sent the tin bait box after the crab. There was one fragment of bait adhering to the hook, and this was lowered into the sea, and the anglers left the rod for a time. When they returned they found their basket which they had left empty, full to overflowing with fine shrimpers, soles, rock whiting and plaice. The explanation was soon forthcoming. The fisherman, making his way up the fishing line and the net, whose life had been spared, bearing in his nippers a fine young conger eel, which it placed with the other fish on the basket. Then it dropped back into the water."

The first college Young Men's Christian Association in the world was established at the University of Virginia in the year 1858. On the 11th of October of the year mentioned, the organization of the chapter was completed by the formal adoption of a constitution; and on the 12th of this month—the semi-centennial anniversary—a fitting celebration of the fruitful event will be held. In the approaching celebration a number of the original members of the organization—about thirty of whom are still living—are expected to be present and to participate. Invitations have also been issued to various gentlemen, prominent at large as Y. M. C. A. leaders. The Young Men's Christian Association is said to have had its origin at London in the year 1844. In 1851 beginnings were made in America, at Boston and Montreal; and in 1853, it is already noted, the application of the movement to the needs of Christian men in colleges was first made at Virginia. The same year an association was also organized at the University of Michigan, but was independent of the Virginia organization—not an outgrowth of it. Some of the first work done by the association at the University of Virginia was directed towards the needs of the people in the adjacent "Ragged Mountains," celebrated by the pen of the university's most famous alumnus, Edgar Allan Poe. The centennial of Poe's birth will also be celebrated by the university this season. The philanthropic work thus begun a half-century ago has been continued, under expanding conditions, to the present, and the work of the association among colleges has become world-wide movement. In view of these facts, the approaching celebration at Virginia will doubtless attract wide interest.

$400 VERDICT

FOR MEN WHO SUED SWIFT COMPANY

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—For malicious prosecution in putting a keeper into their store when a bill which was sued for had been paid, Martin Dagdigan et al. (Dagdigan Bros.) recovered a verdict for $400 yesterday against Swift & Co. before Judge Schofield in the fifth session, superior court.

They had bought some fowl from Swift & Co. on June 1, 1905, and the bill came to $28.55. They paid it the next day. Notwithstanding that Swift & Co. sued them for the bill on June 26, 1905, and put a keeper in their store. The suit of the concern against them resulted in their favor. Then Dagdigan Bros. turned round and sued Swift & Co. for $5000 damages for malicious prosecution. A Suffolk jury which awarded them the $400 verdict found that Swift & Co. did not honestly believe the bill was not paid when it brought the suit and that they acted maliciously.

MAINE PAPER

The Lewiston Journal says:

In the annals of American business life there has been developed to a remarkable degree the question of the personal reputation and standing of the members of a concern. When it is considered that 55 per cent. of the total business of this country is done on a credit basis, the layman does not appreciate how this basis of giving credit is arrived at. For the convenience of merchants there are two large mercantile agencies in the United States whose business it is merely to report on the condition and statement of every concern of size doing business in the United States. These mercantile agencies with organizations entailing the investment of hundreds of thousands of dollars are the means of preventing a great many credits being given to irresponsible concerns, but in all probability the most important method of giving a concern credit is on the personal reputation of the owner of the business—his family life, his standard of honor and integrity are what the average business man looks for nowadays, and even the consumer is beginning to make his purchases more on this basis than ever before.

It is interesting to typify this principle of integrity and honesty to a point unsurpassed by any other in their line is Dr. J. F. True & Co. of Auburn, Me. The founder of the business, Dr. J. F. True, passed away in 1900, after 50 years of the most continuous reputation building ever known in the annals of American pharmaceutical work. He left behind him a name unsullied by a single blemish; he left behind him a remedy that is a standard of its kind in the world. The present head of the concern, Dr. E. C. True, has only maintained this splendid reputation, but in addition his progressiveness, which naturally the elder generation to a certain extent lacked, has built up a business beyond the wildest dream of the founder.

In the state of Maine True's Elixir is synonymous with good health. It probably can be found in the medicine chest of almost every Maine home. It is interesting to the Journal to pay a tribute to this concern on the anniversary of their 50th year of entering the business world. We express the wish that we had a hundred more concerns in the state of Maine based on the same standard of honor and integrity as Dr. J. F. True & Co., producers of True's Elixir.

GOOD TEMPLARS

Successful Fair in Odd Fellows Temple

The Union Good Templar Fair, which opened Thursday night in the Odd Fellows Temple was continued last night with a very large attendance. The entertainment last night was an excellent one in every respect and every number certainly deserved the liberal applause received.

Following is the program: Violin trio, Master James Gilmore, Master Willie Kirby and Miss Ruth Kirby; vocal solo, Miss Mary Bamforth; fancy dance, Miss Ethel Sharrow; piano duo, Sigrid Peterson and Lillian Lagerquist; violin solo, James Gilmore; reading, Ruth Kirby; vocal solo, Mildred Tinker; Highland fling, Willie Kirby; vocal solo, Mr. John Mear; fancy dance, Ruth Kirby, Ethel Sharrow and Mildred Tinker; reading, Bessie May Skelton; piano duo, piano duo, Bertha Dean and May Bamforth; dance, the Irish reel, Miss Mildred Tinker; accompanists, Miss Jeanette Gilmore and Mr. William Woods.

This evening the fair will be continued and another good entertainment will be given.

The entertainment last night was under the direction of F. E. McLean.

DANCING PARTY

WAS HELD BY DIVISION 1, A. O. H.

Division 1, A. O. H., held a well attended and successful dance in the Hibbard hall last night. Besides the members of division one, there were present a good representation of the other local divisions together with a number of out of town friends. Music for dancing was furnished by the Starbird orchestra.

Those in charge of the dance were: General manager, Joseph Fahney; assistant general manager, Henry Smith; floor director, Joseph McVey; assistant floor director, John O'Laughlin; aids, James Lyons, Owen Craven, Michael Hughes, Jeremiah Connor, Henry Smith and Patrick Lyddy. Daniel Higgins was chairman of the reception committee.

7 O'CLOCK MAZDAZNAN CULT

High Priestess Defends Mrs. Shaw Against Enemies

Says Stories Credited to Her in Court Were False—Lively Time at Spenta Maria Temple Last Night.

Another mild sensation having to do with the Mazdaznans, or Sun Worshipers, occurred last night at their temple Spenta Maria, in Columbus avenue, when Mrs. M. E. R. Hilton, the high priestess, in words "specific," defended Mrs. Helen M. Shaw against stories purported to have been told by her to certain ones; stories having to do with Mazdaznanism.

Mrs. Hilton said she didn't believe that Mrs. Shaw ever told the stories credited to her, and that Mrs. Shaw is of sound mind and should be allowed to do with her money and other property as she sees fit.

The high priestess gave as her opinion that the conservator proceedings now pending were instigated by relatives of Mrs. Shaw through selfish motives.

The meeting last evening was a regular meeting and Mrs. Hilton lectured on vital and having finished her physical culture lecture she sailed in to the folks, who, she declared had been misrepresenting Mrs. Shaw.

She also took occasion to remark that for the first time in the history of Mazdaznanism in Lowell, the newspapers, at the recent hearing for the appointment of a conservator, gave the Sun Worshipers a fair show.

She declared that what evidence the newspapers did publish was true to the stories told in the court room but that the papers didn't give all of the evidence. "Every word of it should have been published," she said.

As to Mrs. Shaw ever having said that Dr. Hilton, "the little master," had gone to the same school as Christ, Mrs. Hilton said: "That statement to my mind is the most ridiculous ever spoken, and I am sure that Mrs. Shaw never said anything of the kind. Mrs. Shaw knows that Christ died hundreds and hundreds of years ago, and she knows that Dr. Hilton is but 68 years old. Mrs. Shaw is too intelligent a person to make a statement of that kind."

SHORT ON LIGHTS TO HOLD AUTOPSY

Too Few Lanterns in Westford Street

What is alleged by the firemen to be due to the shortage of lights in Westford street, where the smooth paving work is being done, was responsible for what might have been a serious accident to fire teams on the way to the fire in Westford street, early this morning. There are holes in the street where the work is being done and two of the fire teams went into one of the holes. The firemen claim that the holes were not guarded by lanterns sufficient to properly point them out. The firemen allow that while no damage was done there was splendid opportunity for serious damage.

DEATH MYSTERY

Boy's Death Indicates Foul Play

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—As soon as Inspector Harkins and his detectives of the Brooklyn force have been satisfied that the body of a child which was washed ashore in Raritan Bay, near Port Monmouth, on Wednesday is that of seven-year-old Harold McClelland, who disappeared from his home at 343 De Kaib avenue on September 20, they will begin to sift down some very conflicting evidence about the boy's disappearance which came to light yesterday. This morning Mrs. Frances McClelland, the missing boy's mother, and Mrs. Sibella Bennett, for many years his caretaker, accompanied a detective down to Red Bank to view the exhumed body of the child.

Mrs. McClelland has said already that the body washed up on the beach was that of her missing son. On Thursday night she saw the clothing taken from the body in the custody of Coroner J. P. Tietley and without hesitation identified it as that which Harold had worn when she last saw him. Since the boy was living with Mrs. Bennett at the time of his disappearance and it was she who dressed him the inspection made by the coroner's jury.

Should it prove true that the body is that of Mrs. McClelland's son the detectives will be to work on a theory largely formulated through the conflicting statements made to them yesterday by Mrs. McClelland. The woman, who lives at 121 Schumacher street and is employed as a waitress in a restaurant at 111 Lafayette street, New York.

Inspector Harkins and Chief of Police of the Class-A station station information which may involve a man whose name the police know and which may give the circumstances of little Harold's disappearance and suggest a death a serious turn.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Robert Knudsen, 21 years old, of Ozone Park, surprised Judge Humphreys and others in the Queen's county court, Long Island City, yesterday by declaring that he had set fire to nine houses. He did this after listening to the reading of an indictment against him charging arson. The indictment contained two counts, one for firing the hotel of Fred Scholer at Ocean avenue and Broadway and the other for firing the store of Benjamin Sandman at Ocean and Union avenues, both in Ozone Park.

"What, only two fires?" he exclaimed. "Why, judge, I set nine houses on fire."

Knudsen explained that the was employed as a flagman at the Ocean avenue crossing of the Long Island railroad and when on night duty spent what he could spare from his work setting fire to houses and then joining the crowd in the effort to run down the freemen. This incendiary work occurred last spring. The Ozone Park and Woodhaven sections of Queens were terrorized then by the mysterious fire of that season.

"But, judge," said Knudsen, with some show of pride, "when I got the fire going good I always awoke the people in the house so they could get out and then I helped turn in an alarm and afterward tried to help the crowd find the freemen. If I was only now I think the buildings on the Avenue and Broadway would make a nice place; besides, there will be no more fires there and the buildings are of no use."

Knudsen had a diagram of an incinerator by which a man can carry an electric storage battery on his back to supply power to roller skates.

A commission will be appointed to inquire into his sanity. In the meantime he is held without bail.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Four paper machines were in operation, two being started today in the local mill of the Great Northern Paper company. The papermakers who arrived last night were given living quarters in a small building connected with the mill so they might not be molested by the riotous crowd that gathered outside. Men returned to work. More machines will be started next week. The East Millbrook mill of the same company was still idle.

She declared that conditions had so shaped themselves that the fight would have to be one to the bitter end; that the Mazdaznans though their religion is one of peace and love, they cannot stand aside when one of their number, student or officer, is persecuted.

There was quite a number of outsiders at the meeting last night and the high priestess gave them a very hearty welcome. "We want the public to come to our meetings and see for themselves what is going on. There is nothing that we are afraid or ashamed of and we will welcome all the strangers that our temple will hold."

The Mazdaznans have had circulars printed and several of these circulars were distributed at the meeting last night. The circular explains that the word Mazdaznan is from a Zend word meaning "master thought" or the thought that "masters" that it is an all embracing system of thought, word and deed that takes up the golden thread of life at the cradle, following it through all the plains of development, and the vicissitudes of human experience until the evening shadows of life gather around the individual and the kindly arms of the night reach forth to claim him and bear him on to a new day of usefulness in another sphere.

Here are a few gems of advice culled from the circular:

When sick or worried take a few long drawn breaths.

Take a sponge bath every morning and a dry towel rub every night.

Keep muscles relaxed mouth closed, and breathe through your nostrils only.

Eat no breakfast and control your appetite at dinner.

Disinfect your room by airing it and let a little sunshine in.

When retiring to bed forgive and forget the past.

When engaged in useful work music gymnastics are unnecessary.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—While she was being operated on at the French hospital for injuries received a year ago in rescuing two women from drowning, Mrs. Lulu J. Small, wife of the Waldorf-Astoria florist, yesterday received from congress a gold medal in recognition of her heroism. The rescue occurred on September 17, 1907, at Sea Gate. Mrs. Edmund A. Hays of Forest Hill, N. J., and Mrs. Allen S. Towson of 22 West Seventy-fourth street were swimming off a private beach when Mrs. Hays was caught by the tide and carried into deep water.

When Mrs. Towson went to her assistance Mrs. Hays grabbed her and the two women probably would have drowned had not Mrs. Small sworn to their assistance. NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Col. J. S. Whipple, state forest, fish and game commissioner, has been notified of his victory in a test case brought by agents of his department to compel owners of dogs to keep them out of the Adirondacks. Leslie E. Ghering of Auburn had a number of hounds running in the woods in the town of Clifton. St. Lawrence county, and while it could not be proven that he had permitted their use in the hounding of deer it was held that their presence in the woods was a menace to the deer and a practical violation of the law against hounding. The case was prosecuted at the St. Lawrence term of the supreme court before Justice Spencer of Gloversville and judgment given against Ghering, involving a fine of $200.

At the same term of court before Justice Spencer at Canton, Game Protector Hand obtained judgment for $200 and costs against Eli Berry of Windfall, St. Lawrence county, for having venison in his possession on September 2 last, which was during the closed season.

More interesting perhaps than either of the other cases was the recent conviction of D. F. Busch of New York, a steel and iron merchant, with summer home at Glen Cove, L. I., who was fined $100 for having in his possession a few days ago, in the closed season, a brace of grouse. Mr. Busch had received several pairs of birds from a friend in Wales, who had sent them over on the cable, the latter part of September. He was an innocent receiver, not knowing that the possession of the birds was making him a violator of the law, but this did not excuse him in the eyes of the judge and he had to suffer the penalty. Mr. Busch offered to send the birds back to Wales, but this would have established a precedent which was not permitted.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Four paper machines were in operation, two being started today in the local mill of the Great Northern Paper company. The papermakers who arrived last night were given living quarters in a small building connected with the mill so they might not be molested by the riotous crowd that gathered outside. Men returned to work. More machines will be started next week. The East Millbrook mill of the same company was still idle.

LOYAL DEMOCRATS

County and Councillor Conventions Show Democrats Loyal Despite Overwhelming Republican Majorities

Unterrified by an overwhelming republican majority and in striking contrast to the congressional convention recently held in this city the democrats of Middlesex county in convention assembled at Associate Hall, this afternoon nominated candidates for county commissioner and for high sheriff, and a spirit of unanimity prevailed throughout.

A perfunctory affair, the scoffers may say, but nevertheless there were democrats present from Melrose, Cambridge and other points at the lower end of the county who were present to nominate democrats even though they knew that nothing short of a political miracle would bring them success.

The county convention was called to order at 2:45 by William J. McCuskey, chairman of the county committee. Mr. McCuskey was elected chairman of the convention and Angier Goodwin of Melrose secretary.

After the regular preliminaries had been gone through Edward Gallagher was nominated for the three year term for county commissioner and George R. Duren of Carlisle was named for the unexpired term of two years. John P. Holland of Winchester was nominated for high sheriff.

James F. McCarthy, Jr., of Lowell was the unanimous choice for associate commissioner and Mr. McCarthy, one of the faithful attendants at all conventions was present and accepted the nomination in a neat speech.

Councillor Convention

The councillor convention followed and the following business was transacted:

William J. McCuskey, chairman; Mr. Goodwin, secretary.

Charles T. Daly of Medford was nominated councillor.

MEDAL FOR WOMAN

From Congress for Rescue of Two Women

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—While she was being operated on at the French hospital for injuries received a year ago in rescuing two women from drowning, Mrs. Lulu J. Small, wife of the Waldorf-Astoria florist, yesterday received from congress a gold medal in recognition of her heroism. The rescue occurred on September 17, 1907, at Sea Gate. Mrs. Edmund A. Hays of Forest Hill, N. J., and Mrs. Allen S. Towson of 22 West Seventy-fourth street were swimming off a private beach when Mrs. Hays was caught by the tide and carried into deep water.

When Mrs. Towson went to her assistance Mrs. Hays grabbed her and

LOCKED IN CLOSET STRIKE BREAKERS

Boy Was Held a Prisoner for Twenty Hours Arrive to Take Places of Strikers in the Paper Mills

PEABODY, Oct. 10.—After a stormy meeting of the full school board last night, it was decided to merely censure Miss Katherine Reynolds for locking one of her pupils, little Manuel Silva, in a closet early in the afternoon session Wednesday and going off Wednesday night to make merry as a bridemaid at a wedding, forgetting all about the little prisoner until 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

When the boy was discovered, half dead from fear and exhaustion after his 20 hours' incarceration, Miss Reynolds became hysterical. The matter was brought to the attention of a sub-committee of the school board.

This committee, consisting of Messrs. Jordan, Connors and Eshelman, investigated the case thoroughly. Impressed by the youth of the teacher, her nervousness on account of the ceremony she was to participate in and the result on her life of any drastic action, they reported to the full board last evening the facts in the case and recommended clemency.

Little Manuel on Wednesday afternoon had been caught whispering. Obeying her natural disinclination to whip him Miss Reynolds pushed him into a book closet in the front of her room on the second floor of the Endicott Grammar school and turned the key in the door.

Forgot Her Prisoner
In her anxiety to go to her home at 33 Grove street, Salem, in time to prepare for the wedding, she forgot her little prisoner completely.

When Manuel heard her hurry out he became desperate. Beating on the door of his dark, stifling prison with his hands, kicking until he kicked off the sole of one of his shoes, he exhausted himself and dropped to the floor of the closet. Soon sleep gave him momentary respite from his fear.

her little boy's strange absence after school had closed.

When his father, Martin Silva, returned from work, he became alarmed and went out to look for the boy. Not a trace of him could be found. After supper he went down town and enlisted the assistance of the police.

All the evening the police, Mr. Silva and a friend searched the fields and vacant lots for the little fellow without success.

Early in the morning he went to the station house. Not a trace had been found of the boy.

Meanwhile Manuel, who had cried himself to sleep, awoke in the middle of the night. A rustling in the walls recalled the peril he dreaded most—rats.

Naturally a rather nervous boy, his torment was terrible.

In the school room, things went smoothly that morning, although the pupils were wondering at Manuel's strange disappearance.

About 11 o'clock William Barnes, another pupil in the room, became unruly. Taking him to the closet to lock him in, she placed her hand on the door—and the memory suddenly re-appeared. With hands that would hardly obey her she turned the lock in the door. There, on the floor, huddled in a heap, was the little boy.

Miss Reynolds was hysterical. The boy was sent home and is apparently unharmed by his experience.

Mr. Silva, on account of his unfamiliarity with the English language, retained lawyers to handle the case for him. Apart from the boy's fright he had lost money and wanted the loss made up by someone.

At last the case was made plain to the father. Miss Reynolds, who is a young girl, was starting out in her career. This would blast her life. Her parents were poor and her assistance was needed. The circumstances of the case were explained to him and he consented to allow his attorneys to act as they saw best.

As the statement is true that "In union there is strength" it will help the employer because the union members will insist on skilled labor and decent wages. If the union will but do this it will be a glorious thing for a long and patiently suffering public. If there is any one place where a man should know his business it is in the kitchen and there isn't a place in the world where men more unfitted are employed.

The meeting was called to order last night by Organizer J. B. Laycock of Boston, national organizer of the H. R. E. I. A. and B. L. L. A. Mr. Laycock presided until the election of officers, and gave the gathering of about 25 persons, including several women a talk.

Frank Burns, was elected president of the union. Charles McNamee was chosen secretary, and Frank Day, was elected treasurer.

SLIGHT FIRE
In Bartlett's Hardware Store Last Night

The fire department was summoned late last night by 111 alarm to a small fire in an ash bin at the Bartlett Hardware Co's store in upper Merrimack street. The fire was quickly extinguished and the damage was not very serious.

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., Oct. 10.—The crew of 14 strike breakers, which arrived late yesterday was comfortably lodged today in the mill of the International Paper Co., where they will eat and sleep as well as work. One paper machine was started today and two were ready to start Monday.

One of them admitted to a local workman that they were regular papermakers and had been employed at Hamilton, Ont., but struck when the others did. The local strikers believed differently, however. It was stated today that recently the members of the local union voted by a majority of two not to return to work at present.

The following statement was distributed today from the headquarters of the papermakers' local 11 of this town, dated October 9:

"To the members: Twenty-six strike breakers arrived here this afternoon and have been provided with cots in the mill. The members of the local union are positive that not a papermaker is in the bunch. This action on the part of the paper company in bringing this class of help into town, proves that their case is hopeless and the papermakers are bound to win."

This was signed by the papermakers' committee.

Under the placing-out system, homes are often found for children on farms.

Sometimes this is attended with success, but more often placed at a distance from educational and industrial centres, where they are deprived of every opportunity for improvement, they gradually lose all ambition and sink into common drudges.

Even if it were wise and desirable how would it be possible to find homes for the thousands of children who each year are left homeless?

It is comparatively easy to find homes for children who have reached the age of usefulness, and for those who are attractive and bright. But the unlovable and unattractive, the dull and wayward and ungovernable are not so easily disposed of. In what well-ordered home will they find a welcome?

The ideal solution of the question lies in a system which would combine the advantages of home and institution, adding to the moral and mental training which elevates the soul and forms the character, the industrial training which leads to independence and self-respect, and cultivating the sense of mutual responsibility, which is the true essence of family life. This, however, is a question for time and mature thought. In the meantime it is our sacred duty to support and sustain the various kind whose powers are all directed towards bringing the existing institutions to the highest point of perfection.

REMINGTON—The funeral of Mrs. Phoebe Remington took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Old Ladies' home, Rev. A. R. Toothmore officiated. Burial was in the Edson cemetery under the direction of the J. B. Currier Co.

GENDREAU—The funeral of Mrs. Pierre Gendreau took place yesterday morning from her home, 121 Talley avenue, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. A solemn funeral mass was sung at 8 o'clock at St. Louis church. Rev. Fr. Jacques of St. Louis church, Rev. Fr. Trudel and Ducheneau as deacon and sub-deacon. The choir sang Perreault's mass under the direction of Oller J. David, with Miss Ida Monaghan at the organ. At the offertory, Miss Rose Anna Vigant sang Leybach's "Pie Jesu," and at the elevation, Dr. T. D. Hagnon sang "O Salutaris." Faure's "Credo" was sung by Jules Morrisette and Oller J. David, and at the conclusion of the service "De Profundis" was sung by the choir. The bearers were Joseph Gendreau, Geo. Houle, Hormanville Leblanc, Elzear Patenaude, St. Louis' solidarity was represented by Messrs. Alfred Leblanc, Denis Leblanc, H. Leblanc and Marie Gendreau. The Third Order was represented by Mesdames Elzear Jacques, J. O. Salais, J. Landry and J. Pepin. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. Undertaker, Amelie Archambault had charge.

REAGAN—The funeral of Josephine Reagan took place this morning at 8:30 o'clock from her late home, 3 Benning court, off Marine street. A requiem mass was celebrated at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock by Rev. John J. McHugh. The choir rendered the Gregorian chant and all he offered the hymn "Domine Deus Christi." At the conclusion of mass was rendered "In Paradisum." The interment was in the Catholic cemetery in charge of Funeral Directors C. H. Molloy & Sons. The pall-bearers were: Edward Powers, Owen McLaughlin, Thomas Welton, William Rossman, John Griffin and James Kerrigan.

ness venture was not a success, and Mr. Cook applied for reinstatement. According to the rules of the department an officer who resigns can be taken back without taking any examination within six months of the date of resignation.

Arthur M. Kelly, John J. McCarthy, John J. Huse and Michael Sullivan, who have been on the supernumerary list, were promoted to the regular force.

BOWLING GAMES

Several Good Contests Last Night

The Palmer Street department of the A. G. Pollard Co. won three points from the Cotton Goods department on the Bridge Street Bowlingway last night. At no stage of the game was the losing team in the running.

The second hands of the Merrimack Woolen mills defeated the over-seers of same mills at the Bowlingway last night by the narrow margin of 18 pins.

Several other games of interest were played on the local alleys. The scores:

BOUND TOGETHER

Bodies of Man and Woman Found Floating in Jamaica Bay

NEW YORK, October 10.—A mystery came to light today when the bodies of a well dressed man and woman bound together with wire, were found floating in Jamaica Bay. The bodies were found by two fishermen. Their little motor boat bumped into them as they were crossing the bay. Both victims had their valuables intact; the woman's chateleine bag was even wired to her waist, but there was nothing in the possession of either one to aid the police in identification. The fishermen turned their grisly find to Nassau beach. The bodies were taken to the little morgue at Osone park, where Dr. Nut said the bodies had not been in the water more than six hours.

The man was apparently 45 years of age. He was six feet tall and weighed about 200 pounds. In his pockets were a gold watch and chain, and $1.35 in cash, but no cards nor letters to show his identity.
The woman apparently was about 35 years of age and exceptionally good looking. Her brown hair was tinged with gray. She wore a wedding ring, her long black gloves and $10 in small bills were in her chateleine bag which was not only wired to her waist, but was wired so that it could not open in the usual fashion.

WAR SEEMS CERTAIN

Report From Belgrade Says That It is Inevitable

BELGRADE, Oct. 10.—Even in official circles it is now believed that war is unavoidable. M. Pastos, minister of war, in an interview with the Associated Press declared the situation most critical.

TO SEIZE PAPERS.

VIENNA, Oct. 10.—Austrian newspapers have been informed that the publication of reports concerning mobilization movements is not desirable at the present time and that papers disregarding this intimation will be confiscated.

ADVISED NOT TO BUY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 10.—The city today is posted with bills advising the public on patriotic grounds to purchase no Austrian, Bulgarian or German products. Many would-be purchasers were persuaded not to enter Austrian shops.

RUSSIA NOT OPOSED.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 10.—Russia has decided to oppose the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria-Hungary. Without approving the action of Baron Von Aehrenthal, the Austro-Hungarian minister of affairs, she will bow to the accomplished fact.

SITUATION IS CRITICAL.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Official advices received here represent the situation between Serbia and Austria-Hungary as extremely critical. Austria-Hungary has served notice that she will not tolerate further "provocation" and that she is prepared for eventualities.

The 15th Austria-Hungary army corps occupies the frontier along the Danube and a fleet of river gunboats is concentrating at Semlin (Semlin is a Hungarian town on the Danube directly opposite Belgrade and connected with the Serbia capital by a bridge).

SO. TEWKSBURY

IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION WANTS BETTER CAR SERVICE.

Dear Sir:

Just a line to inform you that the South Tewksbury Improvement association has made request of the Boston & Northern street railway for better car service from Foster's corner to Wilmington. The car arriving at Foster's about 5:45 a. m. at present returns from Foster's to Lowell. This car we desire to have continue as far as Wilmington station in order to get the early train for Woburn and Boston instead of having to walk to Silver Lake station as we have to do at present in order to get the 6:05 a. m. train.

We also desire that some provision be made for the shelter of passengers awaiting cars at Foster's corner.

There are other matters which will be agitated to improve this section such as better roads and the lighting of same, also mail collection and delivery.

Thanking you for the space.

Yours most respectfully,

F. F. M.

SOME BIG PRIZES

For the Great Auto Race at Long Island Motor Park

LONG ISLAND MOTOR PARK, Oct. 10.—Five miles east of Garden City and about an hour's train ride from Broadway at the middle of a clear, three-mile straightaway cement-floored stretch of the new million-dollar motor parkway in which its 2 1/2 miles outline of racing way encloses a track shaped like the state of North Carolina, there began to gather just after dawn many speed enthusiasts, keen for the sport promised when the 37 various powered converted stock motor cars were sent away in the five classes of $1000 prize sweepstakes, the Meadowbrook, 225 miles, selling at $2000 to $4000; Garden City, 250 miles, $2000 to $3000; Jericho, 150 miles, $1000 to $2000, and the Nassau sweepstake, 100 miles, $1000 and under.

The consensus of opinion of the early arrivals was that the track in most particulars is excellent. The new 3-mile section of concrete promised great possibilities for speed but for accidents as well. The hard gray roadway of concrete is but 25 feet wide and plenty of muscle and eye will be very necessary when the three cars get side by side.

Strong wire fence set 35 feet back shut in the course on either side. The repaired section of track is wider and has been put in prime condition by rolling and nearly 25,000 gallons of oil laid. The entire surface is dustless. Just before 9 o'clock the cars for the various sweepstakes were lined up back of the starting point. The race was ready for the series of half-minute sprints of the five classes. The attendance at that time was small. The stiff breeze of the earlier morning had become a wind and off across the meadows a fog began to roll up.

Of the cars entered all reported excellent. J. 17, G. 23, M. 31, and M. 33. First, the comparatively midged Nassau entries were dismissed one by one, the eight original entries. Then at 9:05 seven Jerichos sputtered off; the Garden City group began to whizz away at 9:10, seven of them. The Meadowbrook pulled their speed levers at 9:15, and the big fellows of the day the Motor Parkway entries, started on their 250 mile grind at 9:20.

The smaller cars held their own against their more formidable rivals for the first lap. N. 3 had the honor of being the first car around the course, covering the 23 1/2 miles in the excellent time of 30:53. J. 11 led the other cars by several minutes at the end of the first 23 1/2. P. 42, the Italian car, was the first of the machines in the big race to make the circuit, followed by P. 45.

M. 23, first away in the Meadowbrook, maintained its lead in the early part of the race with M. 36 a close second and the rest of the field stretched out far behind.

UNABLE TO WALK

AND SUFFERED GREAT PAIN

"This winter I was troubled with rheumatism so badly that I was unable to walk, and suffered all pain that I think it possible for any one to be afflicted with and live. I consulted several prominent physicians and took dose after dose of different prescriptions, but to no avail. Finally I thought—as a drowning man grasps at the proverbial straw—I would give Dr. Grady's Pure Malt and Rye a trial. I took four bottles only, and was completely restored to my former vigor, and enabled to attend to work with my usual activity. I can thank God with a sincere heart that I thoroughly believe in its virtues, and advise all sufferers from the terrible fiend to follow my example. Just think of it! My appetite was gone, and after the first bottle I could feel its cheering effects by becoming hungry and finally when the rheumatism deserted me I could eat ravenously. I am seventy-five years old and am perfectly well, thanks to Dr. Grady's Pure Malt and Rye." Yours sincerely,

FRANK LALOR IN PRINCE HUMBURG

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

This afternoon and evening will be repeated the pleasing melodrama, "The Life of an Actress." The initial performance in Lowell of last evening gave excellent satisfaction to a highly delighted audience.

"Mary Melrose," leading woman at the Lyricist theatre, had come originally from Grigsby's station, where her parents had belonged to the farming class. Mary had plenty of talent and so sought the great white way of some big city. She fell in with people who were anxious to turn her into the paths not primed with righteousness. They pretty nearly succeeded in doing it, but a clubman who was of the party and who had a speck of manhood in him jumped up and saved Mary from a dragging. Of course the low down folk gathered there didn't like this a bit, and there swore one long revenge. Now they hankered after it and tried to pull the game for five acts furnishes certainly a thrilling story.

A MILLIONAIRE'S REVENGE

Next Monday afternoon and evening, October 13th, the attraction at the Opera House will be the sensational melodrama, "The Millionaire's Revenge," a play that was one of the most successful of last season's popular priced bookings here. This company played a three-day engagement here last year to the capacity of the theatre at each performance, and at that time was pronounced one of the best plays of the melodramatic type that had ever been seen on the local stage. The play is based on the Thaw-Wildes tragedy, and graphically pictures the tragic events of this famous case. The company presenting this play this season is one of merit and in every respect equal to that of last year. A popular engagement and seats are now in sale.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

"Eucos in Arizona," that stirring melodrama which has been presented during the week at the Academy of Music by the Desher-Pitt Stock company, will be presented for the last time today.

The play has made a decided hit. It has been unusually well staged under the direction of Charles D. Pitt, while its presentation at the hands of the company has been such as to win very favorable comment from the Academy patrons. Its story is unusually interesting in itself, but the combination of excellent company and splendid staging has added the finishing touch.

Miss Della Dechen in the title role is delightful as always. Her part is far from an easy one to carry properly, but she has been equal to every demand. Victor Browne as the hero lover has also added to the bundle he had already won in his career in this city.

As a matter of fact the company needs little comment, for it has already made a name for itself of which it is well proud. All of the roles are taken with unusual merit. There are in the cast Harry Horne, John L. Woodman, Andrew Glasford, William L. Woodman, Miss Della Dechen, A. J. Woodman, Victor Browne and Miss Anna Abbe. The female roles are by Miss Anna Abbe, Miss Marie Doro and Miss Virginia Benson. The parts are good and their interpretation better.

The play will be given this afternoon and evening. Next week the company will present another drama new to Lowell, "A Girl's Best Friend."

THEATRE VOYONS

An all-round pleasing show with several novelties is the offering at the Theatre Voyons today. A sailor's sweetheart is a characteristically dramatic finely acted and consistent in story. "Palermo and Its Surroundings" is a truly great travel picture for it shows scenes and places of this old world city that are of the greatest interest. "The Basket Party" is a very funny comedy and has been bringing laughs all the week. "Leah the Forsaken" is a fine comedy, with clever dialogue, laughable situations and amusing characters, should not miss seeing Miss Marie Doro in "The Richest Girl," when this winsome and talented little actress comes to the Opera House next Tuesday, October 13th. Those who saw Miss Doro in "Charlie" and as "Charlotte," the Syrian wait and refugee, in "The Abolition of Man," last season, will be doubly eager to follow her progress in the new vehicle which Charles Frehman has selected for her. As "Benjamin Mommier" daughter, the chocolate king of France, Miss Doro realizes all that had been expected and more by the authors of "The Richest Girl," Messrs. Gavault and Moton.

FRANK LALOR

There was a very heavy demand for seats at the Opera House box office this morning when the sale opened for Frank Lalor's appearance in the new musical comedy "Prince Humburg," which will occur at that house next Wednesday matinee and night. This event is attracting unusual attention, a circumstance which was to have been expected in view of Mr. Lalor's popularity with Lowell theatre-goers. Many thousands of people in this city have laughed until they were tired at this clever comedian's delightful performance of "Nott," the latter in "Coming Thro' the Eye," and the announcement of his coming in a new character, expressly written for him, could not fail to awaken lively interest. That this interest does exist is not only demonstrated in the manner in which the advance sale has started but by the receipt of hundreds of orders for seats by mail and phone. In view of these conditions it is now practically certain that Mr. Lalor will be greeted by an immense audience. From all accounts an exceedingly fine musical comedy has been provided for Mr. Lalor, one in which he has unlimited opportunities to display to the fullest extent those rare gifts with which he has been so abundantly endowed. It may be said of him, without over indulgence in praise, that there is at least no better comedian in this line of work in this country, and it is equally certain that there are few as good.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Passaconaway Tribe of Red Men was held last night in Odd Fellows temple, Sachem George E. Sutherland presiding. The warriors' degree was exemplified on Jacobson's degree and the chief's degree will be performed at the next meeting. Quite a number of brothers have signified their intention of being present at the Lynn parade on the 25th. Brackets on dance work and the order in general were made by visiting chiefs from Berwick, Me., Lynn and Stoneham. At the close of the meeting a waist party was paid and a social hour was enjoyed.

Lowell Lodge, Knights of Pythias, met in regular session last night, and arrangements were completed for the first game of the winter series to take place next Thursday evening and continue throughout the winter. The committee has also arranged for suitable prizes which will be awarded to the winners.

At a meeting of Court Jeanne d'Arc, French American Foresters, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Chief forester, Miss Pauline Plard; sub-chief forester, Miss Emma Larocque; treasurer, Miss Maria Pavron; financial secretary, Miss Regina Caron; recording secretary, Miss Maria Bouchard; first guard, Mrs. Ida Poirer; second guard, Miss Melina Larocque; first sentinel, Miss Anna Levesque; second sentinel, Miss C. Gendron; first trustee, Miss Anna Levesque; second trustee, Miss Marie Levesque; third trustee, Mrs. J. Gendron; dean, Miss Claude Levesque; first chief forester, Mrs. Elodie Pavron.

HE ESCAPED DEATH

Diver Caught Under River With Air Tubes Cut Off

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—Pinned for 20 minutes many feet below the surface of the Charles river, with air tubes cut off and lifeline hopelessly entangled, David J. Curney, of Quincy, a professional diver, barely escaped heading a death roll of the Charles river dam yesterday.

Curney, after a desperate struggle, evidence of which was apparent upon the surface, lapsed into unconsciousness and remained so for over 20 minutes while his comrades worked feverishly with a derrick to raise the wooden sewer outlet which pinned him down.

When taken from the water he was in all appearance a dead man. After physicians had worked over him for half an hour, however, he showed signs of life, and last night it was said at the City hospital that he will recover.

Frightful Experience

The experience of Curney is one of the most remarkable in local submergence annals.

He was employed on the lighter in charge of Hiram W. Phillips, and was engaged in making alterations to the outlet of the sewerage conduit running from the big catch basin at the foot of Berkeley street to the bottom of the Charles river. When Curney descended, he told his line watcher to be extremely careful in responding to signals, as he anticipated some trouble in executing the work below without getting his air tube entangled.

The task which Curney was to perform was to replace a heavy coil of chains, used as weight, which had slipped from the inside of the wooden funnel, and was dangling over the end. The water at that point is about 20 feet deep.

Curney had been down about 10 minutes when the watcher, Mr. Phillips, felt the signal to pull up. He immediately prepared to do so, when the life-line became taut, and the excited jerky yanks upon the signal rope told that the diver was in distress.

Calling for help, Mr. Phillips used every effort to liberate the imprisoned worker by pulling his belt, but it was soon evident that Curney's predicament was too serious for such a remedy. John Jacobson, another diver aboard the lighter, hurriedly donned his diving suit, and was lowered to the assistance of the other.

In Death Struggles

To his horror, Jacobson found his comrade apparently in his death struggles. He was pinned under the heavy chain, and his life and air lines were entangled beyond use. Jacobson tried to raise him, but could not. Curney's strength seemed to be slowly ebbing, and his frantic struggles gradually ceased.

Jacobson, knowing that only herculean efforts could help the man, quickly signalled to be taken up. As he pulled off his helmet he gasped: "Rig the derrick; he's dying!"

The five men aboard the lighter, under the direction of Mr. Phillips, worked feverishly, swinging the arm of the derrick over the outlet and connecting the lifting chain with the end of the sunken funnel. Strenuous as their labors were the operation occupied nearly 20 minutes.

When the signal to start the engine to pull up the funnel was given Curney's struggles had ceased.

Exactly 24 minutes from the time that Curney gave the signal of distress the wooden funnel was pulled to the surface and with it the unconscious form of Curney, still tangled in the chain. His lines were unbroken and his suit undamaged, so that no water had reached him.

When taken from the uniform the diver gave every appearance of having met death by strangulation. His face was discolored and his body perfectly lifeless.

13 WERE DROWNED

German Steamers Were in Collision

HAMBURG, Oct. 10.—The German steamers Pretoria and Nipponia have been in collision in the fog off Scheveningen. Thirteen of the Nipponia's crew, including the captain, were drowned. The Pretoria was not damaged.

COMPANY K

WILL BE PRESENT DURING INAUGURATION WEEK

The members of Company K of the Sixth regiment are planning to be present as a military body during the inauguration week in Washington. At a meeting of the company held last night it was unanimously voted to attend.

The troops have a special train to Washington, with short layoffs in the various large cities to permit a hurried inspection of the points of interest. Practically the entire week of the ceremonies of inducting a new president into office will be spent in the capital city.

The committee appointed last night consists of Capt. James N. Greig, First Lieut. John Rogers, Sergt. Jerome Searle, Sergt. John Davis, Corp. Winfred C. MacBrayne and Privates Andrew J. Rodger, Elmer Bowen and Robert M. Blood.

MUST PAY DEBT

Steamship Co. is Given Five Days

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 10.—A decree setting forth that the amount due upon the bonds and coupons of the Consolidated Steamship Lines of Maine, the holding corporation of the various Morse steamship companies, which went into the hands of receivers after the financial disturbance of a year ago, secured by a mortgage held by the American Trust company, is $83,038,200, was entered by Judge Putnam in the United States circuit court here yesterday.

The decree orders also that if the indebtedness is not paid within five days after the entry of the decree all shares of the capital stock of the various corporations mortgaged to the trust company shall be sold by Special Masters John F. A. Merrill and Albert S. Woodman of Portland.

Messrs. Merrill and Woodman are named as masters in connection with a draft decree submitted to the court for the sale of the Eastern Steamship company, now in the hands of temporary receivers, and their appointment was approved by the court in this case. The mortgage stock of the consolidated Steamship Lines was ordered to be sold as one parcel, the date of the sale to be fixed by the masters. The Consolidated company has been in the hands of permanent receivers since last February.

Judge Putnam announced that any party might have until next Monday, when he will be in Boston, to file an amendment to the decree before formal entry of it is made.

NEW AND EFFECTIVE FASHION DESIGNS FROM PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 26.—We women all know that when men get together they invariably discuss the fair sex. We do not, of course, know what they say individually about us, but sometimes we find out what they say about other women, and then we are glad to think that we have a husband, brother or a belonging of some sort at these conferences to act as a safeguard for our reputations. Nevertheless it will come as a kind of shock to most women to know that their "points" are discussed very freely in the club smoking room and that the size of their feet is talked about as dispassionately as the change in the barometer or the slump in stocks. Yet from such information as I have been able to glean on the subject this is not an uncommon occurrence. "In discussing women," said a man of my acquaintance the other day in reply to my question as to which of our features was most subjected to male criticism, "we usually discuss the feet, hands and head." I was quite impressed with the remark, especially as most women seem to labor under the delusion that their faces and their figures are the only features of their anatomy which are of any importance. Under the circumstance it is perhaps fortunate that every man is not a connoisseur, for it must be admitted that few women have much to boast of in the way of extremities. The average woman does well to hide them as much as possible. As topics of conversation they may be inspiring to men, but they are not ornamental and one does not like to think that they occupy so much attention at these seances. It is a comfort to remember that a French writer once said that even in the most beautiful woman there is always one feature upon which a man must turn his head if the illusion of beauty is to be retained.

In the matter of hands the average woman, too, falls short, but there are few "points" in a woman to which men are more susceptible, while no impediment to matrimony is quite so great as the possession of large and ugly hands. If, however, a man must occasionally ignore a woman's feet and forget her hands, it is altogether impossible for him to avoid being affected by the most obvious of all her extremities—namely, her hair. Nothing determines a woman's fate quite so quickly, for we are all victims not to heredity nor yet to environment, but to our hair. If its color is indefinite and its nature scanty, we may know that goodness will be our portion here and heaven the reward of our blameless baldness on earth. A glint of gold, on the other hand, a touch of auburn or an irrepressible waviness and we find ourselves gathering the roses while we may on our earthly pilgrimage. Why this should be so it is difficult to say, but the demoralizing effect of the hair on the mind can scarcely be denied in the face of the demand of the church that every nun who relinquishes the world shall relinquish her hair. Certainly in my own experience I have never yet met a woman with beautiful hair who was not inclined to frivolity nor a painfully virtuous one whose hair was not straight and scrappy.

It is evident that there is much philosophy in this smoking room gossip, and, after all, if we do not like it we can retaliate on our critics, like the well known musician whose waving locks once convulsed a bandy legged boy at a railroad station with merriment. The musician watched him for some time with interest and then went up to him. "My hair—it makes you laugh," he said, with his foreign accent. "But look at your legs," drawing the attention of everybody on the platform to them. "You should be all ze ladies and ze porters how they laugh," he said when relating the adventure to some friends at dinner soon after the occurrence.

The New Short Skirt.

To carry out the dictum of the Polish musician—how ze people will laugh at ze new short skirts—some of which are startling in outline to say the least. They are absurdly tight for one thing and look for another as if made from two widths of material. That they are utterly impossible for women of generous proportions goes without saying. I am very much afraid, though, that we are in for a season of attenuated skirts, both long and short. Of course we are accustomed to the clinging jupes, but there is a great difference between the word "attenuated" and "clinging," and the newest skirt is a skimpy affair that is absolutely ridiculous on any but a slender and exceptionally well shaped figure.

We are accepting a curious outline all round this season. Tightly draped sashes are used frequently with the tight skirts to which I have just alluded, and also straight and shapeless coats. There is great danger that upon us shapeless garments which merit the name of "straight jackets" and narrow skirts in which it is impossible to walk gracefully. Now that I have made my little monition to talk about the sleeves of the present and the immediate future, there are two styles receiving decided attention—the very long and quite plain or very long and tucked manche completely covered with embroideries or braiding. The long, tight sleeve is enjoying a triumphant reign, and it is more than likely that this ascendancy will be of long duration. Personally I am enthusiastically in favor of the new sleeves. I find them almost universally becoming, and they certainly have the effect of making a stout woman look slender. On a well cut cloth coat, for instance, nothing could be smarter than long, tight sleeves covered with fine soutache braid, the same braid showing itself in a fanciful design on the upper part of the coat, or, again, the same model with silk embroideries instead of soutache braiding. These raised silk decorations are rapidly coming into notice, and they are wonderfully effective when the pattern is bold and closely covered. To return briefly to sleeves, although the long, tight affair is enjoying such complete success, there is at least one other sleeve which meets with the approval of the Parisian elite. This is the short, tight model that cannot correctly be described as elbow, for more often than not it does not reach to the elbow at all. It is very tight and barely covers the upper part of the arm, and it is always accompanied with extra long mousquetaire gloves. On certain women a sleeve of this genre possesses great charm, but it is suitable only for afternoon dresses, and the gloves worn must fit to perfection and must be kept up on the arms by special bracelets now sold for the purpose.

The Parisienne Shuns Queer Jewelry.

Speaking of jewelry, an artist in this line was showing me some stunning new pendants he had designed and executed for an exhibition to be held

In the near future, and he rather surprised me by saying that they would not be popular with Frenchwomen. "They are too bizarre," he said calmly, looking with appreciation at his beautiful work carried out in dull gold, emeralds and pearls. "It is the English and American woman who wear this kind of thing. Frenchwomen will put on the wildest of hats, the most weird of gowns and torture their figures into any conceivable or inconceivable shape, but they will not wear queer jewelry. They prefer the classic diamonds and pearls and rubies of the boulevard and the Rue de la Paix jewelers to the dull toned creations of an artist's brain." What he said is quite true. I have had it borne in upon me often, and one would think it strange if women were not inconsistent—above all, the Parisienne—where dress is concerned. The collar shown in the illustration is one of the dress accessories that the Parisienne fancies for the moment, and there is no better way of bringing a blouse up to date than by wearing this little piece of neckwear. As you see, it is nothing more elaborate than a well shaped and boned collar of net with a plaited frill at the top and a biblike effect of the plaited material at the base of the collar.

Smart Costumes Seen at Redfern's.

Yesterday I went to M. Redfern's to see his new velvet gowns and tailor made as well as his furs. One lovely princess robe in brown velvet was most attractive. The corsage was draped and fastened at the side with buttons covered with brown and black liberty satin. The tunic was edged with a deep brown and black silk fringe of a grasslike nature with a very handsome heading. The sleeves were long and made of velvet and black satin. Another equally graceful gown was in gray velvet with a corsage garniture of gold lace. The newest feature of this costume was the draping of the skirt over the left shoulder and under the right arm.

The tailor made I saw were without exception long in the skirt and coat, with but a faint indication of the waist line. A distinguished model showed a peacock blue cloth skirt and a long coat of the same shade in ribbed silk trimmed with black. The evening gowns I noticed had a great deal of embroidery on them, and the aim of the designer has evidently been to maintain a long uninterrupted line from shoulder to feet. These characteristics are carried out in the evening gown of yellow satin with rug embroideries shown in the group of cuts.

Hats are beyond description. They are lovely, and utterly impractical or practical and utterly unbecoming. They increase in width and multiply in feathered trimmings every week. I have seen some models trimmed in taffeta and velvet, but both look too heavy when used in such masses. The colors, too, are often unpleasantly jarring—for instance, a combination observed on a very swagger creation of mauve, old rose and brown and a morbid green killed to a slate gray is not inspiring. But, again, there is a lovely demure shade being used in felt and velvet which is exquisite. Peacock blues and black will be worn both together and apart, and golden brown will hold its own as bravely as of yore. CATHERINE TALBOT.

Unselfishness Is Sure to Bring Popularity

SO many women want to know how to be popular. It's such a simple thing I wonder they have to ask.

To be popular one simply must appear unselfish. I say "appear" unselfish because to be unselfish is impossible unless one is fortunately born that way.

Do your best to stifle your tendency to hold the conversation in your own hands. Never, never, talk about yourself unless you are asked questions, and then answer them in the briefest way possible.

Don't tell your troubles. I wish I could print this in characters a foot high.

Learn to admire other women's hats and gowns and say nice things about their complexions and figures.

Learn to give up your own way and to like the things the person you are with cares for.

Be generous about giving your help in little things. They don't cost much, and they are sometimes appreciated more than the big ones. Remember to send postals from places where you stop and bright little notes on appropriate occasions.

When you hear something nice about a woman, tell her about it, but never let her know the disagreeable things people say.

Be uniformly cheerful and optimistic. It pays. Nobody loves a sour, unhappy woman. Few people want her around or care to help her.

Don't flirt with your friend's husband. There are plenty other men in the world.

Don't be jealous even if you have cause. Go right ahead minding your own business and thinking of others instead of yourself. By practicing even a few of these rules you can't help winning friends.

You can see for yourself unselfishness and the tactfulness which springs from it are at the root of them all.

The lonely, unappreciated woman, my friends, is invariably the selfish one.

To Read Character.

How quickly you can tell a woman's character from the way she furnishes her house. There are some homes which appear all sham and pretense. The drawing room is filled with spin-dy legged gilt chairs which were never meant to be sat on, rococo tables which tremble so you can scarcely put a lamp or a heavy book on them and light toned carpets with sprawling pink and green figures which show each footstep and make the floor untidy instead of covering it neatly.

Then in other houses where the furniture is of good and sober design the colors clash horribly. The other day I sat for twenty memorable minutes in a living room where a deep red wall paper screamed next to a pair of muddy toned old rose curtains, while a deep green armchair further added to the discord.

It is almost unbelievable how such a disregard for harmony can exist.

The present fashion in interior decoration, is very sensible. All the sort, dark tones are being used for the walls and carpets, and these are both soothing to the eye and practical.

Even the picture frames are no longer extravagant masses of gilt and incrustations. They are more likely to be made of plain wood to set off the picture, but not eclipse it. As for the tables and chairs, they are substantial and plain, made to be sat on and leaned against.

There is no pretense in the home of the well bred woman any more than there is in her person.

Elegant simplicity is the keynote of 1908 in dress, household decorations and manners.

A knowledge of human nature and of the right etiquette for each and every occasion is worth more than all the book lore in the world.

Many a woman, college educated and otherwise charming, has been a failure in this one respect—she didn't understand human nature and those little politenesses that stamp one as belonging to good society.

"The trouble with the public schools," said a mother to me recently, "is that they content themselves with crumpling a child full of knowledge without paying attention to his outward appearance and his manners."

We are a scandal to Europeans on account of our abruptness of speaking, our forgetfulness of etiquette and the way we eat. Is it possible that America needs schools for manners?

Let some bright woman take up the idea.

A Girl's Hair.

I can't bear to see a girl in her teens with her hair all frizzed up in imitation of her elders. Why do mothers allow such things?

In the first place, a girl should wear her hair in a braid as long as possible. It gives it a chance to grow and it will be perfect in five years. In the second place, the contrast between a fresh, innocent young face and a rakish, worldly artificial head-dress is especially harmonious. A young girl's outfit should suggest, in general, innocence and freshness. She must have time enough to be a woman. Let her be young as long as she can.

The hair parted and the back with a stiff ribbon while the ends are water curled is becoming to most girls, and for the older ones the simple figure 8 at the base of the head is both charmingly simple and becoming. If your daughter has abundant hair let her try a moderate pompadour with a double 8. This is very soft and pretty.

And, oh, girls, don't wear artificial puffs and curls! Leave those to the older women whose hair is neither so abundant nor so glossy as yours. It looks ghastly to see these artificial arrangements crowning a pretty young face.

Some New Gowns.

The other night I went to John Drew's new play, and I never saw so many pretty gowns in my life.

Speaking of young girls, there was a charming ingenue in the cast who wore dresses simply perfect from the point of view of their suitability.

One evening dress was of palest pink. It was made with the long, semitight princess effect and set off beautifully her delicate neck and arms.

Another costume was of white chiffon cloth, with an overdress effect caught under the bust by a pale blue silk sash. The hat to go with this was of white, lined with pale blue and trimmed with white lilies and a single large pink rose.

The dresses were as simple as it is possible to make them. The lines, being long and graceful, set off her young figure beautifully.

The One Thing Needed.

What every woman needs most of all is self control.

She can't have too much of it. By means of it she can endure all things, conquer them and rise to whatever heights she chooses. Without it everything and everybody conquers her.

It makes me tired to hear a woman say "I would accomplish so and so, but"—or "I would be so and so if"—"But" and "if" should be scratched from the modern woman's dialogue.

The difficulty, the opposition, lies nine times out of ten in her own character.

There is a friend of mine in very straitened circumstances, and she wants to go to work of some sort very badly—in fact, she must. Is she getting it? No; she finds it very hard.

And why? Because she puts everything before it. She is still accepting all manner of social invitations. As a result she sleeps late in the morning and does not get to people until too late in the afternoon. She is tired all the time, and her mind is not on serious things. She won't stay in her apartment because she says she is lonely there; she is out trifling every minute of her time.

Why will she always be a failure? Because she lacks concentration, and concentration means self control.

Providence helps those who help themselves, and you have to help yourself good and hard, jamming down out of sight and hearing all your little weaknesses, just as Napoleon did. Hunger, loneliness and slights were nothing to him in his youth.

Have time enough to be a woman.

THE MOST INFLUENTIAL WOMAN IN ITALY.

Dowager Queen Margherita is acknowledged by all European diplomats to be the dominant female influence in Italian politics. She is a woman of marked intellectual force, and she has a well developed taste for diplomacy. It now appears that the Dutch in the affair of Prince Louis of Savoy and Miss Katherine Elkins is due to her distaste for the match.

THE UNHAPPIEST QUEEN IN EUROPE.

Wilhelmina of Holland, who began her reign under the happiest auspices, has been transformed by her misfortunes into a prematurely aged, pessimistic and pitifully unhappy woman. Although she is wedded to a husband who is by no means ideal, she has tried to make the best of it, but her diminishing prospect of leaving a lineal successor to the throne has saddened her.

MORTGAGEE SALE OF A NINE ROOM HOUSE, STABLE AND ABOUT 6785 SQUARE FEET OF LAND AT 517 WESTFORD STREET.

Promptly at the appointed time and place I will make a positive sale by public auction for the mortgagee, this two and one-half story slated roof, nine room house, stable and about 6785 square feet of land. In one of the best residential parts of the city sets this dwelling which in its present condition, has been set apart for two tenements, giving five rooms with the upstairs tenement, and four rooms with a down stairs tenement. It is in first class condition, has a fine cellar with concrete flooring, and if one desired it for a single dwelling it is perfect in every respect, or if one so chose to make it a two-flat house, it could be done so with little expense, as the garden in the rear well affords ample room for such improvements. It is heated throughout by furnace, has hot and cold water, gas lighting, bay windows and is well and substantially built. The stable in the rear has two stalls, a box stall and good carriage room. The lot has a frontage on Westford street of about 47 feet, and contains about 6785 square feet, giving in the rear fine garden room with three large apple trees, a grape vine and pear tree. The location is all that could be desired, being in a first class neighborhood, with the best car service in the city, also a splendid street of smooth paving. The sale will be positive, rain or shine.

Terms: $250 to be paid to the auctioneer as soon as struck off.
By order of ANDOVER SAVINGS BANK,
Mortgagee.

Saturday, October 17, 1908, at 4 P. M.

ADMINISTRATRIX SALE OF A FOUR-TENEMENT HOUSE AND ABOUT 3515 SQUARE FEET OF LAND, AT 124 HIGH STREET.

By virtue of a license granted to me by the Probate Court, I will positively sell by public auction this extraordinary fine parcel of investment property. The cottage contains six rooms and basement kitchen; is in first class repair, and rents for $12 a month.

The house in the rear contains four tenements of four rooms each, and rent for $7 a month each, making a total rental of $40 a month, or $480 a year. This building is also in very fine repair, and is at no time idle, and undervalued, on the whole, will pay an exceedingly fine revenue for the price it will be purchased at on day of sale. This is a remarkably good location for investment property, as you are in close proximity to all city conveniences, being but five minutes' walk to Merrimack square and the mills in that locality, having several lines of electric within a stone's throw, and solid investment. The lot contains about 3515 square feet, with a frontage on High street of about 40 feet, and runs about 87 feet deep. Make no mistake by not being present at this sale, for it is up for the highest dollar, as it must be sold to settle the estate.

Terms: $400 must be paid to the auctioneer at time and place of sale. Other terms will be made known at sale.

At 4.30 o'clock

Under same power of sale, I will sell a beautiful lot of land on the westerly side of Berkeley street, containing about 455 square feet. It is high and dry, and a minute's walk to the car line on Rogers street, has a frontage of about 50 feet and runs about 97 feet in depth. There are many fine houses built on Berkeley street close to this lot, and to the place of moderate means, he could not choose a better site for building, for it is a place in the country being within the city limits, and will be bought at a very low figure. Berkeley street is the second street below Boylston, off Rogers, and this lot sets but a short distance from Rogers street.

Terms: $50 will be required, and must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as the lot is struck off.

The above two parcels are sold by the order of

Monday, October 19th, at 3 P. M.

MR. CHARLES J. GLIDDEN HAS INSTRUCTED AUCTIONEER KEYES TO SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION HIS HOUSE, STABLE AND ABOUT 20,750 SQ. FT. OF LAND, AT 1131 MIDDLESEX STREET, CORNER OF WILDER, ON FRIDAY, OCT. 12, 1908, AT 3 P. M., REGARDLESS OF THE WEATHER.

The buildings, grounds, location, taken in its entirety go to make up as fine a residence as stands in Lowell today.

Setting on a strong and solid foundation, surrounded by beautiful lawns, the dwelling is attractive, with its finely slated roof, pretty bays, and alcoves, glazed with plate glass and joined counterparts of exquisite design, also with splendid piazzas and stoneworked on the east side, covering driveway. On entering from the west side there is a large reception hall finished in quarter oak, drawing room to the right finished in cherry, with electric drop fixture, a pure white marble mantle, massive gilded window caps, and the walls are covered with a handsome embossed paper. To the left a large living room, finished in this room running oak, with a white marble mantle, the windows in this room to the east side of the house, which is of oak. Leading from this room to the east side of the house is a very pretty library finished in quarter oak, with a lovely hand-carved mantel and a bay window. The dining room, on the Wilder side, is finished in quarter oak and is very bright and airy, it has a circle bay with handsome leaded glass design. The kitchen and parlor are finished in ash, and in the east side of the kitchen, in vestibule, and large refrigerator built in, reaching in from the outside. On the floor above are three exceedingly large bedrooms, front, east and west. Off the east chamber is a thoroughly equipped bath room, and in the west chamber is a large chamber under white enameled tub. It has all open plumbing, and is perfect in every respect. On the top floor are two finished rooms, also a large store room. The walls and ceilings in the main part of the house are of a large, stenciled in matched ceilings. The cellar is extremely high posted, and is perfectly finished in cement, and is used for storage apartments. The laundry is in the basement, and is thoroughly equipped with wash trays, and is perfect in every respect. The house is heated throughout by an excellent steam plant and also by indirect hot air.

The stable is in keeping with the house in every way. It is heated by steam. There are three single stalls, two box stalls, a large carriage room, harness room, man's room, a large but an exceedingly fine collar with concrete floor.

The lot is laid to a superbly graded lawn, and contains about 20,750 square feet of land, with a frontage on Middlesex street of about 124 feet, and on Wilder street of about 124 feet. It is curbed with granite cut stone, has concrete sidewalks, concrete walks, and is most desirably situated with many pretty residences surrounding it.

Terms: $100 must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as struck off. Make all inquiries of the auctioneer, whom I have left in full charge. The house will be open for inspection from 12 o'clock on day of sale till hour of sale.

SERIOUS INJURY

Jeremiah Ryan Thrown From Wagon

Jeremiah Ryan, thsmith, residing at 779 Westford street, was thrown from his wagon in Middlesex street about six o'clock last night and sustained serious injuries.

Ryan with two other men on the seat of the wagon was driving up Stevens street from Marginal street. As he came into Middlesex street an inward bound electric car struck the wagon throwing the three men from the seat to the street. There were several passengers in the car and these and the car crew hurried to the men's assistance. Then it was found that Ryan had broken his leg, and the ambulance was called and hurried Ryan to St. John's hospital. There it was stated late last night that he was resting comfortably without other serious injury.

PANSY CLUB

HELD A DANCING PARTY IN PRECOTT HALL

The second annual dance of the Pansy club was held last night in Precott hall. The attendance was large and the affair proved to be a success both from a financial and social standpoint. Music for dancing was furnished by Kittredge's orchestra. The officers who were responsible for the success of the party were as follows: General manager, Miss Tressa Oldfield; assistant general manager, Miss Helen Frame; floor director, Miss Bertha Frame; assistant floor director, Miss Lillian Johnson; chief aid, Miss Mary Oldfield; aids, Miss Laura Dresser, Miss Stasia Baldwin, Miss Jessie Buchanan; reception committee, Miss Anna Goodwin, Miss Isabella Williamson, Miss Alice Noel, Miss Nellie Dias.

STRONG ATTACK

Bryan Gets After the Republicans

QUINCY, Ill., Oct. 10.—Fresh from his conference in Chicago with hundreds of business men whom he also specially addressed, Wm. J. Bryan traveling for 72 hours yesterday through the state of Illinois and making numerous stops, and himself up as "the advance agent of prosperity."

The panic of last fall was his principal theme and from early morning until his last word was uttered last night, he hammered away at the republican charge that his election will mean business depression and failure.

Attention was called by Mr. Bryan to a statement recently appearing in a Chicago republican paper that 100 children went to school hungry every morning. A democratic victory this year, he asserted, furnished the only hope of a cure for the hard times from which he said the people are suffering, and for restoration of prosperity. He assailed Mr. Taft for running on a platform which he did not endorse, attacked Speaker Cannon and Mr. Sherman, the republican vice presidential nominee as being responsible for stifling legislation in favor of labor, and finally bitterly arraigning the president again for taking a hand in the campaign.

For the first time he referred to Mr. Longworth's alleged statement at Medina, N.Y., that Mr. Taft should be elected, and hold office for eight years, and then be succeeded by his father-in-law, President Roosevelt.

"He shall not be permitted to go into and elect his successor," Mr. Bryan vehemently declared. "With the prospect announced of his own son-in-law's election for eight years more, it is time that the power of 22 people should be used by the people."

Enormous crowds greeted him everywhere along the line of travel, and enthusiastically cheered him. At some points he was caught in the crowd, and he was forced to extricate himself. With the speed of a lightning bolt last night, he had spoken forthrightly in several instances his complete lack of considerable leniency. The points of his address here was his denunciation of the statement printed in a western paper that he wrote a hostile and hostile speech against Mr. Taft's presidency to old soldiers, and his criticism of a number of veterans.

Accompanying the candidate through the state yesterday was a large delegation from the democratic party, including the Ex-Governor of Illinois, Francis of Missouri, who is a member of President Cleveland's cabinet, and who introduced Mr. Bryan to the crowd.

Things in the business world are looking up. There is a more cheerful atmosphere on Merrimack and Central streets. Not exactly intoxicating but things in general are much better. If you have not already, you will feel it soon.

Everybody will find work who wants to work. The sole purpose in life is not to make money nor to hoard it. But it is "essential" that one be careful, provident, unselfish. There will be another "business depression" some day. Now is a good time to think things. Now is a good time to get the thrifty habit. YOUR BANK DEPOSIT CAN BE MADE TO EARN YOU INTEREST. Earning interest for you—yet always at hand, always subject to check. Does it earn you interest? And again, You should place your valuables down town in a SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX. You should go to the safest place in Lowell and rent such a box. Go where the arrangement is such that you alone have access to the box, where you only handle the box. We should like very much to talk with you concerning matters alluded to. We would like to meet you face to face—to make your acquaintance.

WE address this to YOU Middlesex Trust Co.

TROLLEY SYSTEM

For the Removal of Dirt in Street

TO BE USED IN SEWER DRAINING WORK

In Merrimack Street—Work Will Start Next Wednesday—No Dirt Piles in Street

The work of deepening the sewer in Merrimack street from John street to Bridge street will be begun next Wednesday and for the first time in Lowell the filling in trolley system will be used; a trolley system for the removal of dirt from point to point.

It is for the purpose of precluding the necessity of blockading Merrimack square with heaps of dirt that the trolley system has been resorted to.

When the work of lowering the sewer is begun an excavation will be made at one point while back filling will be begun at another and the dirt from the excavation will be used to back fill.

Frank B. French of the Carson, French Machine company, the company that handles the trolley system is expected to arrive in Lowell today to talk the matter over with Supt. Mors.

Did Live There!

Until ten o'clock Monday forenoon, October 12, proposals will be received at the office of the purchasing agent for one car of best white oats for the street department; 30 stone bounds for the street department and various bulbs for the park department.

Typhoid Dying Out
No new cases of typhoid fever were reported at the office of the board of health today and the disease is abating very perceptibly. Purchasing Agent Mackenzie who has been confined to his bed for many days with typhoid fever was able to sit up for a while today for the first time since he took his bed.

Big Registration

The total registration up to the noon hour today was 535, a big increase on last year and the registrars expect a heavy registration this afternoon and evening.
